YOUNG ADMITS HIS IDENTITY TO DETECTIVE

Ready to Return to New York to Face Murder Charge.

SUSPECT'S TRUNK FULL OF EVIDENCE

Blood Covered Knife and Clothing Tell Mute Story of Pulitzer Tragedy.

VICTIM'S BODY SENT TO HER OLD HOME

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Derby, Conn., Sept. 22.—"I am the man you want. I'll go back to New York with you."

In these words did the prisoner held at police headquarters in Derby, on suspicion that he was William Hooper Young, the accused murderer of Mrs. Annie Pulitzer in New York, admit his identity to Detective Hughes this evening.

Before the prisoner, who had assumed the air of a man who was in the dark as to why he was held, made this admission, he had been positively identified by Prof. Mac Levy, a physical culture instructor of Brooklyn, who saw Young last Thursday. The identification was so positive that Young determined it was useless to try to maintain his air of mystery.

Detective Hughes called up Capt. Titus immediately after this important admission was made and told his chief that Young, when asked, "Are you guilty?" first said "yes," and then "no," and that he continued to contradict himself.

Capt. Titus told the detective to take Young to New York tomorrow.

Excitement Is Intense.

Excitement is intense at Derby, and a crowd of more than 1,000 persons surrounded city hall and police headquarters when the identification was made. Hughes told Capt. Titus he did not think it safe to try to take the prisoner through the crowd tonight, and advised that he be held here until tomorrow and then taken to New York.

It has been decided, however, to take Young to New York on a train that arrives there about 4 o'clock tomorrow morning. William F. S. Hart, who has been engaged as counsel for Young, left New York at 8 o'clock for Derby, and will accompany his client to New York.

In the guise of a tramp Young had been wandering about the country for several days when he was arrested last evening by the Derby police on suspicion of having murdered Mrs. Pulitzer in New York. Although his description corresponded closely with that sent out by the New York officers the prisoner at first stoutly denied any connection with the murder, and even when he was confronted with a man who was formerly a fellow-workman, he still denied his identity.

Identification Too Strong.

But this evening, upon the arrival of a man with whom he was intimately acquainted the prisoner acknowledged that he is William Hooper Young.

It was to Mac Levy, a physical culture instructor of Brooklyn and Detective Sergeant Edward Hughes of New York that the prisoner admitted his identity. Levy and the detective reached here at 6:20 o'clock and were conducted at once to the prisoner's corridor in the jail. The suspected man, who up to this time, had insisted that he was Bert Edwards of Portland, Ore., was taken from his cell and met Levy in the corridor.

"Hello, Hooper," exclaimed Levy, as soon as the prisoner appeared.

There was no response, and no sign of recognition from the suspected man, but when Levy again saluted him, he said calmly: "I don't know you."

"Of course you know me," said Levy, and placing his hand on the shoulder of the prisoner he spoke in a low tone for several minutes. The prisoner said:

"You should be sure of your identification. This is a terrible crime for which I am held."

Finally Admits Identity.

Then, at the command of one of the officers, Young began to divest himself of his clothing that Levy might complete his identification, but before he had finished he was led back into his cell. Levy and Detective Sergeant Hughes accompanying him. There the officers told the prisoner formally the reason for his arrest and the nature of the crime of which he is suspected. The prisoner then, for the first time, admitted that he was William Hooper Young. He talked with the officer regarding his return to New York and expressed a willingness to go back at once without requisition papers.

While Detective Hughes was talking with Young, an acquaintance of the latter, Dixie Anzer of Hoboken, passed the cell and looked in. Mr. Anzer, who was formerly a business partner of Young, was somewhat in doubt about the identification of Young, but as he went by, the prisoner raised his head and exclaimed:

"Hello, there's Ansey."

Only Another Link.

While Mr. Levy's identification of Young and the latter's own admission cleared up all uncertainty regarding the case, the police had been positive for several hours that they had the man they wanted. Detective Peter A. Finley of New York, who reached here shortly before 3 o'clock, accompanied by Hustive A. Ernest of Brooklyn, was able, through Ernest, to establish the identity of the suspected man to his own satisfaction, but to make the identification complete the detective decided to have another acquaintance of Young confront the man and Levy was sent for.

During the interview with the officers, which followed Young's admission of his identity, he is said to have made a confession regarding the crime. It was said that Young had spoken of an accomplice, but one of the officers when questioned about this replied: "If you say simply that a confession has been made you will tell the whole story."

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—When the trunk of William Hooper Young was opened at police headquarters today there were found a sword-shaped stiletto with a blade eight inches long and an ivory handle four inches long; the bolt dozen mixed cakes which the woman left her apartments to buy, her set of false teeth,

TROOPS ORDERED TO QUELL LACKAWANNA COUNTY MOBS

Attacks on Non-Union Men and Shutting Off Water and Light of Archbald Brings Thirteenth Regiment to Scene.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Thirteenth regiment was ordered out at midnight by Gov. Stone. Col. Louis A. Watres of Scranton is in New York and Lieut. Col. Stilwell will be in command temporarily. Lieut. Col. Stilwell has been directed to report to Gen. Gobin and act under his orders.

The Thirteenth is a 12-company regiment with headquarters at Scranton and for the present it will be quartered at its armory in that city. Canvas and other camp equipage will be shipped to Scranton by special train from the state arsenal tomorrow. The strength of the Thirteenth is about 700. Most of the members are miners and workingmen.

Should there be further trouble the Ninth regiment, with headquarters at Wilkesbarre, will be ordered out.

At midnight, just before the regiment was ordered out, Gov. Stone issued the following statement:

"The sheriff of Lackawanna county has asked for troops. Mobs in that county have cut off the water and light from the town of Archbald and it is now in darkness. The steam pipes in Old Forge colliery have been dynamited and workmen in different places driven from mines and washeries. There has been shooting and some people have been wounded. Mobs are marching on Olyphant and collecting at that place with the apparent intention of moving on the mines in that locality.

"In Schuylkill county an attempt has been made to wreck a passenger train. Serious trouble exists there and the sheriff has called upon Gen. Gobin and the governor for support that cannot be given with the number of troops now in that county. The governor, Maj. Gen. Miller and Adjt. Gen. Stewart are in telephonic communication with both counties and are considering the necessity and advisability of calling additional troops."

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 22.—Sheriff Schadt of Lackawanna county at 7:30 o'clock tonight telegraphed Gov. Stone to send troops to his assistance.

The sheriff had just received a series of telephone calls to quell disturbances up the valley. He found on investigation that the situation was such that he could not cope with it and sent a call for troops. Adjutant General Stewart called the sheriff by 'phone at 9 o'clock and had a long conference with him. The adjutant general suggested that a posse of members of the Citizens' Alliance be called upon for assistance. While the sheriff was preparing to act on this suggestion he received more reports of violence up and down the valley and at once sent another urgent telegram to the governor calling for immediate assistance.

The worst of tonight's outbreaks occurred at Archbald. A crowd of 200 strikers, mostly foreigners, ransacked the quarters occupied by the 40 men employed at the Raymond washery of the Ontario & Western Company while the men were at work, and then, meeting the men as they were returning drove them back to the refuge of the washery.

Take Possession of Breaker.

The mob then returned to the colliery proper, drove out the engineers, firemen, pumpmen and guards and took possession of the breaker.

The plant of the Crescent Electric Light Company, which is supplied with steam from the breaker, had to shut down and the whole region around was left in darkness. In the attack on the breaker two men were shot, one a striker and the other a workman. Their names could not be learned.

Deputy Sheriff Miles McAndrew was attacked and shot at by a mob at Olyphant.

The steam pipes of the Pennsylvania Coal Company colliery at Old Forge were blown up with dynamite tonight. Two colored cooks at the William A. colliery were rescued by deputy sheriffs from a crowd that was threatening to lynch them.

Early in the evening Sheriff Schadt issued a proclamation calling on the miners to preserve order and closing with the statement that if the proclamation was not obeyed troops would be called for. It was not long until he became satisfied that troops were necessary for the preservation of order.

Troops at Shenandoah Busy.

SHENANDOAH, PA., Sept. 22.—This town was in a state of excitement for several hours this afternoon. Sheriff Beddall and half a dozen deputies arrived in town about 1 o'clock and attempted to arrest the strikers who have been taking coal from mine breeches on the Girard estate. The men resisted arrest and the sheriff appealed to Gen. Gobin for assistance.

The general ordered the Second city troop to the scene to protect the sheriff in the discharge of his duties. Meantime a mob of about 5,000 people had gathered in the vicinity of the breeches. Under protection which the presence of troops afforded, the sheriff's men arrested three coal pickers, but the rest succeeded in escaping. The prisoners were taken to the Pennsylvania railroad station, surrounded by troops and followed by the mob, hissing and jeering.

About the time they were passing Gen. Gobin's headquarters the First battalion of the Twelfth regiment came dashing up the street with Col. Clement at their head. As the battalion approached the mob it formed in company front and the crowd scattered in every direction.

It was the intention to take the prisoners to the jail at Pottsville, but while they were at the station the strike leaders procured bail for them and they were released.

Eleven Strikers Arrested.

HARRISBURG, PA., Sept. 22.—Eleven strikers were arrested by Sheriff Reiff and deputies at Williamstown today, charged with disorderly conduct and brought to Harrisburg. The strikers are alleged to have stoned the homes and otherwise injured the property of the men who are working in the mines at Williamstown. They were committed to jail for a hearing on Wednesday before a Harrisburg magistrate.

The miners at Williamstown have been parading all day. This afternoon the parade was headed by the Williamstown Cornet band, but tonight the only music is the sound of tin horns and powder cans.

The girls employed by the Diamond Knitting Mill Company and those of the Durbin hosiery mill struck this afternoon and joined the parade on account of the employment of non-union girl operatives in the mills.

Miners Call on Reading.

POTTSVILLE, PA., Sept. 22.—The miners at a score of Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company's collieries may return to work on the basis of the plan suggested two weeks ago by President Baer, to adjust all local difficulties at the collieries.

A delegation of United Mine Workers, headed by Peter Williams of Mahanoy City, called at the headquarters of the company this evening with a proposition to return to work if assurance is given that President Baer proposition will be carried out. They want a restoration of the price of 50 cents per prop for setting mine timber, also extra pay for the erection of sheet iron chutes and the repairing of tops and headings after a fall of coal.

A conference will be held with General Manager R. C. Luther and General Mining Superintendent John Veith tomorrow.

FOUR MEN DEAD, FIVE INJURED, SEVEN MISSING

Terrible Results of Gas Explosion in West Virginia Mine.

THIRD ACCIDENT IN SIX MONTHS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Fairmont, W. Va., Sept. 22.—Four men are dead, three of them unidentified, and their faces and bodies so badly burned and blackened that identification is almost impossible, and five others are lyingin different wards at the miners' hospital here suffering from cuts, bruises and other injuries as a result of a gas explosion at a coal shaft located at Stafford, this county, at about 9 o'clock this morning.

The Dead.

CHARLES COOK of this county, age 30 and married.
JOHN G. WILLIAMS, Martins Ferry, O., 40 years old and married.
AUGUST A. MIEL, Jamestown, N. Y., married.
SAMUEL TARQUENIS, Italian, single.

The Injured.

JOHN KEATING of Farmington, this county.
GEORGE JENKINS, Barrackville, this county.
J. J. WILSON, this city.
R. H. MOORE, Connellsville, Pa.
GEO. STRONSKEKIE, Uniontown, Pa.

In addition to these, seven more men are missing and there seems to be not the slightest doubt that the men are dead behind the walls of the disaster. The superintendent claims that at the usual hour of commencing operation this morning 16 men went to the bottom of the shaft which is 280 feet, thence into their respective rooms of working. The bodies of but nine of the sixteen men have been recovered, and the others are unquestionably dead.

This evening a force of men are searching the mine for the missing men, although it is with considerable difficulty this is being done on account of fire and the terrible stench from the burning of horseflesh.

The disaster was caused by the gas from a leaking pipe that extends several feet back in the shaft being ignited from a lamp carried by one of the miners now dead. In a few seconds after the warning that the man had reached the foot of the shaft was heard by an alarm provided for the purpose, the explosion came.

Those who were only partly buried frantically dug themselves out and then as energetically started digging for their comrades who were further down.

This is the third explosion that has occurred at the shaft since it was opened for operation about six months ago. It will be several weeks before the plant can be gotten in shape again for operation.

ISTHMIAN RAILROAD NOT IN ANY DANGER.

Herrera's Revolutionary Bands Retreating from the Line—Panther Arrives at Colon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

PANAMA, COLOMBIA, Sept. 22.—Government soldiers who were captured by Gen. Herrera at Agua Dulce and who were compelled to join his army, and who succeeded in escaping, arrived here today. They confirm the report that the whole revolutionary army has abandoned its camp near Chorrera and is retreating toward Agua Dulce. It is reported that Herrera has incorporated in his army all the guerrilla bands he can induce to join him.

The abandonment of the Chorrera camp, it is claimed, dispels all fear of an interruption of traffic on the railroad line and renders it impossible for a battle to occur at Panama or Colon.

Reinforcements of Colombian troops continue to arrive on the isthmus, which it is alleged, undoubtedly caused Gen. Herrera's retreat.

COLON, COLOMBIA, Sept. 22.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Panther, from the League Island Navy yard, with a battalion of marines on board, has just arrived here. Efforts are being made to secure suitable quarters here for the American marines.

The Colombian gunboat Cartagena arrived here today from Savanilla with 800 troops on board.

TWO MEN FOUGHT ON NARROW PLANK OF HIGH TOWER

St. Louis Crowd Saw Fierce Struggle 110 Feet Above Ground.

DEATH SEEMED CERTAIN

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.—Blinded to all sense of danger by angry passions, two workmen struggled for 10 minutes this afternoon on a swinging arm of the airship tower at Forest Park Highland, 110 feet above the ground. Several hundred amusement seekers and a half hundred workmen watched the battle, thrilled to the marrow but powerless to stop the conflict which threatened to have a dramatic ending. One of the men wielded a hammer, the other had no weapon save his brawny arms.

The footing on which they struggled is scarce 24 inches wide. There were no supports to hold on to and walking along the narrow plank at that dizzy height would be enough to make the average man shudder. The murderous passion that filled the two workmen's hearts to make oblivious to their surroundings and risk their lives in hand-to-hand struggle under such conditions, may be better imagined than described.

Guy Pearson and Franklin Beall were the only men who would venture out on the projecting arm of the captive airship tower at the height it stands to bolt an extension onto it. While at work in their perilous position they quarreled over the best method of placing the bolts. Beall had the hammer and he threatened Pearson with it. Instantly both men were aflame with rage. Each stood erect on the narrow plank, while a fierce hand-to-hand struggle took place for the hammer. Possession of it meant victory for one, death for the other.

It seemed to the crowds below that both men must be overbalanced and fall to their death, but while the fight waxed warm the hammer slipped from Beall's grasp and fell to the ground, striking against the frame work of the tower.

The sound seemed to bring the two combatants to their senses, and as they peered below Pearson held Beall in his mighty arms.

Neither would give any explanation of the quarrel. It was noticed that Beall's face was inflamed and his eyes bloodshot and he appeared to have been overindulging in intoxicants, but this he denied to his employers.

HUFF AND SHOWALTER ARE UNABLE TO AGREE

No Republican Candidate for Congress Will Be on Westmoreland-Butler Official Ballot.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Sept. 22.—All of this afternoon and until a late hour tonight Col. George F. Huff and Dr. Joseph Showalter of Butler have been in conference over the muddle in the Twenty-second congressional district. At a late hour no agreement had been reached and the Republican ticket in the two counties will have no congressman on it.

Dr. Showalter, with J. M. Leighner, chairman of the Butler county committee, Ex-Assemblyman James N. Moore and J. B. Black arrived here at noon. Showalter went to the office of Col. Huff and a session of four hours' duration was begun. Dr. Showalter proposed a number of solutions. He said he was willing to abide by the decision of the committees of the two counties, which allowed Westmoreland three terms to Butler's two, but was unwilling to let the first term come to Westmoreland. He proposed that the priority of the two counties be determined by drawing the names of the candidate from a hat.

The second proposition of Showalter was that each candidate choose three conferees and that the nominee be chosen by the old method. Col. Huff seriously questioned the legality of such a procedure, because the Westmoreland county committee could not be got together to approve the plan. The only proposition that Col. Huff advanced was that the nomination be made in accordance with the rules adopted by the Westmoreland county committee, giving this county eight conferees and Butler three. Showalter would not hear to this proposition and left the conference, threatening to file nomination papers and run as an independent.

As a last resort, Col. Huff agreed to withdraw from the contest, but his political advisers here refused to approve of this. Nomination papers have already been prepared by Col. Huff.

WAR DOGS HOWL AT VERY DOORS OF VENEZUELA

Great Britain Threatens to Break Off Diplomatic Relations.

MANY INCIDENTS LEAD TO CRISES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, Sept. 22.—Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Venezuela are on the verge of being severed. Any day, almost any hour, may bring the announcement that the British minister at Caracas has been given his passport with corresponding action towards the Venezuelan representative in London.

The cause of the crisis does not seem to be confined to any particular incident, but consists in various differences which culminated in Venezuela assuming such an angry attitude as to leave Downing street fully impressed with the belief that the Venezuelan government intends to force matters to a crucial issue.

The view of the foreign office is that affairs have reached a stage where it is impossible to deal satisfactorily with Venezuela in any matter which may come up. In proof of this contention the foreign office instances the report of the United States minister to Caracas, Herbert W. Bowen, announcing that the Venezuelan government had protested against the British flag being raised over Patos (or Goose) island, over which the Venezuelan government claimed sovereignty. According to the British government understanding, Patois island belongs to Great Britain just as much as Trinidad, and so far as known no question as to its ownership has ever arisen.

Inhabitants of the island have recently been shot or otherwise endangered through the action of Venezuelans, whether government or revolutionary partisans is not known. For purposes of protection the local West Indian authorities ordered the British flag to be prominently displayed on the island, hence the protest which the foreign office says is only one of many.

An exceptionally prominent official said: "Affairs in Venezuela are so hopelessly muddled that we can get nothing done. There is no concealing the fact that the Venezuelan government has made heated protests to our minister. The grievance appears to be the allegation that the British government is aiding the revolutionary army. It is needless to say this is perfectly baseless. We only wish the United States would take over the whole country, then perhaps we could get some peace. Of all the disturbances of the last decade the present seems to be the worst. This, combined with the attitude of the nominal government, makes us somewhat indifferent to any action which may take place.

"The Venezuelans appear inclined to be rather reckless, thanks chiefly to what I presume is the mistaken notion that Washington will protect them from the results of their own folly, however inimical that might be to the lives and property of British subjects and those of other Europeans. As we understand Monroeism, Venezuela is quite mistaken in this matter, though, apparently, the impression has much to do with her present actions."

TWO ATTEMPTS ON CZAR.

In One Instance His Train Was Wrecked.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—In a dispatch from St. Petersburg the correspondent of the Daily Express reported an attempt to raid the train upon which the czar traveled from Kursk.

Rails were removed on the two routes which the czar might travel; in one instance the plot was discovered and in the other the train was wrecked. The czar reached St. Petersburg safe.

Persecution to Continue.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—In a dispatch from Vienna the correspondent of the Times says he fears there is little doubt that the Roumanians have resolved to continue the persecution of the Jews, in order to compel them to seek an asylum abroad.

PITTSBURGH TO PANAMA WILL BE A REALITY

This City May Be a Port of Entry in Near Future.

MANUFACTURERS PREPARING FOR IT

Industrial Interests to Construct Craft That Can Be Sent to Foreign Ports.

OCEAN-GOING BARGES ARE BEING PLANNED

The great industrial interests of Pittsburgh have experts at work to arrange for construction of craft which, loaded in the Iron City, may be sent to the markets of the world opened by the isthmian canal. All is in anticipation that the time will come when the Ohio river will have a channel of at least nine feet of water the year round. Then the motto, "Pittsburgh to Panama," will be an accomplished fact.

The American Bridge Company has its engineering department at the Fifty-first street office designing oil barges for the producers of Texas, which will take the oil from Port Arthur, through the gulf and up the Mississippi river as far as Memphis. This point is regarded as a dividing line between the coal trade of the north and the oil trade of the south. Just what draft these barges will provide is undetermined. The plans are being made under the direction of Chief Engineer Paul Wolfel of Philadelphia.

Officials of the company spoken to yesterday said that in the erection of the great steel ship and barge yards at Economy provision was made for steel craft to go anywhere, and that the construction of the barges to be loaded to eight feet at Pittsburgh and carried through the gulf and the isthmian canal could readily be done.

The Largest Steel Barge.

This company is constructing at Economy and will launch from there in October what is regarded as the largest steel barge ever erected for river traffic. It is to be used for the Lockwood Towing Company of St. Louis, to be used for transferring cars across the Mississippi river. The barge will be 440 feet long and 45 feet wide and when loaded to its capacity will draw four and one-half feet of water. A similar barge of smaller proportions built by the American Bridge Company is now in use by the St. Louis concern. This led to the order for a second one, which is costing for the shell construction about $45,000, and with its tracks and other deck equipment placed will cost the towing company about $55,000.

The American Bridge Company is constructing a fleet of steel barges to be used in the oil trade along the Schuylkill river. These are being built at the Pencoyd works and will take their loads of oil from the Standard Oil Company pipe line.

In its shipbuilding yards at Economy the American Bridge Company contemplates the erection of a fleet of barges which will be used to handle freight to and from the plants of the United States Steel Corporation along the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers. It sometimes takes three and more days to have freight taken from Homestead, say, to the Keystone works at Fifty-first street. The barge transfer system with the Allegheny river properly navigable, will be a boon as a time-saver and in the cost of transportation.

Building an Oil Barge.

The Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company has in connection with its new extensive works at Leetsdale part of the great shipyard to be used for the construction of steel barges and hulls. An oil barge of new design is now being built there, but this will not be launched in the river. It will be taken to Philadelphia in sections and there erected for a coast oil trade. The company in its shipyards contemplates the construction of ocean-going barges, and an officer of the company said yesterday that there is no question but that barges loaded to eight feet in Pittsburgh could be sent through the gulf and the new isthmian canal and beyond to the markets of the Occident.

The James Rees & Sons Company have constructed much of smaller craft and some of them have been launched in Pittsburgh and sent loaded through the gulf for use on rivers in Mexico, Central and South America and some of the southern states. David A. Rees of this company said yesterday:

"It would be no trick at all to make Pittsburgh a port of entry, with an Ohio river low-water channel of nine feet. Barges could be loaded to near eight feet and so cross the gulf and the Pacific ocean, if it was not desired to use craft of heavier draft and add to the load at some port en route. We have several times demonstrated that craft of exceedingly low draft may be taken across the gulf. About three years ago we sent a steel-hull steamer, 90 feet long and loaded to three feet, to Cuba. With our present limited yards we have no immediate intention of going into the construction of the very large barges."

Contracts for Boats.

The James Rees & Sons Company now have contracts which will crowd shipbuilding facilities for about nine months. Included are steel hulls for three boats. These contracts aggregate $200,000. One of these boats is for the government, to be used as a snag and repair boat near Pittsburgh; another to ply on the Magdalena river in the United States of Colombia, and the third to be used in Manchuria. The last two are to be freight and passenger craft, with light draft of 12 to 14 inches, and which loaded will draw about four feet.

Capt. W. B. Rodgers, who is the Pittsburgh leader in the movement to have the Ohio river permanently improved, is very enthusiastic on the subject, and especially the benefits that will be derived by Pittsburgh interests upon the completion of the isthmian canal. Capt. Rodgers says that ocean-going craft can be loaded at Pittsburgh and shipped to the markets of the world without breaking bulk. Said he:

"The ocean-going barge is in a class peculiar to itself. The whaleback barge, I understand, is not as popular as it was; but if the government gives us a nine-foot stage of water on the Ohio river these barges can be brought to Pittsburgh and loaded to a depth of eight and one-half feet. This can be done with any kind of a barge. Cairo in a few years to come will be the great distributing point for Pittsburgh products to the south and northwest on account of its being at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Barges can be loaded out there to a depth of 14 feet for seven or eight months out of the year. Coal can be held at Cairo for foreign shipment and the monster barge capable of carrying 3,000 tons will surely be built if the government only provides the channel. These barges can be constructed as large as the proposed new lock to be built at dam No. 2 on the Monongahela river. It will be 56 feet wide and 360 feet long. Such craft could be loaded at Pittsburgh with 2,000 tons of freight and it would be an easy matter to load them out when deeper water is reached.

To Meet the Demands.

"The American Bridge Company and the Riter-Conley Manufacturing Company are both constructing plants on the Ohio river to meet the demands of this class of trade. The ocean-going barge could come to Pittsburgh on its own power, if owners equip them with machinery. There will be no trick to do this. It will pay to build this style of craft and operate them out of this city. The facilities for handling freight at New Orleans are such that it would be best to bring the sea-going craft to Pittsburgh to load, instead of rehandling the freight in the south. All that is necessary is to load them out, when they get into sufficient water. We can ship anything made in the Monongahela or Ohio valley to any part of the world, for there is a market for the goods and the completion of the Isthmian canal will open our avenues of commerce."

"The Ohio and Monongahela valleys will rule the markets of the world, upon the completion of the Isthmian canal, providing the government improves the Ohio river with a system of locks and dams," said D. J. Sinclair of Steubenville, O., to a Gazette reporter. Mr. Sinclair is a prominent resident of that thriving Ohio town. He is a banker and manufacturer, a man of wealth and influence and has given the subject careful study for years. "Every article made in his valley," said he, "can be loaded on ocean-going barges and shipped to the markets of the entire world, without breaking bulk. If the government will just let go some of her $600,000,000 gold surplus and expend it on public improvements, it will do more to strengthen the manufacturing position of this country for all time to come than anything that has ever been done.

"In Steubenville we manufacture steel products, tableware, glassware, pottery and tumblers and there is a market for this the world over. The Ohio and Monongahela valleys are bound to become supreme in the markets of the world. There is the west coast of South America, China, India, Japan, Australia and South Africa yet to develop and they must have our goods if they are going to prosper.

Can Knock Out Australian Coal.

"Upon the completion of the isthmian canal, there is no question but we can knock out Australian coal. Why should California pay $12 and $15 a ton for it when we can ship it there for $4 and $5 dollars less. We can send our coal to Africa, to Great Britain and all of our own possessions and sell it at a profit for less money than the foreigners charge.

"If the government of the United States is not willing to improve the Ohio river with a system of locks and dams I would like to have the privilege of organizing a company to do it. I will guarantee to raise $40,000,000 or more, if necessary, to complete the work and will also agree to get the amount within 30 days.

"But we do not want private capital to own the river. It is God's highway, put there by His hands for the good of the people, and it is the duty of congress to appropriate the money to improve it.

"New Orleans in the next 20 years will be the greatest port in the world. If I was a land speculator I would purchase river frontage at New Orleans, for it is going to be the greatest export city in the entire universe and the building of the isthmian canal is going to make it so. Let congress appropriate the money to build the Ohio river dams and you will see the greatest manufacturing valley in any country, within the next few years. There is a market the world over for everything made in these valleys, and if we are given the water transportation, we can load our products at our mill sites and send them to their destination, without disturbing the original package until safely delivered."

YOUNG VETERANS HEARTILY GREET THE PRESIDENT

He Tells Them of Knotty Problems Left by Spanish-American War.

CUBA MUST BE GIVEN RECIPROCITY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Detroit, Sept. 22.—President Roosevelt's two days' visit to Detroit came to an end this evening at the conclusion of a banquet tendered him in Light Guard armory by the Spanish war veterans, the opening of whose third annual reunion he attended this morning. Nearly 800 men sat at tables on the floor of the big armory and the galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity by brilliantly gowned women and their escorts. The armory was decorated in green and white maple branches and electric lights were everywhere.

The banquet was the culmination of an extremely busy day for the president. At 11 o'clock he drove to Light Guard armory and attended the opening session of the third annual reunion of Spanish war veterans. He was given a tumultuous welcome by the soldiers, and his speech was enthusiastically received. He eulogized the veterans of the Spanish war for their deeds and declared that we have no apologies to make for the war in Cuba or in the Philippines. As a result of the latter, he said, we will give the Filipinos life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness such as they never knew before.

Ride on River.

President Roosevelt drove from the armory to the steamer Tashmoo, on board of which he spent three hours riding on the river. Every steam craft on the river saluted the Tashmoo with ear-splitting blasts of the whistle, and the steamer Yantic, U. S. N., fired a presidential salute of 21 guns as the Tashmoo left her wharf. During the ride the steamer went far enough into Canada so that the president was for a short time in King Edward's domain.

The president returned at 3 o'clock and participated in the parade of the Spanish war veterans, which he later reviewed. He was given a great popular ovation during the entire afternoon.

When the president rose to begin his address at the banquet, which was the first of the evening, he received an ovation. The men on the floor stood up and cheered again and again, while the clapping of hands from the gallery was like the crackle of musketry. The president spoke as follows:

Only a Small War.

The first engagement I made this year was when I accepted the invitation so kindly extended to me by the mayor of this city to speak on this occasion, for I felt that coming from him as it did, and extended in such a way, I could not refuse.

The war with Spain, though from it such great consequences have flowed, was itself but a small war; and in the presence of the veterans of the Grand Army all we can say is that we hope we of the younger generation showed a desire to come up to the standard set by our fathers, the men of '61 to '65. Yet, though the actual deeds done were trivial when measured with the giant struggle in which Grant and Sherman and Thomas and Sheridan and Farragut and Porter won imperishable renown, it still remains true that the way in which these deeds were done was of good omen to the country. It emphasizes in peculiar fashion the fundamental unity of our people. It brought home to us what should be the ever present fact in our minds that a good deed done by any American is put down to the credit of all Americans, and that therefore conversely, no act of wrong doing can be performed by any of our number without the evil effects being felt to a greater or less degree by all of us.

Leaves Hard Tasks Behind.

The war itself was an easy one. The tasks left behind us, though glorious, have been hard. You, the men of the Spanish war, you and your comrades in arms who fought in Cuba and Porto Rico and in the Philippines, won renown for the country, added to its moral grandeur and to its material prosperity, but you also left duties to be done by those who came after you. In Porto Rico the duty has been merely administrative, and it has been so well done that very little need be said about it. In the Philippines the problem was one of extreme difficulty. But after three years of bitter fighting, peace has been won by the valor of our soldiers and civil government has been introduced, so that the islanders have now greater opportunities for life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness than ever they have enjoyed before during their recorded history.

Last week I ordered a taking of the census of the islands and two years hence, according to the law of congress, the first steps will be taken in the direction of giving the Philippine people a legislative assembly. No other Oriental country in the possession of an alien power—indeed, no Oriental country at all, save only Japan—has been given any such measure of self government and personal freedom as we have already given to the Filipinos.

Kept Faith With Cuba.

With Cuba the matter is different. We pledged ourselves solemnly at the outbreak of the war with Spain to give to Cuba independence. The world at large sneered at the pledge and even some of our own people scoffed at the thought that we intended to keep it. But we have kept it in good faith and with a keen regard for the welfare of the Cubans. We did not turn Cuba loose to sink into a welter of anarchy. We first administered the affairs of the island until order had been brought out of chaos, until the cities had been cleaned, the courts purified, an educational system started and a just and efficient government introduced. Then we turned the new republic over to the hands of those whom its people had elected as its servants and bade it God-speed on its journey of independence.

But neither our duty to nor our interest in the island has come to an end with the establishment of its independence. Cuba's immediate proximity to the United States rendered its well-being of such interest to us that we were forced to interfere in its interest by force of arms. For the same reason its future welfare cannot be but a matter of grave concern to us. We do not desire Cuba to stand toward any other nation in the same relations of intimate friendship and alliance that we desire to see it adopt toward us.

Necessity for Reciprocity.

It must, therefore, be in a certain sense a part of our international political system, and it accepted this position when it accepted the Platt amendment. But it is out of the question for us to expect that it will assume such a position toward us with regard to international politics without at the same time sharing somewhat in the benefits of our economic system. It was for this reason that President McKinley urged and that I have since urged and shall continue to urge the need of establishing closer relations with Cuba by reciprocity. We urge reciprocity because it is for our interests to control the Cuban market, because we are bound to place the Cubans on a peculiar standing economically when they consent, in our interests as well as their own, to assume a peculiar status internationally, and because it is fitting for a great and generous republic to stretch out a helping hand toward a feebler sister just starting to tread the path of independence.

The case stands by itself, and there can be no other like it. Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines have relations of varying intimacy to us; and they have either been admitted within our economic system or have been given some of the benefits thereof. Cuba, though independent, also stands in a peculiar position towards us and should receive in similar fashion a measure of benefit from and partial inclusion within our system.

Not an Ordinary Case.

The questions that ordinarily concern us as of prime weight in a tariff matter do not come in here as of primary importance. We cannot choose what the articles are which Cuba shall export. Doubtless very many of us would prefer for reasons connected with our own tariff policy that her inhabitants were engaged in different industries from those which they as a matter of fact now follow; just as doubtless others of our people would prefer that the market offered by Cuba was one for other things than those which she actually demands. But we can neither determine the wants nor the productions of Cuba. We must accept them as they are and we must remember that in dealing with this island, especially now that we are about to build the isthmian canal, and our interests in the West Indian waters have become so great, we must shape our policy with a far-sighted regard for the future and for the interest and honor of the nation as a whole.

I do not believe a particle of harm will come to any American interest in the adoption of a reasonable measure of reciprocity with Cuba. I am certain that the adoption of such a measure will be in the interest of our people as a whole. Above all, while fully acknowledging the high-mindedness and moral sincerity of those of my associates with whom on this point I differ, I yet feel most strongly that by every consideration of a generous and far-sighted public policy we are bound to prove to Cuba that our friendship with her is of a continuing character and that we intend to aid her in her struggle for the material well-being which must underlie healthy national development."

Reviews British Troops.

This afternoon President Roosevelt participated in and afterward reviewed the military parade of the Spanish war veterans.

The first division was composed exclusively of military, the battalion of the Fourteenth United States infantry stationed at Fort Wayne, the first regiment of the Michigan National Guard, and the Twenty-first regiment of the Essex Fusiliers from Windsor, Ontario, commanded by Lieut. Col. Bartlet. For the first time a president of the United States reviewed a regiment of British soldiers. The red coats and white helmets of the Canadians were in sharp contrast to the sober blue of the United States troops as they swung past at a smart pace, their splendid band playing "The British Grenadiers." They received an especially cordial salute from the president and throughout the afternoon the "red coats" were cheered to the echo by the crowds. Civilian bodies followed. It was after 7 o'clock and the street lights were on when the review ended.

Ovation for Clara Barton.

The president addressed the Spanish war veterans at Light Artillery armory in the afternoon on the results of the war and the duties of citizenship. He was received with the greatest enthusiasm. At the close of his address Gen. Ursell, after calling for three more cheers for President Roosevelt, told the soldiers that their good angel was present, and then said:

"I will now detail Comrade Roosevelt to escort Miss Clara Barton to a seat on his left hand." Amid thunderous cheers the president stepped across the stage and escorted Miss Barton to a chair at his left.

WHERE TO BUY A GOOD PIANO.

If you have not recently visited Hamilton's music house you have little or no conception of the magnitude or beauty of the stock of pianos at this well known establishment. Mr. Hamilton has been catering to the Pittsburgh public for many years, but never before did he show so many attractive instruments at any one time. Besides, he is offering special inducements to those who select instruments now, so as to lessen, as much as possible, the pressure of business during the coming weeks. The fact is, at this present month this way typifies the calm which usually precedes a storm. There is a lull in the music business which enables everybody to have more time to look after the bargains. Mr. Hamilton is desirous of receiving as many orders as possible during this period, therefore prices are reduced.

It is important, however, that customers should remember that these are SPECIAL PRICES for the time being and that they CANNOT prevail much longer. If you are alert to your own interests you will surely avail yourself of this opportunity. For you are aware, of course, of the character of instruments sold at Hamilton's—only the best makes are ever sold at this establishment. Just think of this list, headed by the incomparable A. B. Chase, the most artistic piano on the market today. Then there is the J. & C. Fischer, noted for its brilliant vibrant quality. And the Schumann, the best of all moderate priced pianos. The list is a long one and also includes the Hamilton, the Smith & Barnes and numerous other reliable pianos.

You don't need to pay a high price at Hamilton's to secure a good piano. You can buy a good instrument here for $200 and upward, and pay for it in easy weekly or monthly payments. If you wish to part with an old instrument it will be accepted as part payment on a new one.

Write if you cannot call.

WAR THREATENS AMONG VETERANS IN INDIANAPOLIS

Adjt. Gen. Liller Calls Col. Russell B. Harrison a Liar.

HURRIED ACTION STOPS FISTIC BATTLE

Auditing of Accounts Brings on Trouble—Court-Martial Is Defied and Civil Courts Are Likely to Get Case.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 22.—The differences that have existed between high officers of the Spanish-American War Veterans culminated at the second session of the encampment this afternoon in a sensational incident.

During the course of a discussion on the validity of certain records of the last encampment, Adjutant General Liller, who was removed from office Sunday night, gave Col. Russell B. Harrison the lie direct. The latter made a dash for the deposed official, but was caught and held.

Adjt.-Gen. Liller read the minutes of the Buffalo meeting. All through the record Col. Harrison was referred to as "Mr. Harrison." This angered the majority of the delegates, as the by-laws expressly state that all members shall be referred to as "comrades."

The encampment by this time was much excited. Above the noise a delegate moved that the minutes of the last encampment be amended so as to eliminate the word "Mr." before Col. Harrison's name and that the word "comrade" be substituted. This motion carried by acclamation.

Comes Out of Audit.

At the last encampment Col. Harrison was appointed chairman of the auditing committee to go over the accounts of Adjt.-Gen. Liller, and after the latter had finished reading them he arose and said that the minutes of the last meeting had been so changed that he was unable as chairman of the committee to proceed under the resolution. Adjt.-Gen. Liller arose and exclaimed:

"Do you mean to say that I falsified the record?"

"I mean just that and nothing more," replied Col. Harrison.

"You are a liar!" exclaimed Liller.

Col. Harrison jumped from his seat and made a dash toward the deposed adjutant general. He had not gone 10 feet before he was grabbed by Col. Hutchins and Mr. Sauer.

A moment after Mr. Liller called Col. Harrison a liar Charles H. Madden of this city arose and, addressing Col. Harrison's accuser, exclaimed:

"I'll smash your head."

Col. Hutchins, addressing the chair and the encampment, said in a most dramatic manner:

"Gentlemen, let this trouble blow over. Let us have peace. We are comrades—brothers; let us show it."

Col. Harrison Explains.

After the committee on credentials had reported Col. Harrison was recognized by the chair.

"It is with much timidity that I enter into a statement of the work of Mr. Liller in the convention at Buffalo," he said. "I was chairman of a committee to audit the accounts of the adjutant general. The reports of the adjutant general were in such an equivocal condition that I was unable to do much with them—in fact, their form made it necessary that they should be examined by other committees."

Acting Assistant Adjt. Gen. Frank S. Clark read an order directing Liller to appear before the council of administration, which in army parlance is known as a court-martial, to answer to certain serious charges that have been preferred against him.

Liller arose in his seat and briefly declined to appear before the council. He said that the matter had been given such prominence that he had been placed in a bad light before the country, and in consequence had decided to settle the matter in the courts.

GIFT FROM CARNEGIE.

Presents a Pipe Organ to a Monongahela Church.

MONONGAHELA, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—A letter was received this morning by the Rev. D. L. Johnson, pastor of the Methodist church, announcing that Mr. Andrew Carnegie has granted a pipe organ to the congregation. The application was made some time ago by the board of trustees on behalf of the church, but as the church debt was still standing the request was refused.

Since that time the indebtedness has been paid and the great giver announces his determination to accede to the request. This is good fortune for the church, and the congregation is well pleased with the prospect.

NEW YORK SLATE ALL FILLED UP BUT ONE PLACE

Leaders Still in Doubt on Man to Nominate for Secretary of State.

PLATFORM TO INDORSE ROOSEVELT

Will Also Recognize Obligations of United States to Cuban Republic—Agrees With President on Solution of Trust Problem.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 22.—The Republican state convention will nominate the following ticket: For governor, B. B. Odell, Jr., of Orange; for lieutenant governor, George R. Sheldon of New York City; for secretary of state, in doubt; for comptroller, N. B. Miller of Cortland; for treasurer, J. B. Wickser of Erie; for engineer, E. A. Bond of Jefferson; for attorney general, H. B. Coman of Madison; for judge court of appeals, William E. Werner of Monroe.

The platform as drawn for presentation to the committee on platform tomorrow will have the following recommendations:

The Philippines—The following out of the present policy of education, with the addition of free elections and establishment of a government which shall correspond to the government of the states of the union, but with the continuation of espionage and military control until the native forces of civilization are in full and easy control, together with free schools, liberty of conscience and religion and of thought and speech.

Cuba—A recognition of the obligations of good neighborliness, and exceptional advances for the sale of their produce in this country.

Tariff—The following out of the policy of protection to American industries so long as the wages paid in foreign countries for the same kind of labor are less than enough to maintain a workingman's family in comfort. Protection to the home markets for home products on the ground that a revision of the tariff will not destroy the trusts.

Trusts—A recognition that while every business man and corporation will pursue a financial advantage as far as it can be made to go, the Republican party, while not discouraging such effort, will see that it is not carried to unlawful extremes. It will call attention to the Sherman act, designed to reach features of business combinations unlawful and injurious, and it will promise to apply such remedy for actual evils as will not interfere at the same time with the business development and prosperity of the country.

National administration—A thorough and strong indorsement of the national administration and an indorsement of the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt, complimenting him upon progressive ideas, his ardent patriotism and his lofty integrity.

YOUNG ADMITS HIS IDENTITY

with one tooth missing, her skirts and under clothing, a switch of light colored hair, a pair of gloves, the missing bed clothing from Young's apartments, two men's opera hats, a pair of blue and white corsets, the woman's garters, black silk skirt, polka dot waist, slippers and hat, three pairs of men's shoes, all well worn; Young's trousers, coat, vest and undershirt, a piece of wrapping paper on which was printed "I. Salomon, 305 First street, Hoboken, outfitters," some red paper, a broken comb, hair pin, a bent safety pin, a newspaper and a newspaper clipping of September 10.

Covered With Blood.

As soon as the lid of the trunk was lifted it could be seen that the inside was covered with blood. The knife or stiletto was about the first article lifted out. The blade was covered with blood its whole length. After that each article of clothing was lifted out and carefully examined. The woman's skirts, underclothes, a couple of handkerchiefs and several small pieces of rags were found to be saturated with blood, as was the bed clothing from Young's room. Young's trousers, which showed blood stains, were wet, and Assistant District Attorney Garvan said it appeared to him as if Young, after the murder, had washed his trousers and packed them into the trunk without letting them dry. The man's undershirt was also covered with blood stains.

William F. S. Hart, who has been retained to defend William Hooper Young, received today the following cablegram from John W. Young, the father of William Hooper Young:

PARIS, Sept. 21, 1902.

To William Hooper Young:

I hear you are suspected of a heinous crime, and being sought for. I advise you to surrender to the officers of the law, facing the charge like a man. I have engaged counsel for your defence. No one knowing you can believe you guilty. You owe it to yourself, your family and the religion you forsook to prove your innocence. If you take this course we will stand by you.

JOHN W. YOUNG.

The body of Mrs. Pulitzer was shipped today from the Jersey City morgue to Perth Amboy, N. J., where her parents live.

ALLEGED BURGLAR CAUGHT.

Prisoner Is Charged With Postoffice Robbery at Irondale, O.

WELLSVILLE, O., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—John Simpson, who is wanted by the United States authorities for the burglary of the postoffice at Irondale, near this city, was caught this morning by United States Marshal J. S. McCallister of Marietta and Officer Howard Davis of the local police force, hiding in a barn about one mile back of Chester, W. Va.

The burglary of the Irondale postoffice occurred on the night of September 12 and aside from $300 or $400 over $100 worth of stamps were secured. Simpson has served time for burglary in this city. He was taken this evening to Steubenville.

UNCLE DID NOT RECOGNIZE HER

PREPARED BODY FOR BURIAL.

It Proved to Be That of His Seven-Year-Old Niece Killed by Car.

Annie Volk, aged seven years, a daughter of Charles Volk, a McKeesport hotelkeeper, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon met instant death under the wheels of a trolley car in front of her parents' home at Fifth and Locust streets, McKeesport. The mangled form was placed upon the car and carried to the undertaking rooms of Philip Volk, the little girl's uncle. The child was so badly crushed that the undertaker had prepared the body for burial without recognizing it as that of his niece.

In the meantime, the father of the girl had been notified of her tragic fate and went to his brother's establishment. The undertaker was almost prostrated when told that the remains he had just placed in a coffin were those of his little niece, whom he had seen playing in the street but a short time previous.

Edward Speer, a motorman who was riding on the front platform of the car, made a heroic attempt to save the victim's life, by reaching around the cab, but failed, and narrowly escaped injury himself.

The girl, with several companions, was returning from school. Her playmates ran across the tracks of the Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Connellsville traction line and the girl, in attempting to catch up with them, passed directly in front of car No. 124, which was running at a high rate of speed. Motorman Joseph Fleck was in charge of the car and Speer was riding in the front cab. When the latter saw that the child could not escape, he threw himself over the side of the front-board to drag her from the track. He was too late, however, and she was hurled under the wheels and was dead before her body could be removed.

The two motormen were arrested, but later were released on $1,000 bail, furnished for each of the men by the traction company.

PATTISON PARTY WHIRLED AROUND CAMBRIA COUNTY

Ex-Governor Also Made a Dash Across Line Into Somerset.

HELP IS EXPECTED FROM LIQUOR MEN

Bryan Democrats Look With Disfavor Upon Possibility of Gubernatorial Candidate Aspiring to Presidential Honors.

By WALTER J. CHRISTY,
Staff Correspondent.

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Democrats are making a mighty effort to carry Cambria. To help stir up enthusiasm the state nominees were whirled over the county today, addressing seven meetings. Not content with this amount of work, ex-Gov. Robert E. Pattison made a dash over into Somerset county, speaking to a large audience in the mining town of Windber.

The meeting in Johnstown tonight was the largest of the day. The opera house was packed. Its seating capacity is something over 1,200. The other large gathering of the day was at Patton. There over 1,200 men listened to the speeches by the spellbinders. This town is controlled by Col. J. L. Spangler, a Bellefonte Democrat. The colonel was present today. His mines were closed so that the men could be given an opportunity to hear the orators.

The Democrats are counting upon three things: organization, the cash, and the fact that Cambria has a Democratic judge. They have been active in registration, naturalization and in the payment of taxes. In the matter of making new citizens they have probably reached a high record, 250 having been sworn into citizenship and the Democratic party. It is said the question of how the applicant would vote was of weightier consideration than the extent of his knowledge of our country and the laws. One man who was clothed with citizenship announced that Ireland was in the United States—and it was not a bad guess at that.

Enlisting Liquor Dealers.

In some counties holders of liquor licenses are expected to do much political work. In this county there are many Democrats in the business, and the organization does not make any bones about saying that it expects these men to deliver votes. From them much is expected in the way of carrying the county for "reform."

The Democrats are counting too much on their victory of last fall when Judge A. V. Barker was defeated and the seat on the bench given to Francis J. O'Connor. This was accomplished by Republican voters who are heartily sick of their judgment. Some of the more thoughtful Democrats are of the opinion that the victory last fall will be the cause of the party's defeat this year. It has served to solidify the Republicans. There are fewer breaks in the lines than there have been in years. They see the necessity of standing togther, and the reports from all parts of the county indicate that a Republican majority of from 500 to 1,000 is a certainty. H. W. Storey has charge of the campaign in this city, and he can find few Republicans who will vote for Pattison, and for every one there will be a Democrat who will support Pennypacker.

The Union party's strength here will not go above several hundred. In several places today effort was made to array the friends of Attorney General John P. Elkin against Judge Pennypacker. The attempt was always fruitless. Mr. Elkin has hundreds of friends in this county, but they are all following his lead and working for the Republican ticket. Saturday night Judge Pennypacker and Mr. Elkin will speak here.

Opposed by Bryanites.

Pattison has another trouble to overcome in this county, as in every other county of the state. The radical Democrats, who discarded his Bible when the Chicago platform was written and William J. Bryan talked himself into a presidential nomination, is not being fooled. He knows that Pattison, if successful this fall, has an eye on the White House. There is too much conservatism about the ex-governor to suit the 16 to 1 Democrats.

While they have no objection to him being governor, they do not feel disposed to do anything which would make it possible for him to stand in the way of the nomination of Tom L. Johnson or some other revolutionary presidential aspirant. With Pattison defeated this fall, the radical figures that he is out of the running for national honors. This idea was gotten today from one of the most prominent Democrats of the county. He says that this feeling exists in every county in the state, backing up the assertion by the announcement that he had been sounding the radicals throughout Pennsylvania. From his conversation one would gather that Tom L. Johnson has an ear turned toward this state, and if he can put a stone in the pathway of Pattison he will do so. The fact that Pattison attended the "harmony" dinner in New York is not pleasing to the lover of Bryanism.

The Pattison party left Altoona early this morning. Besides the ex-governor, there were George W. Guthrie, candidate for lieutenant governor; Col. F. J. Fitzsimmons of Scranton, Col. J. L. Spangler of Bellefonte, and Representative George R. Dixon of Elk. Tonight Representative Fred T. Ikeler of Columbia joined the spellbinders. The campaigners were met by this committee of Cambria Democrats: Robert E. Croswell, district chairman; ex-Mr. or W. Horace Rose, ex-Representative W. C. Lingle, E. R. Jackman, S. J. Itell, Dr. H. Sommerville and R. J. Kaylor.

The party came to Johnstown, but Pattison and Spangler, with a number of prominent Democrats, including Warren Worth Bailey, County Chairman J. B. Denny, ex-Mayor Rose and others, were hurried over to Windber, in Somerset.

The party leaves here about daylight for a tour of Fayette. There will be a meeting in Uniontown in the afternoon and another at Connellsville at night.

Grand farewell tonight to the charming Fadettes at the New Exposition. Their playing has been actually sensationally beautiful.

Requests have simply piled in for a repetition tonight of Handel's famous "Largo" by talented Mamie Reuck-Wilczek aided by the Fadettes superb strings.

It is remarkable how the exquisite music of the Fadettes has taken hold on New Exposition audiences. Their phenomenal engagement closes positively tonight.

Music hall at the New Exposition will be too small for the crowd that will hear the closing concerts tonight of the wonderful Fadettes.

The refined Fadettes have fairly played themselves into the hearts of New Exposition audiences. Their engagement closes tonight.

MUELLER'S SHOT PROBABLY FATAL

SEWICKLEY EDITOR MADE ATTEMPT ON HIS LIFE.

Business Trouble and Broken Health Are Held Responsible for His Action.

George Frederick Mueller, one of the oldest and best known newspaper men in Pittsburgh, made a probably successful attempt at suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself in the head in the office of the Sewickley Valley, of which he is editor and proprietor. The weapon used was a 32-caliber revolver, and the act was committed about 9 o'clock and while he was alone. Broken health, coupled with business and financial troubles, is thought to have been the cause for his act.

Mr. Mueller, who was familiarly known as Fred Mueller, was found lying in his own blood shortly after he had shot himself. Two Sewickley physicians were called to his office and after probing for the ball for some time the doctors stated that it probably took a downward course and was lodged in the fleshy part of the neck. It was expected that Mr. Mueller would recover from his wound if blood poisoning could be prevented, but late last night it was stated that the bullet had entered his brain and he was slowly dying.

Business Troubles.

Mr. Mueller for some time past had been brooding over his inability to make the paper, which he purchased about two months ago from Miss Janey Coard, pay. Among his friends it is said that of late he had been complaining that the business people of Sewickley did not support the paper, which is the only publication in the borough. After purchasing the paper it is said Mueller learned that it was not as good property as he had supposed, and although his ability as an editor was recognized in newspaper circles, he was lacking in business qualities necessary to make the paper a success.

When Mueller arrived at his office yesterday morning he sent his stenographer, Miss Dolan, out on an errand. During her absence he committed the deed. The shot was heard by persons passing on the street and by the time they reached Mueller's side he was prostrate and unconscious on the office floor. Drs. Robert Macrum and Dewitt B. Nettleton were summoned. Later Drs. Matthew Graff, Robert Dixon, R. E. Chandler and Detmar Jennings were called into the case.

Will Probably Die.

After probing for the bullet for about two hours Mueller was removed to his home in Frederick avenue, Sewickley. Shortly after reaching his home Mueller began to rest easier and it was thought he had a good chance to recover, but last night the physicians gave up hope, as it was ascertained the ball had lodged in his brain.

An investigation of Mueller's office showed plenty of evidence that he was suffering from temporary mental derangement. On the desk were found a number of slips of paper on which was written "Crazy, crazy, crazy." Among the friends he met while in the city last Saturday it was noticed he was acting queerly and to all whom he met his talk was constantly of business. It was yesterday said that another matter which caused Mueller considerable worry was a strike among his printers last week, which compelled him to have his paper printed in Pittsburgh. Some private work, sent out last week, was also returned yesterday to be done properly.

Prominent Newspaperman.

Mr. Mueller for over 30 years has been prominent in newspaper work in Pittsburgh, for more than 15 years being the editor of the Pittsburgh Bulletin. He had also been employed on a number of Pittsburgh dailies, and with Robert P. Nevin in 1880 assisted in getting out the first copy of the Times. Mr. Nevin then being the editor and sole proprietor. Nearly two years ago Mueller went to Los Angeles, Cal., to take charge of a paper there, but this also proved a failure and he returned to Pittsburgh again.

In 1868 Mr. Mueller married Miss Melusina Camp in Burlington, Vt. She was a granddaughter of the Rt. Rev. John Henry Hopkins, one of the earliest rectors of the Trinity Protestant Episcopal church in this city. For many years Mr. Mueller was a member of the Pittsburgh Fress club, serving a number of terms as a director and once being the unanimous choice of the members for president.

TO REPLACE CATHEDRAL.

Rumor That Frick Has Let Contract for Big Skyscraper.

It is reported that the contract has been let for razing the old cathedral property and the report says farther that work will be started on this February 1 next without stating what provision will be made for a house of worship for cathedral-goers pending the completion of the new cathedral a year or more hence. The George A. Fuller Company, which built the Frick building and is now constructing the Farmers Deposit National bank building at Fifth avenue and Wood street, is said to have the contract to raise on the Cathedral site a 24-story office building, the lower floors of which will be occupied by Siegel, Cooper & Co. of New York and Chicago, as a department store. If this is true, the report of locating a new Pennsylvania railroad station there is made baseless.

William A. Carr and John M. Shaw, who have been associated with H. C. Frick, the present owner of the cathedral site, in his real estate matters, said last night that they have no knowledge of this matter. They do not deny it, but explain that Mr. Frick is out of town, and they do not know of his making any arrangement of the kind.

IRISHMEN ARRESTED.

Members of Parliament Charged With Offenses Under Crimes Act.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Edward Haviland Burke, M. P.; Michael Reddy, M. P., and chairman of the Birr rural district council; William Lowrey, chairman of the Birr board of guardians, and Michael Hogan have been arraigned under the crimes act at Birr, charged with intimidating shopkeepers into joining the United Irish league. Birr is in Kings county, Ireland.

The hearing of Burke, Reddy, Lowrey and Hogan was adjourned and the four men were remanded to custody.

Chicago Girl Won Out.

Clifford Oneathen, was yesterday taken from his bride of three days and lodged in jail, on a charge brought before Alderman William Lang of Allegheny, by Miss Bertha H. Bickert, of the East End. Miss Bickert also threatens to bring suit for breach of promise against Oneathen. It is alleged Oneathen promised to marry Miss Bickert last Friday, and was also bound by a like promise to a Chicago girl. Friday, the girl from the Windy city came here and it is said compelled Oneathen to marry her. Oneathen then told his story to Miss Bickert and his arrest followed.

DEATH OF NOTED DIVINE BRINGS SORROW TO MANY

Dr. William J. Reid of First U. P. Church Passes Away.

FOR FORTY YEARS HE PREACHED THERE

Big-Hearted and Scholarly, His Life Is an Epoch in Church's History—Was Widely Known and Honored.

The Rev. Dr. W. J. Reid, for 40 years pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh and editor of the United Presbyterian, died yesterday at 11:50 a. m. at his residence, No. 920 Aiken avenue. The direct cause of his death was pneumonia, contracted last Saturday morning on an open car, although for more than a year past Dr. Reid had not been in robust health. An affection of the heart, resulting from chronic asthma, had for more than a year interfered with his work and hurried his death.

Dr. Reid was probably the best known divine in Western Pennsylvania, having been pastor of the First United Presbyterian church for over 40 years. For more than 20 years he had taught the Bible class at the Young Men's Christian association, and had lent his services in other ways for the furtherance of the work of the association. For years he was a trustee of the Pennsylvania College for Women and always took great interest in the work of that institution. From time to time Dr. Reid had served as trustee of the board of extension of the United Presbyterian church and on the board of foreign missions.

Great Church Worker.

He was also a trustee of the Allegheny Theological Seminary and during the years between 1868 and 1878 was clerk of the Pittsburgh synod. He was corresponding secretary of the board of Home Missions from 1868 to 1872. Since 1878 he had served as principal clerk of the general assembly, resigning at the last meeting, and since 1877 had been editor of the United Presbyterian. With all his duties Dr. Reid still found time to serve frequently as commissioner to the general assembly and to give much of his time to the work of his pastorate.

William James Reid was born August 7, 1834, at South Argyle, Washington county, N. Y., and prepared for college at Argyle academy, in that county. He entered Union college, Schenectedy, N. Y., in 1855. After two years' study Dr. Reid was graduated with highest honors. After his graduation from Union colege Dr. Reid taught in Whitestown seminary, being professor of mathematics and ancient languages. He entered Allegheny Theological seminary in 1858, and was graduated four years later.

He was ordained and installed as minister of the First United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh, April 7, 1862.

Was Fine Writer.

Dr. Reid was a noted scholar and litterateur and his ability as a writer was recognized when in 1864 he was sent as commissioner to the general assembly at Philadelphia and assigned as one of a committee to rewrite "The Book of Government." In 1867 he was made chairman of the committee to rewrite the Directory of Worship.

Among Dr. Reid's contributions to religious literature are his lectures on "The Revelations," published in 1878, and extensive notes on the "International Sabbath School Lessons," published from time to time in the "Bible Teacher," and the "Evangelical Repository."

In 1887 Dr. Reid succeeded the late Dr. D. R. Kerr as supervising editor of the United Presbyterian. He represented the Pittsburgh synod at the Pan-American council at Belfast, Ireland, in 1884.

He was married on October 26, 1862, to Miss Mary Bowen of Troy, N. Y. Of their four children, three died early in life, the only surviving child being Rev. William J. Reid, Jr., now the pastor of the First United Presbyterian church of Pittsburgh.

The celebration last April of the 40th anniversary of his pastorate in the First church was one of the notable religious events in Pennsylvania and brought scores of ministers and prominent churchmen together.

Was Big Man in Every Way.

Dr. Reid's death is mourned by friends that are legion. His qualities as a man, as well as a thorough Christian, endeared him to the hearts of thousands of those outside his church. He was a big man in every way—in physical frame, in brain force and resource, in the depth and breadth of his sympathy, in scholastic equipment and in the amount of work he accomplished.

Probably his most notable characteristic was his industry. In addition to this he was the embodiment of method and system. Yet withal he did not parade it—he never spoke of it, and indeed did not seem to realize how much he was doing.

During the many years that he served the First church, when the Seventh avenue building was still used, no workingman ever went more regularly to his shop at 7 o'clock than did Dr. Reid to his study. Here he labored in preparation for his pulpit work with a thoroughness, care and conscientiousness that always made him a strong, instructive and interesting preacher.

Had Ever a Word of Cheer.

Dr. Reid, to a degree that is very unusual, was a "son of consolation." A humane man by instinct, habit and grace, he possessed remarkable tact in ministering to the bereaved, the sick, the penitent and the disheartened. No day was too busy, no locality too inconvenient, no man or woman too humble or too high, to prevent him from giving sympathy and help where occasion called for them.

In temperament Dr. Reid was always genial. He heartily enjoyed healthy humor and his own stock of humorous anecdotes was a large one. One of his greatest pleasures was in relating them, especially to children, with whom he was ever a favorite. Another of the traits of Dr. Reid's character was his liberality. He was popular with men of all creeds, and although always faithful to his own church he decried no other, and no minister in the city was more widely esteemed by Christian people of all denominations. As the pastor of one of the largest congregations in the city through so many years it was natural that his ministry should touch the life of the community in many directions.

Service Was Extensive.

It did so and brought with it an amount of service that was large. It was a testimonial of esteem and honor, although it added not a little at times to the burden that he carried. Among his friends he was called the chaplain-general of the community.

Among his most marked personal traits was his simplicity. In manners no man was freer from ostentation. No man was more ready than he to give an audience to him who sought it. His pleasures were the simplest; his tastes were for the homely virtues which adorn and enoble the rank and file of his kind. Dr. Reid's acquaintanceship extended to all parts of the country and resulted largely from the fact that he has in the many years of his service in Pittsburgh officiated at so many weddings. Scores of families living in various states in the union carried on a correspondence with Dr. Reid. Those whom he had married seldom forgot him.

In going through the records kept by Dr. Reid it was found last night that in actual numbers he had performed 753 marriage ceremonies and had attended and taken part in 1,012 funerals.

Services on Wednesday.

At a meeting of the session of the First United Presbyterian church held last night the arrangements for the funeral of Dr. Reid were completed. The body will be on view to the public on Wednesday between the hours of 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. The church services will follow at 2 o'clock. The services will be in charge of the Rev. Dr. J. K. McClurken, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian, assisted by the Rev. A. C. Wallace, the Rev. Dr. John C. Brown, the Rev. D. F. McGill, the Rev. Dr. J. C. Boyd and the Rev. Dr. William McMillan.

The honorary pallbearers will be William McKown, R. W. Stewart and S. L. McElwee, representing the session; D. M. Brown, Thomas R. Herd and Samuel Logan, representing the trustees. The active pallbearers will be G. S. Rodgers, J. H. Taylor, J. H. Scott and F. A. Stevenson from the session, and R. S. Smith, A. C. Shaw, Julian Kennedy and R. J. McKnight from the trustees.

Dr. Reid will be buried in the First church pastors' lot in the Allegheny cemetery. Almost from its organization the First church has maintained a lot for the interment of its pastors and their families. It was originally in the old Bruce graveyard and when that was abandoned another lot was secured in the Allegheny cemetery and the bodies reinterred there.

CORNER STONE WILL BE LAID ON SUNDAY

Magnificent New $70,000 Church to Be Erected by Charles M. Schwab Will Be Started.

The corner stone of the new St. Thomas Catholic church at Braddock, which Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, is having erected, is to be laid with imposing ceremonies at 3 o'clock, Sunday next. The new church is being erected on the site of the old building at Braddock avenue and Tenth street, where St. Thomas' congregation worshipped for nearly 30 years.

The building is to be of brick and stone and will cost $70,000, the entire amount being a gift from Mr. Schwab to the Rev. Father John Hickey, who married Mr. and Mrs. Schwab while Mr. Schwab was an employe of the Edgar Thomson steel works. It will be the finest church building in the entire Monongahela valley and will compare favorably with many of the finest churches in this city. The corner stone laying Sunday is expected to be the most important religious affair held in Braddock in many years. Nearly every priest in the Pittsburgh diocese and many prominent lay members of the church have been invited to the services. The Most Rev. Michael Abbott of St. Vincent's monastery at Latrobe will lay the stone and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. Father O'Connell of St. Paul's cathedral.

The gift of $70,000 to St. Thomas' congregation makes a total of $200,000 that Mr. Schwab has given to Braddock churches, and every church in the borough, with two exceptions, has Carnegie pipe organs.

A TREASURER SHORT.

Investigation in York County Shows a Discrepancy of $73,000, and Warrants Are Sworn Out.

YORK, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Houston F. Landis, the expert accountant, employed by the York county commissioners to probe into the chaotic state of the county treasurer's office, tonight made public his report. The total of the discrepency discovered aggregates $73,576 07, as follows: In 1900, $9,889 94; in 1901, $55,276 77; in 1902, $8,409 36.

The report, as submitted to the commissioners notes only such discrepencies as were accomplished by erasures, clerical inaccuracies, raised amounts and false bills, at a time apparently subsequent to the receipt of bills in the offices of the treasurer or commissioners.

Numerous instances were found where extortionate charges were made. Bills from one particular business firm as originally made were destroyed by the collector and the amounts raised by him before false bills were submitted and liquidated. In one instance of this kind $400 was paid for an article representing but one-twentieth of that value.

Tonight ten informations were made by Court Detective William F. Wiest against County Treasurer Thompson, pursuant to an order for District Attorney Allen Wiest. Five were for forgery and five for embezzlement. The warrants will be sworn out tomorrow morning before Alderman Frank Zinn.

The Consumption Master Here.

Dr. Edward Koch, the famous specialist in diseases of the lungs, throat and nose, arrived in Pittsburgh today and can be consulted free by all who apply at the Pittsburgh Koch Lung Cure, 401, 403, 405 Penn Avenue, corner Fourth Street, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 6 P. M. during this week. His method of treatment of Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh and Hay Fever gets directly at the seat of the disease, through inhalation; by making a vapor of the tuberculine or lymph and throwing these heavily medicated and healing oils directly over the bronchial tubes and into the most remote air cells of the lungs, every diseased part is reached; the bacilli is killed; the inflamed mucous membranes are soothed and healed by the oily vapors.

The success of this treatment is now thoroughly established and beyond dispute. Dr. Edward Koch has established institutes in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Baltimore, Rochester, Pittsburgh. Dr. Edward Koch has at all these offices able resident specialists, skilled in diseases of the chest, throat and nose. Specialists who have spent their whole lives studying these diseases. Come and see the great Professor himself while he is here this week at 401, 403, 405 Penn Avenue, corner Fourth Street. Consultation, examination and one trial treatment free.

WANAMAKER MAY GET THE GERMAN CHURCH SITE

Great Department Store Likely to Be Built on Smithfield Street.

CONGREGATION VOTES TO LEASE IT

Special Committee of Trustees and Members of First German Evangelical Church Appointed to Consider Offers.

By a resolution unanimously adopted by the members of the First German United Evangelical Protestant church at a congregational meeting held in the schoolroom of the church last night it was decided to lease the property at the corner of Sixth avenue and Smithfield street. The offers were referred to the three trustees of the church and four members of the congregation outside the church council to be appointed by the president of the congregation.

The first meeting of this leasing committee will in all probability be held the latter part of the present week, when the five propositions which have already been made for the property will be fully considered. The decision of the special committee will be laid before the members and voted on at a congregational meeting to be held later.

After the meeting last night it was learned from an authoritative source that an offer of $150,000 bonus and $50,000 per year annual rental was the best proposition that has yet been received by the congregation for the lease. This proposition is said to have been made some time ago by local agents acting for John Wanamaker, the Philadelphia merchant, who is to establish a great department store in Pittsburgh. It was also rumored that the Joseph Horne Company had made an offer for the lease of the site.

The latest proposition, discussed by the members of the congregation last night, is to have the church erect its own building and sublet it.

Of the 1,000 members of the congregation over 100 were present last night. The meeting was called to order by William Freese, president of the congregation. Otto Getting made a motion that the president of the congregation should lay before the meeting all the propositions made relatives to leasing the church property.

This resolution brought forth some debate. It was argued that the propositions made should not be given out at this time, until a committee had passed on them. The Rev. Frederick Ruoff, pastor of the congregation, then submitted his resolution, which was put in the form of an amendment to Mr. Oetting's motion. It was unanimously adopted as follows:

"It is hereby resolved that the members of the congregation of the First German Union Evangelical Protestant church of Pittsburgh give their consent to lease partially for a length of time their property, situated between Sixth avenue, Strawberry alley, Smithfield street and Montour way, in the Third ward, Pittsburgh, and that a special commission consisting of the three trustees and four members of the congregation outside of the church council be empowered to examine the different propositions, as they may be submitted to them and to consider all the legal points relative to leasing the property, and to submit to the vote of a meeting of the congregation, which shall be called by the president, that proposition which in their judgment shall be the most favorable."

Boodlers Stay in Jail.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 22.—Word was received from Jefferson City tonight that Judge Gant of the supreme court had rendered his decision on the petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed last week at Jefferson City to secure the release of former delegates Schumacher, Helms, Tarbox and Schneider now in jail here, on the charges of bribery and perjury. Judge Gant remanded the prisoners to the custody of the sheriff and refused to fix the amount of bail.

Our Autumn Assemblage of Black Dress Goods

Unparalleled in the greater city—we dare say in any of the larger cities. No old surplusage re-ticketed to be again exploited in the light of Autumn newness.

Yes, we have a sumptuous stock of black dress goods, so much that is new and never before seen in this store. And what a throbbing, rushing traffic we are having in blacks?

Will you run the list over with us, please? Perhaps the very black you are thinking of is mentioned.

Black Cheviot	from $ .50 a yard to $3.00
Black Serge	from $ .50 a yard to $2.00
Black Broadcloth	from $1.00 a yard to $5.00
Black Venetian	from $ .85 a yard to $5.00
Black Zibeline	from $1.50 a yard to $6.00
Black Camel's Hair Cloth	from $1.00 a yard to $5.00
Black Boucle	from $2.25 a yard to $3.00
Black Jacquard	from $ .78 a yard to $2.50
Black Mohair	from $ .50 a yard to $2.00
Black Eolienne	from $1.25 a yard to $3.00
Black Hopsacking	from $ .75 a yard to $4.00
Black Henrietta	from $ .50 a yard to $3.00
Black Thibet	from $1.00 a yard to $3.00
Black Melrose	from $1.00 a yard to $3.00
Black Drap d'Alma	from $1.00 a yard to $3.00
Black Voile	from $ .50 a yard to $2.00
Black Mistral	from $ .60 a yard to $3.00

The above is an incomplete list, but will serve to show the possibilities of our Black Goods section. New arrivals are coming in daily, but they find other homes quickly. In fact this department represents a constant succession of newness.

New Buttons and Buckles for Trimming.

Each line personally selected—both abroad and at home—so you are sure of getting the very latest ideas and the proper styles.

Fashion says, and we have no reason to break words with her, that buttons are the principal things for the correct trimming of the dress.

Cut Steel Buttons are to be especially favored. We have them with fine riveted heads, in all sizes from the standard to the large handsome cloak buttons, as large as a silver dollar.

Another fashionable button is the one of plain and oxidized silver, oval shaped, one of this season's fads.

Rhinestones, too, are in high favor. All here from the single stone to the large clusters. Some all clear—others colored to match the dress.

Buckles of cut steel, rhinestone, riveted jet, gold and silver—every size used for either gown, shoes or bonnet, every shape and many different grades—from 10c to $2.50 Each.

Drop Lights and Their Accompaniments.

Both gas and electric Drop Lights in the House Furnishing Department of the Basement. Inexpensive to very best.

Gas Drop Light Stands, 75c, $1.25, $2 and up to $4.50 each.

Electric Drop Light Stands, $4.50, $5 and up to $10 each.

Shades, Burners, Globes, Drop Light Tubing, Chimneys and Canopies of every description. A range of prices convenient for all purses.

Another Handkerchief Special. For Women.

Three thousand six hundred pure Irish Linen Handkerchiefs in one-fourth and one-half inch hems.

They are made from superfine sheer cloth, and a handkerchief we would consider cheap, if buying wholesale, at 18c.

As we imported them ourselves we ask you to buy them at 10c each.

$10 Walking Skirts for $7.50.

The cloth used is a medium weight of thibet, and the colors are blue, gray and black.

The style is 9-gore with a box pleated flare.

We don't care to say why we choose to sell them for two dollars and a half under the regular price, and we presume you are not especially anxious to know, so long as you get a sightly skirt for an under price.

Taffeta Silk Waists for $4.

About a dollar less than such waists hold themselves at. And the best part of it is choice is in either black or colors.

Tucks and drawn work form the trimming.

Some with tucked backs, fronts and sleeves; others much plainer.

An excellent quality of taffeta.

Japanese Dinner Gongs and Chimes.

Both ornamental and practical. In the Basement Store, devoted to household sundries, there are some 67 different styles and varieties.

Prices range from the 3-bell size at $1.35 to 7-bells at $35.

Small Brass Gongs and Brackets for table use, $6.50 to $14. Of course, we have all the intermediate sizes in both styles.

The Bed and Its Needs.

Blankets are of first consideration. Out-of-the-ordinary Blankets are apt to be found in this big Bedding Department of the Basement, and the prices are not exorbitant.

In fact, the larger variety and the lower prices contribute to the present far-ahead selling of any other season—together with the utmost reliance on what we say of the Blankets.

The exact weight in pounds is given and you are told whether the Blankets are all wool, or part cotton. You could send your children here for Blankets and be confident of getting the values and the same attention as though you came in person.

It is a debatable question whether any one could find as good Blankets at the prices charged by us, anywhere in the greater city.

Some specimens of the prices:

$2.50 a pair—500 pairs all wool Blankets, strictly all wool; weight 4 pounds; size, 66x81 inches; colors, plain gray, plain scarlet; in plaids, red and black and black and white.

$3 a pair—200 pairs fine Blankets made of California wool, woven on fine spool cotton warp. These are for single beds, the size is 60x84 inches, and the weight is 4 pounds. Plain white with borders in pink, blue and red.

$4 a pair—The same Blankets in sizes for double beds—72x84 inches. These weigh 4¾ pounds.

$8, $9, $10, $12.50, $15, $18 and $20, constitute the price range for Blankets of finest to very finest grades.

$4, $5 and $6 a pair—A special lot of strictly all wool (the wool of an extra quality,) country-made Blankets. Plain white with pink, blue and red borders; also fancy plaids. There are three sizes in this lot: Single bed, 64x81 inches, weight 4 pounds, $4 a pair; three-quarter bed, 70x84 inches, weight 5 pounds, $5 a pair; double bed, 76x90 inches, weight 6 pounds $6 a pair.

$6 and $7 a pair—200 pairs strictly pure wool Blankets, made expressly for us by a very noted mill in Ohio. No kind but the best of Ohio fleece wool is used, and that strictly in accordance with our instructions. Each blanket of the pair is cut and finished separate, which makes handling much easier, especially in the washing. Two sizes, 68x80, weight 5 pounds, $6 the pair; 72x84, weight 6 pounds, $7 the pair.

THE COMFORTS.

Not that we would prefer selling down comforts, but for the pleasure of having something elegant for your bed, by all means select a comfort of delicate soft down, if you can possibly see your way clear to do so. They are the blue-blood members of the comfort family.

Cotton filled Comforts, no matter what the price, each ample and full as to size, in this popular range of prices: $1, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2, $2.50, $3, $3.50 and $4 each.

Wool Comforts, covered with fine silkoline, $3.50, $4.50 and $6 each.

Comforts filled with perfectly odorless down, are sold for $5, $6, $7, $8, $9 and $10 a pair. They are covered with best grade of fancy Satine, and the patterns are the newest that have been introduced. The luxury of a down comfort is not to be underestimated.

The New Autumn Flannels.

Flannels and the many uses to which they are subjected, can now be discussed freely. Fall and Winter could well be called the flannel part of the year.

As each of the 70 departments of this store grow with the concern as a whole, it is a mere nothing that Flannels have a more liberal showing than ever. It is but natural.

Some of the varieties:

Plain French Flannels, much used at present for shirtwaists, all the desirable shades, 50c and 65c a yard.

Fancy Printed French Flannels, for shirtwaists, kimonas and all manners of house gowns, 50c, 60c and 75c a yard.

200 pieces new washable Scotch Flannels just received. The prettiest patterns—wonderfully pretty. 25c, 35c, 40c, 50c, 60c, 75c a yard.

Fancy Flannel Waistings, 45c, 50c, 60c and 75c a yard.

Silk Embroidered Waist Patterns, sold by the pattern. We have some exclusive designs for you. But that is not saying they are expensive. $1.50 to $6 the pattern.

New styles in the famous Viyella Flannel, the flannel that can't shrink. But we're prejudiced. So don't take our word. Try it. And if it shrinks, ever so little, bring it back and we'll hand you back your money. The makers gave us the exclusive agency for Allegheny county. $1 a yard.

Flannelettes—those that are woven—so admirable for men's, women's and children's nightwear and underwear—such indifferent prices as these: 6¼c, 8c, 10c, 12½c and 15c a yard.

Fancy Printed Flannelettes—nicest material ever was for ladies' wrappers, children's dresses, and for styles of shirtwaists: 10c, 12½c and 15c a yard.

CUMMINS MEN QUIT.

See No Chance in Race to Succeed Speaker Henderson.

DES MOINES, IA., Sept. 22.—The announcement of the withdrawal of C. E. Pickett and O. B. Courtright of Waterloo from the contest for congressman, to succeed Speaker Henderson, removes the last Cummins man from the race.

Their action was induced by the knowledge that the action of the committee in leaving the choice to the delegates to the original convention, renders the selection of a Henderson sympathizer certain.

Aged Woman Lost 10 Days in the Woods; The Blevins Murder Case Again Revived

WANDERED IN FOREST 10 DAYS

Mrs. Mary Button, 82 Years Old, Found by Two Hunters, Exhausted,

TALE FROM THE MOUNTAINS

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

ALTOONA, PA., Sept. 22.—Mrs. Mary Button, who left her son's home at Haneyville on August 10 to walk to the home of another son several miles away, and who has been missing since that time, was unexpectedly found on last Friday. She was discovered by two hunters at Cross Forks and nearly dead from exposure and hunger.

Mrs. Button had lost her way and had been wandering aimlessly about in the Black forest for nearly 10 days. She was placed in a blanket and carried to Cross Forks, where physicians are trying to save her life.

Mrs. Button is 82 years old. She had frequently walked the distance from Haneyville to her other son's home, and when she started this last time nothing was thought of it by her relatives. She spent the night of August 10 at the lumber camp of Benjamin Herritt, at the head of State run. Then she continued her journey, only to drop completely out of sight.

Searching parties have been scouring the mountains daily since that time, but could not find the slightest trace of her. The relatives, who had given up the search in despair, were overjoyed to hear of the discovery of the hunters. The old woman is too weak to talk. During her wanderings in the wods she subsisted on berries and herbs.

PRETTY GIRL STOLEN.

The Kidnapers Took Her to a Gypsy Camp and the Queen Ordered Her Release.

HAZLETON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Mabel Van Horn, a pretty 16-year-old Freeland girl, was kidnaped as she left church last night and driven, bound and gagged, to a gypcy camp at Sandy run, eight miles distant, where she was held prisoner until this morning. She was evidently not the girl wanted, for when she was ushered into the presence of a gaudily dressed woman in the gypsy tent the man and woman who had brought her there were told that they had captured the wrong girl.

Mabel was again blindfolded and taken by carriage to an isolated point north of Freeland and told to return home.

The strange part of Miss Van Horn's story is that she was warned twice recently by a mysterious woman to remain indoors at night or she would be kidnaped.

PAINT EXPLODES.

J. E. Van Gorder's Eye Knocked Out and Building Saved by One of the Clerks.

ELLWOOD CITY, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—A barrel of graphite paint exploded in the cellar of the Bigham Hardware Company this morning, wrecking the cellar and seriously burning J. E. Van Gorder, one of the firm. His right eye was knocked out and he was so badly hurt that he may not recover.

Van Gorder was in the cellar drawing paint. It is supposed he lit a match with the above result. H. B. Hobart, one of the clerks, rushed into the cellar, which was a roaring furnace of fire, and drew the burning barrel from its rack, where it was surrounded by other barrels containing paint.

PITTSBURGH HUSSARS ELECTED OFFICESR

New Military Organization Was Completed Last Night at Special Meeting.

Pittsburgh's new military organization, to be known as the Pittsburgh Hussars, was perfected at a meeting last night at which officers were elected and the uniforms and insignia of the company decided upon. The officers elected were: Captain, F. J. Kress; first lieutenant, J. P. Lindsay; second lieutenant, C. R. French; first lieutenant and assistant surgeon, E. M. Weimer; first lieutenant and assistant quartermaster, H. P. Childs.

The dress uniform adopted is of a handsome type, consisting of red blouse with black trimmings, white riding breeches, black cavalry boots, and regulation cavalry saber with gray astrakan busby. The fatigue uniform is a dark blue blouse, with light blue trousers, soft, crowned cap and regulation cavalry trimmings of yellow.

The insignia to be used on collar, cap and saddle blanket and as a lapel button is two cross sabers supporting a circular shield in a red background; a cut of the old block house in the center and the device, "The Pittsburgh Hussars," Pittsburgh, Pa.

Charles A. Locke, the attorney for the organization, has made application for a charter in common pleas court No. 1. It is the intention to have the military organization backed by a substantial civil organization. At last night's meeting the charter list was finally closed and a committee of committees was appointed to pass on all future applications.

The committee has been instructed to exercise discrimination as to the personnel and the social standard is to be strictly guarded. The committee to act on all applications is: R. E. Caldwell, chairman; Andrew Miller, R. C. Long, Lieut. H. P. Childs, Surgeon E. M. Weimer, Capt. F. J. Kress and C. A. Locke. The future of the organization was thoroughly discussed and the commitee on armory urged to perfect arrangements for pertnanent quarters as soon as possible.

GEORGE WIDENER SUED.

Members of Asphalt Companies Want $25,000 Damages, Alleging Conspiracy.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Charges of conspiracy and fraud are made against George D. Widener in a statement of claim filed in common pleas court No. 3 today by Richard B. Morrell.

The suit is for $25,000 damages in connection with asphalt matters, and was begun early last month by Mr. Morrell, but the particulars were not obtainable until the statement was filed by ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, Mr. Morrell's counsel. John G. Johnson is Mr. Widener's counsel.

Mr. Morrell alleges that by reason of a conspiracy between Mr. Widener, John M. Mack, George W. Elkins and others to maintain an artificial value in securities of the Asphalt Company of America, and the National Asphalt Company he suffered great loss in bonds and stocks which he held in these companies.

WAYNE COUNTY NOMINEES.

Convention Names Them and They Must Eater Caucus.

HONESDALE, PA., Sept. 22.—The Wayne county Republican convention today made the following nominations: W. C. Norton and George L. Waltz, representatives; George W. Taylor and G. Alexander, commissioners; E. H. Cortright, sheriff; E. A. Delaney, prothonotary; F. H. Crago, register and recorder; George Fross, F. B. Pennell, auditors.

Resolutions were adopted indorsing Roosevelt's administration, directing the representatives to attend the party caucus and support the nominee for speaker and United States senator.

WENT WALKING AND GOT MARRIED

Homestead Couple Indulges in Romantic Escapade in Ohio.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 22.—Miss Hattie Culberton, a handsome young woman of Homestead, Pa., the guest of relatives here, went out for a walk with William C. Jones of Pittsburgh, and when she returned, announced that she and Mr. Jones had been married. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. H. W. Lowery of the First Presbyterian church.

Mr. Jones, who is a son of the Rev. W. C. Jones of the Homestead Congregational church, has been a clerk in the employ of the Carnegie company, but because he decided to become a professional vocalist the parents of his bride objected to his attentions. She was sent here by her family for a visit. Jones, on his way to Chicago, to accept an engagement to sing, stopped off to say goodbye. While out riding on Sunday afternoon he proposed and was accepted.

FOR CHRISTIANS.

Fine Y. M. C. A. Building to Go Up in Washington With Money Subscribed by Business Men.

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the directors of the local branch of the Young Men's Christian association today it was decided to erect a handsome building for the organization. The contract for the new structure will be let to the firm of Walker & Slater, and the contract price will be $48,125.

The plans for the new building were drawn by T. E. Billquist of Pittsburgh, and call for a handsome four-story brick structure. It will contain reading, library and meeting rooms and large dormitories, fitted up for strangers. Subscriptions of $33,000 from business men in Washington have been secured, and it is believed that there will be no difficulty to get the remainder.

The move to build a Y. M. C. A. building was made here four years ago when the late L. M. Marsh, a prominent business man, bequeathed $5,000 for the purpose. A committee went to work at once and the new building will be the result. The new structure will be on West Chestnut street, in the business portion of the city.

TOWN WANTS HIM.

Enthusiastic Meeting at Franklin Begs Gen. Charles Miller Not to Forsake the Town.

FRANKLIN, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—An immense public meeting was held here this evening to take action on the proposed departure of Gen. Charles Miller from Franklin. The Baptist Sunday school room could not accommodate the people. Speeches were made by many prominent citizens, highly eulogizing Gen. Miller and expressing the unanimous desire of the people that he reconsider his determination to remove his residence from this city.

The Rev. Martin Aigner, rector of St. Joseph's Episcopal church, was chosen chairman. He paid a high tribute to Gen. Miller. Prof. N. P. Kinsley read the resolutions adopted by May's post, No. 220, G. A. R., expressing regret at the proposed departure of their commander. Gen. John Wiley, commander of the Second brigade, N. G. P., and others made highly eulogistic speeches.

The resolutions earnestly request Gen. Miller to reconsider his determination.

EDNA AUDLEY REMOVED.

Detectives Say She Is Associated With Mt. Pleasant Burglars.

OIL CITY, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Representatives of a Pittsburgh detective agency, accompanied by a Mount Pleasant officer, arrived here today and took back with them Edna Audley, who has been under arrest here as a suspicious person. She had been riding through the country on a pony and sleeping in barns.

The detectives say the woman is used as a stool pigeon for burglars, sent ahead to locate stores, and also a silk expert, entering the stores with the men and selecting the best of the stock. They believe she was connected with the recent robbery of $800 worth of silks at Mount Pleasant.

BURST BLOOD VESSEL.

Violent Fit of Emotion Following End of Love Affair.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The body of Mary Gruner, a dressmaker, 20 years old, was found in her room in West Forty-eighth street this afternoon. The woman's lower lip was badly swollen.

Investigation satisfies the police that her death was due to natural causes, though of a somewhat peculiar nature. Their theory is that the young woman received news that a love affair had ended unhappily for her and that in a violent fit of emotion she burst a blood vessel.

Germany Needs Meat.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—An alarming increase in the price of meat in Germany has brought forth numerous appeals from municipal and other bodies for the suspension of the stringent rules prohibiting the importation of live cattle into the empire from abroad. Mr. Jackson, secretary of the embassy at Berlin, reports that all the appeals have been refused, "on sanitary grounds."

CONVICT TELLS A MURDER TALE

Says He Knows Man Who Killed Treasurer Blevins of New Castle.

HIS HINT CAUSED CRIME

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW CASTLE, PA., Sept. 22.—Great interest here was excited over the alleged confession concerning the murder of City Treasurer John Blevins of A. B. Ruth, who was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the Western penitentiary for the robbery of the residence of the Rev. Dr. I. A. Thayer. Ruth wishes a pardon for telling the authorities what he claims to know of the mysterious crime, which has baffled the local authorities and the best detective agencies of the country for three years.

Ruth says that while serving a previous term in the same prison he told a fellow convict that it would be easy to rob the office of Blevins, and gave the fellow a detailed description of the city building and the treasurer's office. Ruth says he talked no more on the matter until he heard that Blevins had been murdered and his accounts were $87,000 short.

After he was released from prison, he says, he learned that the murder had been committed by the convict he talked with, who was assisted by two others. One went into the office while the others stood guard outside. While the robbers were at work Blevins returned and entered the office. The city treasurer grappled with the robber, when one of the other robbers went to his confederate's aid and the two killed the aged treasurer with the final help of the third robber, who came to his pals' aid with a bicycle fork.

Ruth supposed that nearly all the shortage would be accounted for by the money taken on the night of the murder, but no great amount of cash was ever kept in the treasurer's office, it being taken to the city depository every day.

Local authorities place little credence in the reputed confession, but everything relative to the mysterious murder is of interest to the public. In this connection the statements made to the authorities by H. K. Peck of Gorham, Russell county, Kas., last summer, are recalled. Peck wrote to ex-Mayor Charles W. Warnock that he knew the murderer and would come east at once and tell all the facts in connection with it if assured that he would receive the reward of $10,000 offered for the conviction of the man. He was told that he should come, and an agent was sent to interview him, but the name of this person has never been disclosed by the special investigating committee which has charge of the Blevins murder investigation.

MINOR ORDERS CONFERRED.

Young Capuchins Started on the Road to the Priesthood.

CUMBERLAND, MD., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Bishop A. A. Curtis, vicar general of the archdiocese of Baltimore, conferred minor sacred orders on members of the Capuchin order at Sts. Peter and Paul's church here, assisted by Father Aloysius, the superior, and Father Thomas.

Bother Stephan (Joseph Bieneman), Pittsburgh; Brother Mauritious (Joseph Ackerman), Wheeling; Brother Anthony (Martin Burkhart), Cincinnati; Brother Francis (James Laing), Cumberland, and Brothers Vincent and Boniface of Europe were made sub-deacons and later Brothers Francis and Anthony, above, and Brother Andrew of Europe were ordained deacons. Next June they will be elevated to the priesthood. All attend the Capuchin seminary here.

The Tenth's New Chaplain.

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The Rev. Henry W. Temple, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church and a professor in Washington and Jefferson college, has been appointed chaplain of the Tenth regiment, N. G. P., succeed the Rev. Joseph L. Hunter, who served with the regiment in the Philippine campaign and who was recently appointed to the office of chaplain in the regular army. Mr. Temple has accepted the position.

Washington Grows Some.

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The action of the Washington county court on last Friday in confirming the report of the grand jury in favor of the annexation of a portion of Canton township adds a section to Washington borough which has a valuation of $248,076. This raises the total property valuation of Washington borough to $7,506,759 with a population in the neighborhood of 20,000 people.

Purchased Children's Home.

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The board of poor directors has purchased the old Moninger homestead in Chartiers township from the Moninger Land company for $18,000, and will turn the building into a Children's Home. The Children's home which was established about 29 years ago was burned about four years ago and since that time old Fort Jeb, erected nearly 100 years ago to ward off indian attacks, has been occupied.

Tin Plant to Close.

NEW KENSINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—A notice was posted in the Pittsburgh plant of the American Tin Plate company at this place, announcing an indefinite suspension of work. Lack of orders and an immense stock on hand are said to be the cause of the shut down.

I was troubled with torpid liver for many years and was subject to dreadful headaches, which confined me to my bed once a week regularly and sometimes twice. A friend recommended Ripans Tabules. I did not have much faith, but he persuaded me to try them, and inside of three weeks I was a cured woman. On account of my age I hardly thought it possible to effect a cure, as I had been subject to those awful headaches since I was a little girl.

LOCAL NEWS OF ALL PITTSBURGH

Appointed City Blacksmith—Charles Hoffman of the Sixteenth ward was appointed yesterday to the position of chief blacksmith in the department of public safety.

Yesterday's Health Report—Thirteen cases of typhoid fever, six of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria were reported to the Pittsburgh bureau of health yesterday.

Meeting Called for Friday—A meeting of the committee on parks has been called for next Friday night to consider several ordinances relating to improvements in the parks.

Chambers Died Yesterday—Harry Chambers, the railway engineer who was injured in the wreck at Whitmer last week, died at the Allegheny General hospital early yesterday morning. He was married and lived in Millvale.

Fell from Traction Car—John Paul of Western avenue, East Pittsburgh, had his head badly cut and the little finger on his right hand broken by falling from a Monongahela traction car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company near his home yesterday.

Pastors Hear Interesting Paper—An unusually large attendance at the meeting of the Presbyterian ministers yesterday heard an elaborate paper by the Rev. W. A. Roulson of the Bellevue Presbyterian church entitled "Alfred as a Christian King."

A Freight Wreck—A freight wreck on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago railroad occurred at the Clifton station, near Emsworth, at 6:30 yesterday morning. All traffic was tied up for about four hours. The accident is attributed to the dense fog.

Burglars Are at Work—An attempt was made early yesterday morning to break into the house occupied by John Hoehm, at No. 103 Carson street, South Side. Hoehm heard a noise and upon investigation found a cellar door broken open. Nothing had been taken.

Failed in Her Purpose—Mamie Right, who attempted to commit suicide by taking carbolic acid at her boarding house, rear of 608 Robinson street, Allegheny, late Sunday night, was reported at the Allegheny General hospital last night as in a fair way to recover.

Wants the Price of Goods—Joseph Kalion was committed to jail last night for a hearing before Alderman I. A. Levy on a charge of embezzlement. J. Einstein brings the charge, alleging that he got $15 worth of groceries to sell and failed to make a return of the proceeds.

Engine Causes Wreck—Car No. 259 of the Wilkinsburg branch of the Pittsburhg Railways Company was struck and badly damaged by an engine on the Turtle Creek Valley railroad under the arch bridge at Brinton yesterday morning. Michael Cassidy, who was driving a buggy under the arch at the time the car was struck, was struck by the car and thrown from the buggy. The car, engine and buggy were badly damaged.

Mrs. O'Malley Gets Hearing—Mrs. Peter O'Malley of Edith street, Duquesne Heights, had a hearing before Alderman Groetzinger yesterday on a charge of cruelty and abuse to her two small stepsons, made by Humane Agent W. G. Stanley. The alderman reserved his decision.

Homestead Man Hurt—Michael Cusick of Fourth avenue, Homested, was fatally injured yesterday at the Homestead steel works. He fell asleep in the 32-inch mill and rolled from an opening, injuring his back and fracturing his skull. He was removed to Mercy hospital without regaining consciousness.

To Open Active Campaign—The Homestead Business Men's association will resume its meetings tomorrow evening. The association will at once take up the matter of better enforcement of the borough laws and intends to inaugurate a vigorous movement toward better municipal government.

Pittsburgh Man Hurt—Frederick Subert, whose home is thought to be at No. 177 Forty-first street, was struck and fatally injured yesterday at noon at Canonsburg, Pa., by an express train on the Chartiers railroad. Subert was in Canonsburg on business and after the accident was taken to the home of James Croker, where he was stopping previous to the accident. Subert is 60 years old.

Big Rally in Wilkinsburg—A Christian Endeavor rally of the Christian churches of Allegheny county was held in the Christian church, Wilkinsburg, last evening. About 400 delegates were present from 20 societies representing as many churches. The principal speaker was John G. Slater of Akron, O. A choir under the leadership of E. N. Fillmore of Allegheny entertained the large audience.

Old Station Being Removed—Workmen began razing the old West Penn station in Federal street, Allegheny, yesterday morning. By night the entire upper portion was removed. Another gang is at work tearing up the rails and ties of the double track leading to the station to make room for further work on the elevated system of the Ft. Wayne, which will cross Federal street over the site of the West Penn station.

Aged Woman Injured—Mrs. Peter Seewald of Hawkins, one of the best-known old residents of that place, was perhaps fatally injured by falling down a long flight of steps in her home late Sunday night. The accident is thought to have been caused by Mrs. Seewald tripping on her skirts. Mrs. Seewald, who is 80 years old, broke her right leg and right arm and received many cuts and bruises.

Ready for the Fair—Arrangements for the big fair of the nations, to be given in the Homestead Baptist church, from October 23 to 29 inclusive, have about been completed. It will be the largest affair ever undertaken in Homestead. The general arrangements are in charge of a committee consisting of J. B. Coen, J. L. Roof, H. Dana Rolfe, T. G. Woodside, W. S. Bullock, H. W. Johns, J. P. Jones, John Bainbridge and Charles Richards.

The Intermediate State—A paper prepared in answer to the one read some time ago by the Rev. Dr. Eaton before the Methodist Episcopal association was read yesterday by the Rev. Dr. J. T. Leak. The paper of Dr. Eaton was based on the Biblical supposition that there is an intermediate state into which the soul enters after death. Dr. Leak endeavored to prove by many arguments the non-existence of such a state. The discussion created much interest.

Surprised Carnegie Men—An unknown woman, thought to be mentally unbalanced, created a scene and attracted a large crowd at the Carnegie station on the Panhandle railroad yesterday afternoon by hugging and kissing the men who entered the station. In every case she appealed to the man she embraced to recognize his wife and tried to impress upon him that he was her husband. When the police were preparing to take the woman away an unknown man rushed up and, claiming the woman as his wife, placed her on board a train bound for Pittsburgh.

Two Wilkinsburg Men Ill—William Parsons, a veteran of the civil war, is critically ill at his home in Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg. Mr. Parsons' daughter is the wife of Capt. F. W. Ryan of the United States navy, who was with Admiral Dewey at Manila and is now residing in New York. Capt. Ryan is on a cruise in the west Indies. Lewis Bradley, a prominent citizen of Wilkinsburg, who formerly owned the restaurant at No. 1005 Wood street, is dangerously ill in Denver, where he went last April for his health. Mrs. Bradley left yesterday for Denver to be with her husband.

Strengthening the Union—The organization of the miners in the Pittsburgh district is going along rapidly. During the past three months many of the mines have been made union. A large meeting will be held tomorrow evening at the mines at Whitsett, in the Yough valley and will be addressed by Duncan McDonald, organizer of Illinois, and Samuel Zontini, organizer in the Pittsburgh district. William Little of the national board and Steve Pasrosse of Carnegie went yesterday to Shire Oaks to settle a dispute among the miners there. It is the intention to organize all the mines in the Monongahela valley before the cold weather sets in.

Hurry Up for Free Gas.

INNOCENT MAN IN PRISON FOR CRAFTON CRIME

Effort Will Be Made to Have Joseph Sullivan Pardoned.

MAN CONVICTED WITH HIM IS FREE

Martin Griffin Released on His Own Recognizance—Sullivan's Identification Doubtful—Illegalities Half-Acknowledged.

Joseph Sullivan was convicted of blowing open the safe of Daub & Pressler's store at Crafton on April 2, and is now serving a 10 years' sentence in the Western penitentiary for the crime, while incontrovertible proof is in the hands of the Allegheny detectives that the crime was committed by Frank Kennedy, the burglar who was shot at Wheeling September 11 while breaking into the Panhandle railroad station at Water and Eleventh street. Many other crimes, it is said, were committed by Kennedy, for which others are now suffering imprisonment. As a result, the detectives, who have since discovered the facts, are willing to present the same to court or before the pardon board. Attorney W. C. Stillwagon, who defended Sullivan in criminal court, is preparing papers to present to the pardon board, asking a pardon and release.

The whole affair was sensational. Two Kennedys were arrested, charged with the Crafton crime, but both were found to be innocent. Frank Kennedy, one of the brothers, bears the same name as the dead burglar, whose work in the boroughs surrounding Pittsburgh and Allegheny, was extensive.

Doubtful at Time.

After the Crafton robbery, during which Officer Edward Westcott was shot while attempting to arrest one of the men, five persons were imprisoned, all charged with the crime. They were Joseph Sullivan, Martin Griffin, Frank Kennedy, Harry Kennedy and Harry J. Kuntz. The first two were convicted and the two Kennedys and Kuntz were acquitted.

It was alleged by the detectives at the time that certain facts pointed to a man named Frank Kennedy, as the leader. They arrested Frank Kennedy who bears the same name as the dead Wheeling burglar, but when he established an alibi and was shown to be absolutely innocent of participation in the affair, they were mystified. The death of Frank Kennedy at Wheeling, together with certain things found on his person and information discovered by Detective Ted Johnson and others, determined the fact that Kennedy and his gang, not Sullivan, was at Crafton on that night, and blew open the safe. Kennedy also answered the description of the man who shot Westcott, who at the hearing of the case in the Allegheny county jail could not identify Sullivan or Griffin as his assailant, but who afterwards identified Sullivan at the trial in court.

Illegalities Are Charged.

Sullivan's past record was against him and he was convicted because he had been in the penitentiary and was known to be of a shady character. The hearing in the jail and subsequent events led Attorney Stillwagon to call the court's attention to the fact that Sullivan was held illegally; that jail hearings were against the law and that no alderman or committing magistrate had a right to hear cases outside of his own bailiwick. The court held that Attorney Stillwagon's point was right, and Warden Lewis was ordered to permit no more hearings by aldermen or justices of the peace in the jail.

Although Officer Westcott was unable to identify Sullivan at first he was convicted and given 10 years' for Kennedy's crime.

Martin Griffin, who was on trial at the same time, was later granted a new trial, it having afterwards been discovered that he was not the man wanted. The same proofs now held by the police, are said to have operated in Griffin's favor. Griffin was later released on his own recognizance, but the matter kept quiet. It is now said that Griffin will never be placed on trial again for the Crafton crime, because it is known positively that he is innocent.

Kennedy a Bad One.

Kennedy, the man now accused of the crime, was always accompanied by other men than the ones arrested and tried, when engaged in breaking into houses. His real name is Moran, and he formerly kept a saloon at Benwood, O., in the rear of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad station. He and a man named Paddy McGraw attempted to break into the Panhandle station at Wheeling on September 11. Nitroglycerin was used to blow open the safe. Kennedy stood guard while McGraw did the inside work. Officers Driscoll and Gilligin heard the noise and later engaged in a pistol duel with the burglar, killing him and arresting McGraw. Kennedy is also said to be guilty of robbing Philip Fitzgibbon's saloon in Penn avenue, July 20, for which Edward McMurray is now confined in the Allegheny county jail awaiting trial. Detectives James Eagan and George Cole say they are now satisfied on this point. It is alleged that many other crimes committed in Pittsburgh and Allegheny county can and will be traced to Kennedy and his gang. Kennedy was in Pittsburgh and Allegheny during June and July, while a greater number of robberies than usual were going on.

BROOKLYN CREW EXONERATED.

Officers and Men Held Blameless for Accident to Cruiser.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The report of the naval board of inquiry, headed by Rear Admiral Watson, which met at the Brooklyn navy yard last Thursday to investigate the circumstances attending the accident to the cruiser Brooklyn in Buzzard's Bay during the recent joint maneuvers, was received at the navy department today. The court exonerated Rear Admiral Coghlan, Capt. Todd and the Brooklyn's crew from all blame for the accident.

The court says that "the ship was carefully, properly and skillfully handled, and that in view of the service in which the ship was engaged, the taking her in and out to and from the position of her anchorage, and by the channel used, was entirely justified." It recommends that no further proceedings be had in the matter.

Dalzell for Speaker.

The Hon. John Dalzell, who in the present congress represents the city of Pittsburgh and who will represent its interests in the next congress, while representing a district immediately adjacent to the city, is the man who should succeed Gen. Henderson of Iowa in the speaker's chair of the house of representatives. Congressman Dalzell is well fitted for the place. He has the necessary learning and ability. He has the required experience. He represents the best sentiment of the Republican party. He typifies its historic policy, its advanced thought and its high moral tone. He is foremost in the councils of the party and one of its recognized leaders in congress. He has been one of the principal supporters of Speaker Henderson during his term in the chair and was in confidential relations with former Speaker Reed. As a man of affairs, as a lawyer, as an orator, as a parliamentarian there is not his superior in congress. He is entitled to the honor by reason of long and efficient service, and his state is entitled to the compliment that would be paid to it in his preferment.

Pennsylvania has had but three speakers of the national house of representatives since the first meeting of congress. The time is ripe for the selection of a fourth. The first speaker was a Pennsylvanian, and he was again chosen to preside over the third congress. From that time until the selection of Galusha A. Grow in the youth of the Republican party to preside over the Thirty-seventh congress no representative from Pennsylvania sat in the speaker's chair. Since Grow no Pennsylvania Republican has been speaker. A Pennsylvania Democrat, Samuel J. Randall, presided over the Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth and Forty-sixth congresses. It was his party's tribute to his personal worth. A Pennsylvania Republican, the Hon. John Dalzell, should be chosen to preside over the Fifty-eighth congress as a tribute to his personal worth and as a tribute to the unceasing faithfulness of his state to Republican principles and policies.

Railroad Depot Plans.

There is full official confirmation of the exclusive news printed in The Gazette some time ago that the Pennsylvania railroad is preparing to build a big terminal depot at East Liberty. The Pennsylvania railroad and Pennsylvania lines will also erect a fine terminal station in Allegheny, as The Gazette learned last winter. Equally positive is the official denial of the exclusive story that the Pennsylvania will build a depot on the Cathedral site. There is nothing in the report. It is one thing to have an exclusive story and another thing to have a story that is true. When it is true The Gazette has it.

Uncle Sam, Policeman.

Great Britain threatens to break off diplomatic relations with Venezuela again as a result of the disputed ownership of a little island property. Incidentally a British statesman, who conceals his identity, wishes the United States would take over all the troublesome states which it protects by the Monroe doctrine. The English statesman seems to miss the underlying principle of the Monroe doctrine, which is the preservation of the independence of those states.

It may as well be recognized, however, that maintenance of the Monroe doctrine does impose upon this country the duty of policing that part of the hemisphere which it protects. Commander McLean reports from Colon the exercise of such powers in Colombia. In the case of Venezuela it may become the duty of the United States to compel a proving of title or prompt relinquishment of claim. If the Venezuelan title is good, a British seizure of the island would be a direct violation of the Monroe doctrine and a casus belli, but if Venezuela has no shadow of title, then it must be compelled to keep hands off. No doubt, if Great Britain has patience the dispute will be settled as satisfactorily as was that over the boundary of Guiana. But it may as well be conceded the United States is in duty bound to intervene before the quarrel passes from words to blows. It is its business to see that the states it protects honor their various international obligations, and it may become necessary, also, to prohibit the almost constant revolutions as tending against the welfare of the whole western world.

Pittsburgh to Panama.

A very practical aspect is given the Pittsburgh to Panama movement by the work under way of designing ocean-going barges that may traverse the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Of course, it is in the Pittsburgh region these barges are to be built. At present they can ply only upon the Mississippi, but if the improvement of the Ohio is vigorously urged they may soon ascend to Pittsburgh. The Ohio is easily capable of being brought to a stage of nine or ten feet, and that will be sufficient to accommodate sea-going barges.

Pittsburgh shippers have set their minds upon having facilities for shipping from this city to Panama and beyond without breaking bulk. The plan is entirely feasible and the end will justify the national expense. One object to be attained is the supplanting of Australian coal on the Pacific coast by coal from Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio. What other commerce awaits the opening of its natural channel is pretty well known. There are markets in South America for machinery, for coal, for oil and many other products when once they can be sent direct by an all-water route.

The improvement of the Ohio is so clearly the corollary of the construction of the Panama canal under American ownership that it cannot longer be overlooked. To build that canal at an expense of $130,000,000 without providing the $30,000,000 necessary to make a permanently navigable waterway of the Ohio is to undertake an expensive enterprise without securing for it a source of large income. Congress can be made to understand this truth if the task is taken up in the right spirit and pushed for what it is worth.

Proper Treatment of Burglars.

All right-thinking persons will agree with Judge Stowe and the jury which acquitted Raffaelo Mazorano. The defendant shot and killed a burglar who had broken into his house. In charging the jury the judge said it was the law that a man who finds a burglar in his house has a right to shoot in defense of himself and his property. It is not often that the tables are turned on a burglar in this way. The man who enters a house in the dead of night, to commit burglary, has all the advantages on his side. He is alert, while his victim is asleep. He is usually armed, and quite willing to add murder to his crime in order to save himself. Murders committed by burglars are much more numerous than homicides in defense of homes against housebreakers. For these reasons it is usually unwise to dispute with a burglar or to resist him, and most persons suddenly awakened from sleep are too terrified to make any resistance. When a burglar is killed while plying his nefarious trade, as was the result in this case, and in the later instance at Ford City, when Carl E. Reichard successfully defended himself, there is ground for rejoicing. Dead burglars can commit no more robberies. Examples of this sort ought to discourage the activity of housebreakers in this community, and there is no doubt that their activity needs to be discouraged.

Death of a Veteran Minister.

The passing away of the Rev. Dr. William J. Reid will be profoundly regretted, not only by members of the denomination in which he was so long prominent, but by all creeds and the public generally. His pastorate of more than 40 years in the First United Presbyterian church of this city had made him a familiar figure to two generations, and his cheerfulness, faithfulness and broad-mindedness had won for him an enduring place in the affections of all who knew him.

Mentally and physically Dr. Reid was strong, being endowed with a brain that seemingly never tired and a physique that until recently withstood the severest test of a multiplicity of duties. For many years he was prominent in all the fields of religious effort, the church, the Sunday school, the presbytery, the synod and general assembly, and, in addition to all this, he found time to devote to authorship, lectures and the editing of the paper which is the organ of United Presbyterianism. In all of this work he was eminently successful, but especially as pastor was he loved and revered. Although advanced in years he retained until the last the mental vigor of early manhood, so that he was in close sympathy with the young as well as with the old.

Excellent Military Practice.

The army maneuvers at Fort Riley, Kan., this week will not be so important as the maneuvers of European armies, in which sometimes as many as 90,000 men take part, but they will be the most important that the United States has held in many years. American troops have lately had a taste of real war, and it is necessary still to keep a military force of considerable size on duty in the Philippine islands; but the service seen abroad does not absolve the troops from practice after their return. It is of the highest importance that the army be familiarized with camp life, and accustomed to the conditions of actual warfare. Some of the regiments that take part in the maneuvers in Kansas will get more than a mere taste of campaigning. The Twenty-second infantry, for example, marched 200 miles from Fort Crook to the place of rendezvous.

The special value of the present gathering lies in the training the men will receive in the evolutions of larger bodies of troops than are ordinarily assembled in the United States for a summer encampment, and in the opportunity afforded for regiments of state guards to participate. This year troops from Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Arkansas had arranged to take part, but for some unexplained reason the Nebraska authorities sent word to Maj. Gen. Bates that the two regiments which were to participate would not report for duty. Their absence necessitated a general re-arrangement of the plans for the projected evolutions. State troops will learn valuable lessons in maneuvers of this kind, and steps ought to be taken to bring the national guard of all the states to act in conjunction with troops of the regular army.

Crime Never Succeeds.

It is one of the features of crime that each criminal imagines he can so cover his tracks as to avoid detection. Yet each falls into the same error of leaving a chain of evidence. The latest example is that of John Hooper Young. When he bundled the body of the woman he murdered into one trunk and sunk it in an abandoned canal and then bundled all other evidences into another trunk, he probably thought the police would never find him out. Yet he is now in the clutches of the law with a complete chain of circumstantial evidence woven about him.

If only the criminal mind could grasp this truth, that blood does tell, there would be less crime. There was never a malefactor so smart but there was a smarter detective ready to trail him to the ends of the earth and bring him back to deserved punishment. The evidences of crime cannot be destroyed and the most elaborate plans for escaping justice usually serve to defeat their own purpose.

Some Pumpkins.

The county fair has again brought the big pumpkin to the front, and the exhibitor points with pride to this product of the field. The diameter and circumference of the prize pumpkin are made matters of record, and they furnish a topic for conversation that will interest ruraldom until the pumpkins come again.

Naturally the dwellers in the city are not so keenly interested in the dimensions of the pumpkin, being more concerned about the number than the size. The pumpkin pie season is at hand, and it has recalled fond memories and quickened anticipation. Fortunately there is a prospect of a good crop, in spite of many obstacles interposed by contrary weather, and there is reason for believing that there will be enough to go around. A pumpkin famine would create an aching void, and therefore the reports from the county fairs add much to make life cheerful. Great is the prize pumpkin, but greater is the pumpkin pie.

If that surgical operation to reduce the size of a child's head, undertaken by eastern surgeons, be successful its usefulness may be easily extended beyond this particular case.

From the way the free trade destructionists are chortling one would think that tariff revision was an old family heirloom just recovered from the pawnbroker.

The prophet who declared President Roosevelt would shortly be in great danger will doubtless accept that Cincinnati fire as a complete vindication.

Late revelations of King Leopold's follies induces the conviction that we win in that recent change of plans about coming to America.

The St. Louis fair should hasten to secure that Stanley Spencer airship as a special feature to make up for the loss of Santos-Dumont.

The Hon. George Fred Williams of Massachusetts continues to ask in a husky voice: "Did the cyclone hit anybody else?"

The man with a full coal bin has taken the place of the man with the new Panama in the scale of wealth and creature comforts.

The Hon. Bob Pattison continues to steer his airship away from the Bryan free silver clouds that line his record.

And then, too, Speaker Henderson must have temporarily forgotten what Sam Fessenden said about a quitter.

It is too bad that Grand Duke Boris had to leave us right in the midst of the county fair season.

It is astonishing how many fussy people there are who imagine they know all about the tariff.

The north pole continues to give its exploring contemporaries the hoarse hoot.

Saving His Strength.

From the New York Times.

A thin man and a fat man started out on the east side the other day to sell lemons.

The thin man was energetic and impressed one as being a hustler; the fat man was indolent, as fat men are apt to be. Gathering himself together, the thin man would yell:

"Lemons, nice lemons, two for five, five for ten, twenty a dozen, sixteen for a quarter."

After he was through, the fat man said:

"Here, too."

AS SEEN BY THE EDITORS.

This is one of the days when news is like hen teeth.—Kittanning Times.

The Kittanning Times is kicking because there is too much profanity used on the streets of the town. Why not clean the streets and avoid the profanity.—Butler Times.

We saw a young fellow anxious to lead the style in dress a few days ago in town, and he had enough extra stuff in his breeches to make two elephant ears, and about every three steps he had to hitch them up a notch or two. But he got there just the same and his best girl says he is a regular Jasper.—Uniontown Genius.

There's not an editor in Western Pennsylvania that has a more formidable battery of guns and blunderbusses than we. This is merely given as an item of news—but all the same some smart Aleck will start up and say that there's a reason for everything.—Blairsville Courier.

Here and there on the hillsides may be seen, among the dark green foliage of the woods, a splash of bright red, which stands out in sharp contrast to its surroundings. It is a maple that the Frost King has touched. Every day from now on there will be more and more of these brilliantly red splashes. Then will come the golden yellow of the birches, the brown of the beeches, the soft gray tones, the varying shades of green. These changes will come almost unnoticed until one morning in October you will awaken and the hills in every direction will be robed in the hues of autumn, brilliant, vivid, harmonious, glorious. A picture that is spread on a canvas with a background of blue sky, air as clear as that of Colorado and a mellow flood of sunshine that softens and brightens.—Bolivar Breeze.

NEW YORK FLATS HARD TO OBTAIN

The Advanced Price of Coal Causes Higher Rental for Habitations.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.

Flat-hunting is the occupation of many New Yorkers at this time. Always a difficult quest, if one is particular about his habitation, it is harder than usual to get a comfortable flat at a reasonable rental this fall. One of the reasons is that the coal strike has made the cost of anthracite so high that owners of steam heated buildings are demanding much higher rents.

On the upper West Side, where apartment houses are so numerous, the average increase is $2.50 a month. When it is remembered that in many such houses there are from 12 to 20 suites of apartments, it can be seen that the owners are not likely to lose much by the coal strike if they are able to get the rents they ask. Another cause of the scarcity of suitable flats is that many suburban residents have determined to live in New York because they believe inter-urban transit facilities will be much improved and they are tired of the ferryboats, trains and dangerous tunnels which come into their daily lives as "commuters."

Many handsome apartment houses have been erected this year, and others are on the way, but not enough to supply the demand. New York is growing faster than its moderate priced residences, and investors in apartment real estate are deriving big profits.

While the city is moving uptown very fast, so that theaters and large stores are at the hand of Harlemites to a much larger extent than they were a few years ago, wholesale and financial business is still downtown, and will always be so. The conformation of the island and harbor make that certain. Thousands of business men and clerks are obliged to go to the extreme lower part of Manhattan to get to their daily employment, and in spite of express trains on the "L" and the prospects of others in the nearly-finished subway, they find it a disagreeable thing to travel eight or ten miles morning and evening—hanging to a strap five times in six. But it is hard to get flats any nearer, and the problem of living in New York is as difficult of solution as ever, particularly to persons of limited means.

Another Store for Pittsburgh.

Morris E. Moses, the well-known Pittsburgher, has been in New York for the last four months, with occasional flying trips to Pittsburgh. He will be at the head of a big business concern in the downtown district of Pittsburgh as soon as certain legal complications are settled. These complications involve the right to important property, and have been in the courts for a considerable time. Mr. Moses told me this afternoon that the matter will be settled within three weeks probably, and then Pittsburgh will see another important mercantile establishment open its doors for business.

Smash-Up on Brooklyn Bridge.

Another trolley smash took place on the Brooklyn bridge this morning at the rush hour. As is commonly the case, the trouble might have been much lessened, if not avoided altogether, had there been no negligence. A truck became stalled on the tracks and a car had to stop. Then in rapid succession four other cars ran into the first one and 500 passengers were thrown about hap-hazard.

There was a rule made at the time the bridge was reported to be breaking that cars should keep a certain number of feet apart. This rule has been generally disregarded of late, although the motormen have the excuse that the rails were too slippery today to hold the brakes.

The negligence complained of was in the starters, who sent cars booming along from the Brooklyn end, although they knew there was a blockade over at Manhattan. When other sources of excitement fail in Greater New York, one can always be sure that something in that way will be furnished by the big bridge.

Devery Bolts the "Lobsters."

Things have been lively around the "pump" ever since "Big Bill" Devery first announced his intention of running for leader of the Ninth district. There was more hubbub than usual tonight. Devery was holding a convention in the parlor of his home, a few doors down Twenty-eighth street from Eighth avenue, and the convention was not a particularly quiet one. Cheers for Devery roared out through the open windows at intervals, punctuated by pertinent observations in the deep tones of the ex-chief. He had said that he would not go into caucus "with them lobsters that are running things in Fourteenth street," and the meeting in his parlor was to elect delegates to the state convention from the Ninth district independently of the rest of Tammany hall. That it was an enthusiastic gathering anyone passing the "four corners" could hear for himself, and, according to "Big Bill," it was eminently satisfactory in every way.

Women Learning to Butcher.

Women butchers are regarded as a threatening innovation by the Butchers' union here. The assertion is that young women are employed in butcher shops as cashiers and bookkeepers at small pay, but are set to serving meat, as well as taking the money for it. The union "denounces" this custom, but does not seem to be exactly clear as to how to prevent it. There are said to be at least 100 women butchers in the city. Patrons of the shops do not side with the union in denouncing the fair butchers, declaring that the meat is cut more artistically and the customer treated more courteously than by the average man clerk in butcher shops. It looks as if women were about to displace men in still another important branch of trade, the only question being whether many young women can be found to take up what might be to them a rather unpleasant occupation.

Maddened by Fishing.

A New York man went fishing a day or two ago, and when he returned seemed to be demented. Now he has disappeared. His friends think that fishing drove him mad. Surely this is a warning of peril in the gentle art that never would have occurred to old Isaak Walton.

Thugs Menace Public Safety.

It is well that the man who may have been responsible for the death of Nicholas Fish in a saloon last week has been held on a charge of homicide. Whether it will turn out to be a murder or not, the circumstances are suspicious enough to irritate the public, and there is a strong sentiment that a close investigation should be made. Thugs are too common in this city for the safety of decent people.

Dissension in Automobile Club.

It is rather interesting to hear that W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., after declaring that he would not use fast automobiles again, is likely to be made president of the Automobile club of America. The impression has prevailed that young Vanderbilt was entirely disgusted with automobiles, and would have nothing to do with them hereafter, except in the mildest kind of a locomobile. It is not certain that he will be placed at the head of the Automobile club, but the story is that there is much dissatisfaction with the management of A. R. Shattuck, the president, and that a lively boom has been started for young Willie K.

Wall Street Is Calm.

The talk tonight among men of business is the deficit of a million and a half in the bank statement on Saturday. Bankers say that the deficit is purely a sentimental matter, and that it means nothing in the face of the immense actual reserves of the banks. Without going into the technical explanation, it is satisfactory to know that there is no dismay in Wall street over the showing of Saturday. In fact, in discussions by Wall street men tonight, it was noticeable that the talk was more in the vein of mild curiosity than apprehension.

Coal Used for Ornaments.

As is usual when there is a political gathering at Saratoga, the fakirs of New York haste to bring some novelties into the market for sale to the New Yorkers who are away from home temporarily, and who are ready to buy anything that comes along, if it is at all amusing. The new thing this time is a ring of twisted silver wire, holding a fragment of anthracite coal, cut into facets like a diamond. A lot of delegates to the Republican convention have bought rings of this kind, and the dealers in them are driving a fine trade. It may be a question whether the joke is worth the trouble and expense of procuring one of those rings; but it seems to amuse the delegates, and that is all that is desired. Men can afford these little jokes when on a political junket, whether at Saratoga, Washington or Harrisburg.

Making War on Mosquitoes.

In the course of the warfare against the mosquito, it is brought to the public notice that the lakes in Central park are great breeding places for the stingers. The park department has asked for an appropriation of $50,000 this year to be applied to the cleaning of the big lake, and the cutting of its sides straight down, so that fish can swim up to the banks and swallow the mosquito larvae. It will take $30,000 to do the work properly, but the department is willing to take it by degrees, and if it can get the $50,000 it asks now, it hopes to be able to make such an improvement that there will be little difficulty in getting the rest of the money required in due time. Central park is a beautiful pleasure ground, but the lakes are not so clean as they might be. The movement to get the water cleaned out and necessary repairs made in the basins is so strong that there is good reason to believe the park department will find its request listened to favorably by the rather obdurate board of estimate and apportionment.

Throwing Mud at Autos.

To show their disapproval of automobiles, some of the hoodlums in different parts of the city have got into the habit of throwing mud at the occupants. One young fellow was fined $5 for the offense today, and the police are after others. It seems as if an entente cordiale is distinctly hard to promote between the chauffeur and the street corner loafer, but the police say they will accomplish it in due time. It is the conviction of every dispassionate observer that the auto has come to New York to stay.

Uneasy About Coal.

"Big Bill" Devery in an interview today is quoted as saying that when people get chilly, in the course of a few weeks, they will begin to worry about the coal strike in Pennsylvania, more than they do today. For getting at the nub of a question at one stroke, there is no one in New York that can beat our own Devery. It may be added to his remarks that people here are already beginning to worry about the strike, when they see, as they do, that anthracite coal is $12 a ton at retail.

Daly Starts Theatrical Ball.

Daly's theater opened tonight for the season, with the musical comedy, "A Country Girl." The piece has been running successfully in London for many months, and there was little doubt that it will repeat its hit in New York. Daly's is an important spot in that part of Broadway between Herald square and Twenty-eighth street, and the throwing open of its doors lighted up things as they have not been since last spring. There was a tremendously large audience, and the throngs of well dressed men and women, the carriages, the bustling policemen and carriage openers, and all the other adjuncts of a fashionable theater opening, threw the whole neighborhood into a condition of pleasing excitement. The Criterion theater, 14 blocks further up Broadway, will open tomorrow night, with Virginia Harned as a star in A. W. Pinero's new spasm, "Iris."

William Hooper Young Identified.

Not since the Guldensuppe murder has there been such intense excitement over a capital crime as has been caused by the Pulitzer tragedy. The identification of William Hooper Young, who is suspected of the deed, in Derby, Conn., worked up the feeling here to an almost hysterical pitch, and little else is talked about everywhere. New Yorkers do not take much interest in ordinary murders, but when there are such sensational details as in this case, they are shocked completely out of their ordinary phlegmatic attitude. It does not matter, either, whether the happening is in New York or elsewhere, for the excitement over the escape from jail of the Biddle brothers, with Mrs. Soffel's sensational connection with the case, was almost as great in this city as in Pittsburgh.

BACK ON THE FARM.

The pumpkin crop is all right.—Punxsutawney Republican.

Simon Seid is the boss pumpkin raiser so far. He raised one in his lot this summer that measures 67 inches in circumference and that measures three feet from blossom end to stem.—Lock Haven Democrat.

One day last week John W. Madore of this place brought to the Bulletin office three apples of the 20-ounce variety that tipped the scales at 47 ounces. We—editor and foreman—have had the pleasure of sinking our chops into two of them and pronounce them very fine eating. Next!—Hyndman Bulletin.

Stouffertown, the pretty village east of Chambersburg, claims the banner corn stalk. On Thursday it occupied a proud position outside the wagon making shop of J. A. Schellhause, upon whose lot it was raised. The stalk measures 15 feet and two inches, and all Stouffertown is proud of it and of Mr. Schellhause, too.—Chambersburg Public Opinion.

The scarcity of cars is working great hardship to Nittany Valley farmers. Arrangements had been made to ship three carloads from Mackeyville to Pittsburgh last week, but only one car could be procured. After hauling their apples to the station the farmers were compelled to haul them home again. There is a great demand for apples from Pittsburgh.—Tyrone Times.

A CORPORATION NOT FOR PROFIT

Reply to Decision of Philadelphia Court in Christian Science Church Case.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

In reference to the refusal of the common pleas court to grant a charter to the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Philadelphia, claiming that it is a corporation for profit, I shall not declare that the judge has been governed by prejudice, but will assume that his desire is to be just and that he has labored under misapprehensions. That Mrs. Eddy once advised that the Bible and her books should, during the period of one year, be the only teachers of Christian Science; that she recommended that these be largely circulated; that she went so far as to indicate that those who did not appreciate and act according to this plan were not in reality Christian Scientists and not worthy to continue as members of the Christian Science denomination, could not be intelligently considered sufficient reasons for the charge that the Christian Science church is conducted for profit.

Even though it should be true that it is managed in such a way as to aid its leader financially, the question as to the motive of this would have to be settled before the charge of working for profit could be sustained, and it should be known that the individuals who have benefited Mrs. Eddy by purchasing and selling her books have been the direct beneficiaries of the profits accruing to her. Thus it may be noted that the Pennsylvania judge, in this instance, has not based his action altogether upon evidence but has judged in matters which involve the conscience of Christian Scientists and concerning which God alone is able to give a just decision.

A large portion of religious denominations, both Protestant and Catholic, in our cities sell sittings. Because of this a judge might assume that such institutions are conducted for the sole purpose of profit through the hiring of pews.

There are book concerns in connection with most religious denominations and most of the members of these denominations either buy or sell the commodities of these concerns. It is not unlikely that individual members of such organizations who should work against these concerns or refuse to acknowledge their usefulness by work or by error of commission or omission would be considered unfit for membership and liable to expulsion. Many churches resort to selling tickets for lectures and entertainments for the purpose of obtaining funds. Many organizations have fairs and thus enter into mercantile business, and yet so far as I know no judge has ever taken these matters into consideration in the granting of a charter nor declared such practice illegal.

A charter is refused under the weak excuse that the societies petitioning therefor are doing so for profit. The only testimony offered is that the leader of the Christian Science movement sells books to its members for a profit and indicates that a lack of due appreciation of the importance of circulating the Bible and the Christian Science books disqualifies a professing Christian Scientist for membership in the Christian Science church. And this refusal is made in the face of the fact that she gives this profit back to the church. If this decision should become a precedent it would be difficult for any religious organization to obtain a charter, for where technicalities, prejudice and misapprehension maintain it is not difficult to find an excuse for rejecting a petition.

PERSONALS.

The many improvements that have been in progress at the Hotel Henry are about completed. Last night the large banqueting hall was thrown open to the public and will hereafter be known as the "Crystal" hall. Classic windows divide it from the former banqueting hall and thousands of prisms dance and sparkle in it. The electrician's art has made the new hall look like a leaf from Paradise, and last night hundreds of visitors viewed it.

W. E. Knowles of New York, Chicago and East Liverpool passed through the city last night. "The finer grades of china," he said, "are in great demand in this country, and our importing firms find it very hard to fill orders."

George Boyle of Riverside, Cal., former Democratic county chairman of Fayette county, passed through the city last night from his old home in Uniontown. He is a son of Congressman Charles Boyle, now deceased.

Those Who Know Him.

From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Those who know Judge Pennypacker know that he would prove as fearless and as honest in the governor's chair as John Weaver has been in the chair of the district attorney. Mr. Weaver as a candidate was denounced by Democrats as a "creature" of the "machine" and as one who would be controlled by faction. The time has come when even the yellowest newspaper finds only words of praise for the good work which the district attorney has accomplished. Judge Pennypacker, with a record as stainless as the driven snow, could not sully that record as governor. At Harrisburg he would be the governor of all the people, not of a few. Nothing savoring of corruption in legislation would pass him.

Two Methods Open.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The statement of the New York Times that there are two methods by which the anthracite coal strike may be ended makes the situation plain. One method is for the operators to increase their guards, appeal to the governor for larger supplies of troops and force the issue with harsh measures. The other is for the owners to agree with each other what reforms they are willing to grant to the miners, reorganize the industry as they conceive it may be properly reorganized, and then ask the men to return to their old places.

Some Feeling Aroused.

From the Chicago Tribune.

A stranger went to Warren, Jo Daviess county, the other day, filled several hundred small envelopes with ashes from the water works of that town, and sold them to the inhabitants for 10 cents apiece as souvenirs from Mont Pelee. Peddlers with real souvenirs from Mont Pelee will do well to give Warren a wide berth.

At the End of the Season.

THE DEATH ROLL.

John J. Mitchell Buried.

Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, Forty-sixth street, by the Very Rev. F. L. Tobin, the rector, over the remains of Attorney John J. Mitchell, the oldest practicing lawyer at the Allegheny county bar at the time of his death last Friday. The interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery. The active pallbearers were: Arthur Carson, Thomas Kelly, M. J. McCann, K. B. Bracken, John D. Cochran and L. H. Noble. The honorary pallbearers included: Hon. Thomas Mellon, Hon. E. H. Stowe, Hon. Josiah Cohen, Hon. Christopher Magee, Hon. P. H. Collier, Hon. M. W. Acheson, Maj. A. M. Brown, D. D. Bruce, Gen. A. L. Pearson, Col. A. Blakely, Maj. B. J. Reid, John H. Kerr, C. F. McKenna, Thomas C. Lazear, M. W. Woodward, William Reardon, F. C. McGirr and C. A. Fagan.

A meeting of the Allegheny County Bar association was held yesterday afternoon to take action upon the death of Attorney Mitchell, who was the oldest active member of the bar. The decedent was the father of 19 children, and of the 12 that survived him six sons were at the meeting. Judge E. H. Stowe presided, and addresses were made by Judge Josiah Cohen, Attorney T. B. Alcorn, Attorney J. C. Dicken and Attorney William A. Golden. Appropriate resolutions were passed.

Dr. D. E. Sorg.

Dr. D. E. Sorg, a member of the well-known Sorg family of the South Side, where he practiced dentistry for some years, died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock at Mineral Ridge, O., of a complication of diseases. Dr. Sorg had been traveling in California and Arizona for the past three years in the hope of improving his health. During the past summer he went to Mineral Ridge and the news of his death was received yesterday by his relatives on the South Side. Dr. Sorg was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and for some time previous to leaving Pittsburgh had an office in the Park building. He is survived by two brothers, R. H. and C. F. Sorg, and four sisters, the Misses Caroline, Elizabeth, Sadie and Julia Sorg. The death of Dr. Sorg is especially sad at this time, as his funeral is to take place tomorrow from his home, No. 2003 Carson street, on the day on which his brother, C. F. Sorg, was to have been married.

J. Harvey McMurray.

J. Harvey McMurray, one of the oldest residents of Peters township, Washington county, died at his home yesterday, aged 72. He was a member of one of the oldest families in this section of the state, the village of McMurray, in Peters township, having been named after his grandfather, John McMurray, one of the earliest settlers in Washington. He was a native of Washington county, and was engaged for years in farming and stock raising. He was an active member of the Peters Creek Presbyterian church. He married Elizabeth Simpson, who died several year ago, and is survived by nine children, James M., John, William, Harvey, Charles and Clara, at home; Mrs. Belle Hill of Freeport, Mrs. Chatfield Matthews and Mrs. Orron Johnston of McMurray. He is also survived by one brother, Archibald McMurray of Peters township.

Mrs. Belinda Martin.

Mrs. Belinda Martin, one of the oldest residents of Washington county, is dead at her late home in West Finley township, aged 80 years. She had been ill for several months and her death was due to old age. She was born in East Finley township in 1813 and was a member of a pioneer family, being the youngest of 12 children. Her maiden name was Sprowls. In 1833 she married James Martin of West Finley township, a prosperous farmer, and is survived by these children, her husband having died several years ago: James Martin of Burnsville, John G. Martin of Washington and Simeon, at home. She was a lifelong member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

John Lee.

John Lee, one of the oldest residents of Sharon, died here yesterday morning after an extended illness from a complication of diseases. He was born in Lancashire, England, May 6, 1828, and in 1854 came to Sharon. He engaged in business there for many years, retiring in 1874, and since that time devoted his time to looking after his real estate, being one of the most extensive property owners in the town. Besides his wife he is survived by the following children: William, Edwin, Mary and Nancy, all of Sharon. He was a member of the Oddfellows lodge and of the Episcopal church. In politics Mr. Lee was a Republican, and always took an active interest in borough affairs.

Mrs. Green Buried.

The funeral of Mrs. Henrietta Ford Green took place yesterday afternoon from the chapel of H. Samson, in Sixth avenue. James Green, her husband, and one of the best known business men of Pittsburgh, is dangerously ill at his home in Hallman street, East End, being confined to his bed since his wife's death. Mrs. Green died suddenly last Friday night of heart trouble, and her death was a severe shock to her husband. He has conducted a store in the Pittsburgh Diamond for the past 35 or 40 years.

Jedediah Mount.

Word has been received of the death at Fairfield, Ia., of Jedediah Mount, who was 92 years old. He was a native of Washington county. His father, Jonah Mount, was a pioneer settler in the eastern part of Washington county and a veteran of the Revolutionary war. Deceased with his family went west in the fifties and lived for many years at Zanesville, O., later going to Iowa, where he was engaged in business. He is survived by his wife, formerly Mary Ruth of Washington, and several children.

Philippine Soldier Buried.

The funeral of Robert F. McCowan, a Philippine soldier, who died of climatic disease at the Presidio hospital, San Francisco, September 13, took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from St. Paul's Roman Catholic cathedral. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. McCowan enlisted in June, 1899, for service in the Philippines. He was just 21 years old. The pallbearers were members of the regular army, detailed from the Allegheny arsenal.

MUCH INTEREST IN A POSSIBLE EXTRA SESSION

Republicans Expect Congress to Take Up Reciprocity Next Spring.

DEMOCRATS ARE SHIFTING ISSUES

Have Discovered That Anti-Imperialism Is Unpopular and Prefer to Make the Campaign on a Reduction of the Tariff.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 626 Fifteenth St., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.

Republican leaders here are intensely interested in the probability of an extra session of congress next spring to consider Cuban reciprocity, and especially as it is regarded as impracticable to have any extra session this fall because the demands of the election would give but little time for the consideration of any question leading to debate. It would be a simple matter to defeat a measure if the time were limited in which it was to be disposed of. But the case would be entirely different if an extra session were called to begin immediately upon the conclusion of the Fifty-seventh congress. Time at the disposal of congress would be unlimited and nothing could be gained by dilatory proceedings.

Above all, the question of Cuban reciprocity could then be considered by a house of representatives just elected and supposed to reflect the dominant feeling in the country on the issues to be considered. In the case of the senate that would assemble for the Fifty-eighth congress, many members would have been elected upon issues involving the object of reciprocity, so that that body also would be influenced forcibly by the feeling dominant in the country in relation to the treatment that should be given Cuba.

Could Fulfill Promises.

It is said that this plan is approved by prominent Republican leaders, and if it should be accepted by President Roosevelt it is believed it will greatly intensify the campaign so far as the reciprocity issue is concerned. Most of the nominees for congress have declared their principles on the subject of reciprocity and the holding of an extra session in March would allow them to make good their promises without delay.

The shifting nature of Democratic politics is the subject of a great deal of comment on the part of Republicans who have undertaken to follow the trend of Democratic argument that goes before the voters in the states. On September 3, just 19 days ago, the Democratic campaign book was made public. The books have not yet all been printed and their distribution is far from complete. The foremost issue in the book, covering 98 of its 384 pages, is imperialism. Imperialism is given the honor, leading in the arguments against the Republican administration, except in the case of brief comments. Indeed, the publication of the book was long delayed in order that this foremost issue might be fully commented on and given the important consideration that a foremost issue should receive.

Democrats Have Shifted.

Republicans are calling attention to the fact that in spite of the foremost place given to this issue in the campaign the Democrats have already shifted their arguments which relegates imperialism to comparative obscurity, and all this before they have fully distributed the book. They call attention to declarations made by officers of the Democratic congressional committee to the effect that Speaker Henderson's action made it easy to shift to the tariff and trusts.

It is claimed by the Republicans that the arguments against so-called imperialism have not only fallen with no effect on people before whom they have been placed, but that they have produced resentment in many parts of the country, which is now being evidenced in various ways. The campaign book was not even published when there was vigorous protests on the part of Democratic speakers against the policy of making the war in the Philippines an issues in the campaign.

Soldiers Resent Attacks.

They found that throughout Democratic districts soldiers returning from the Philippines resented the idea of having themselves pictured as actors in a campaign of brutality and derided when they expected to return home in the role of heroes who had been suffering many hardships in the service of their country. These men protested against being placed in this position.

Their relatives and friends sympathized with them and the storm of protest is said to be coming into this city from all parts of the country in various ways. It is said to be this influence that was very early felt in the campaign beside the general unpopularity of abuse on the American army that has shifted the issue. At any rate, imperialism is regarded as practically of the same nature as is free silver as a Democratic doctrine.

In view of this quick change in the nature of the campaign that was to be waged, Republicans are considering what may happen next. They declare that general confidence is felt in Mr. Roosevelt as one who will use his influence to secure a modification of the tariff if necessary to prevent any evil of trusts that seek to charge excessive prices for their products.

They say the distance between a policy for modifying the tariff by believers in the principle of protection and tariff tinkering by a party with a history favoring free trade is very far. The failure of the Democratic campaign committee to secure enough speakers to take the stump is said to be due to the unpopularity of campaign issues as outlined in the book issues by the committee, rather than because of any lack of speakers.

These Democrats have given all kinds of reasons why they could not leave their happy homes in the south and elsewhere and go into doubtful states to talk Democratic doctrine as outlined in the campaign book. The question that is now proving most interesting to Republicans is the further shifting of the issues that may take place.

BELGIAN QUEEN WAS LAID TO REST

KING AND COURT ATTEND THE FUNERAL.

Princess Stephanie Tells How She Was Driven from Mother's Bier by Her Father.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

SPA, BELGIUM, Sept. 22.—The funeral services preparatory to the removal of the remains of Queen Marie Henriette to Brussels were held this morning in a church here. The coffin later was placed in a car and was completely hidden by flowers. King Leopold, leaning on the arm of Prince Albert of Flanders, the heir presumptive to the throne, followed on foot, the ministers, generals and other distinguished persons bringing up the rear. The route of the funeral procession was lined with troops and crowded with people.

After the requiem mass the cortege proceeded to the railroad station. The king, Prince Albert, Princess Clementine and the ministers accompanied the body to the train.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22.—The funeral train arrived at Laken at 5:40 p. m. The engine was draped with a crape-covered flag. The king and the other members of the royal family, the men in full uniform, with crape scarfs and sword hilts covered with crape descended and gathered in the waiting room to which the coffin was removed.

The procession afterwards started for a neighboring church, the grenadiers' band playing a funeral march. The coffin was borne into the church, where the archbishop of Malines pronounced the absolution, after which the coffin, followed by the king and other notabilities, was taken to the crypt. The remains later will be placed in the mausoleum.

The scandal arising from the revival of the family quarrel between King Leopold and his daughter, the Princess Stephanie, countess of Lonyay, beside the bier of the late Queen Marie Henriette at Spa yesterday is agitating all classes. Popular sympathy on all sides is expressed for the princess, who, although deeply affected by the incident, makes no complaint. The princess herself has given out a simple statement of the facts as follows:

"The precise facts are these: I was praying at the bier of the queen, when someone came about 4 o'clock to tell me the king would not receive me. I immediately left the death chamber. I had no interview with his majesty.

"I was at Cromer, England, when I learned of the death of the queen. Like a loving daughter and a patriot I hurried to Spa to render the last honors to my mother.

"As the king has caused an intimation to be conveyed to me that he does not desire my presence, I am going to Calais, where my husband will meet me. Thence I shall probably return to England. There was no scene between the king and myself."

Princess Stephanie started for Calais this afternoon. She was accorded a most enthusiastic greeting by large crowds of people at the railroad station, while cries of "Vive la comtesse" were raised, to which she responded, "I thank you with all my heart."

Then, apparently quite overcome by the popular demonstration, the princess burst into tears.

WORK HAS STARTED ON NEW PLANT AT CHESWICK

Pittsburgh and Drop Forging Company Will Give Employment to 245 Men.

Work was begun yesterday on the plant of the Pittsburgh Tool and Drop Forging Company at Cheswick, on the West Penn railroad. This is a corporation recently formed with a capital of $100,000 for the purpose of manufacturing track and mining tools and specialities in drop forgings and tools of various kinds. A large part of the product will be made under patents owned by the company.

The plant is being erected upon a plot of two acres and when completed it will furnish employment to 245 men. The company expects to have it in operation within six weeks. The officers of the company are W. F. Schleiter, president; W. R. Wray, treasurer, and Joseph R. Morris, general manager.

Other stockholders include E. D. Fulton of Uniontown, J. T. Blair of Parkersburg, W. Va.; E. L. Maxwell, D. J. Marshall and H. E. Armstrong. The works will be located in the new borough of Cheswick and they will have good shipping facilities. The general manager, Mr. Morris, has had a wide experience in this line of work and the company is launched under auspicious circumstances.

Earthquake in Ecuador.

GUAYAQUIL, ECUADOR, Sept. 22.—A heavy earthquake shock was felt here at 1:25 this afternoon.

CAN THE CITY PURCHASE SITE FOR A SCHOOL?

City Solicitor Carnahan Will Be Asked This Pertinent Question.

MEETS THE COMMITTEE THIS MORNING

Common Councilman D. F. Crawford Thinks Park Site Idea Is Still Best—Action Toward Securing Mrs. Schenley's Consent.

"Has the city of Pittsburgh any power in law to expend money, raised in any manner, for the purchase of a site for the proposed polytechnic school?" This will be the question put to City Solicitor Thomas D. Carnahan when he meets the special subcommittee appointed to discuss with him the question of using a part of Schenley park for the school site. Common Councilman Daniel F. Crawford will put the query, and the answer will play an important part in determining where the school shall be located.

The suggestion that a portion of the park be used for the site was Mr. Crawford's and when Chairman William McConway of the committee on plan and scope told the members of the councilmanic committee on site that Mr. Carnahan had said the ground could not be used for such a purpose, Mr. Crawford was staggered, but he countered by asking Mr. McConway whether the city had the right to spend any money for such a purpose. The query is still unanswered.

Meeting Set for Today.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Solicitor Carnahan will meet the special committee. Mr. Carnahan yesterday went thoroughly over the deeds, so as to refresh his memory as to their provisions, although he was familiar with them, as he drew them while practicing law with his father, who was attorney for the Schenley estate.

Solicitor Carnahan will give the special committee the same opinion that he gave Chairman McConway, viz., that the city cannot permit the use of any part of the park without Mrs. Schenley's consent, as the land was secured from her for park purposes.

She gave the city 300 acres and stipulated in the deed of gift that it should be used as a park. The city wanted more land, and she sold the city 110 acres. This deed also stated that it must be used as a park. Mrs. Schenley sold these 110 acres at a low price because it was to be used as a park.

Will Hasten Settlement.

The members of this special committee are D. F. Crawford of the Fourteenth ward, W. J. Zahniser of the Seventeenth ward, and Henry Fitzpatrick of the Eleventh ward. Crawford originally suggested the park site. His suggestion has been enthusiastically received.

It was not announced whether the piece wanted was a part of the gift or a part of the 110 acres bought of Mrs. Schenley. E. M. Bigelow, who was director of public works at the time, says that it was purchased, the city paying $1,250 an acre for it. This, however, may not change the legal status of the question.

After the special committee has got its opinion, Chairman Gebhart Sahner will call another meeting of the committee on site, and the plan and scope committee and committee on municipal relations will also be asked to participate, as they may have some suggestions to make as to the manner in which Mrs. Schenley is to be approached to secure her consent. The committee on site, with city councils, will take steps at once to put the matter to the test, and learn her disposition toward the plan.

BRANCH WAS ORGANIZED.

University Extension Society Has West End Center.

A branch of the University Extension society has been organized by residents of the West End, Crafton, Ingram, Idlewood, Sheraden and Carnegie. It will be known as the West End center. The promoters of the movement have arranged with Prof. Edwin E. Sparks to give the opening lecture of a course of six lectures on next Tuesday evening. Prof. Sparks will lecture on "The Men Who Made the Nation," and part I. will include the period 1763-1800.

The lectures, according to present arrangements, will be given fortnightly until December 9. If the course proves a success, reading classes will be organized and a traveling library secured and located at the West End Carnegie branch library. The Thaddeus Stevens public school hall has been secured for the lectures.

The organization of the new branch was inaugurated by Mrs. William Whitman and Mrs. James Howard of Ingram and Miss Agnes M. Elliott, librarian at the West End library. The officers and members of the executive committee of the new branch include: Percy F. Smith, president; William Gundlefinger, secretary; Mrs. Neely, treasurer. General committee, Mrs. J. A. Evans, Mrs. James Howard, Miss Lillian Smith, Mrs. Andrew McMaster, Mrs. William Whitman, the Hon. J. A. Evans, Miss Martha Parsons, Miss Anna Parsons, A. G. Parsons, the Rev. John E. Wiehart, Mrs. J. E. Wishart, Dudley Burroughs, Prof. Malcolm Lang, Mr. and Mrs. McMaster, James Howard, E. D. Smith, all of Ingram; Miss Alice Barnett, Prof. S. S. Baker, the Rev. Mr. Steed, Mrs. Steed, Prof. Colebank of Crafton; Mrs. T. D. Steen of Carnegie, Miss Garbart, Miss Agnes M. Elliott, Mrs. Donehoo, Mrs. Speiker and William Gundlefinger of the West End.

Rilling to Join Pattison.

John S. Rilling, chairman of the state campaign committee of the Democratic party, spent part of yesterday in Pittsburgh en route from his home at Erie to join the Pattison party of spellbinders at Johnstown last night. Mr. Rilling will remain with the party until it passes through Pittsburgh tomorrow morning. Tomorrow afternoon there is to be a meeting of the campaign committee of the Democrats at the Monongahela house to fix the unsettled dates of the Pattison party.

A Mahogany Bed of Unusual Beauty

Every bed in this stock has a distinction peculiar to itself. Every style has its own delightful type of beauty.

There's a multitude of Beds here, and the one pictured in this advertisement has been singled out because of its rich effectiveness. The beauty in this case is owing in part to the design and the carving, and partly to the exquisite quality of mahogany, of which the bed is made.

When you come to examine this bed, please pay especial attention to the masterful manner in which the carving of the four posts is executed—and note the artistic appearance of the claw feet.

Should you prefer something more elaborate you'll find ample opportunity here for gratifying your fancy—and in every case you will find that price inducement is greatest at

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Eight thousand people saw Pittsburgh beat Buffalo 5 to 1 today, but they were in high glee because of the good showing made by the locals against the champions. Chesbro was in the box for Pittsburgh, and the Bisons made six hits off him, while the Pittsburghs touched up Amole and Leroy for nine. Amole pitched a steady game until the eighth, when three runs were made off him and he retired after his finger was injured by a batted ball. Leroy took his place, and the speedy little Indian was cheered when he struck out Smith and Chesbro.

Pittsburgh made two runs in the second, when Amole hit Sebring in the shoulder and gave Ritchey a base on balls. Both scored on a single by Conroy and a long hit by Smith. The three runs scored in the eighth were got by two lucky hits, a base on balls and Conroy's good single. Buffalo's solitary run was made in the fourth. Atherton got to first on a short hit and then McIntyre batted the ball to deep right, reaching second and letting Atherton score.

This alone would have made McIntyre the hero of the game, but he got more applause by rushing through the crowd at the left field foul line and gobbling a fly. It was the most sensational catch of the season on the local ball field. Neither the umpire nor the players could see whether Mac got it or not, but he came out of the mob with the leather in his hands, and the bleachers were ready to perjure themselves for him.

Chesbro's pitching was a puzzle to the home players. He struck out Jake Gettman twice, which was just what the fans did not expect. Yet Doc Amole, who was only three times at bat, made two good singles off the Pittsburgh wonder. There was plenty of applause for the Pittsburgh team, especially when they were warming up and making sensational catches. Ritchie and Smith played with the Buffalo team in seasons past, and every one had heard of Hans Wagner, who, by the way, made a very bad error.

All Buffalo's share of the gate receipts went to the Buffalo players, and there was a great time giving presents to Catcher Shaw, Manager Stallings and others. The game was played under National league rules and the foul strike rule was not appreciated by the bleachers. Henry Lynch, the Buffalo fielder, was umpire, and did very well. The score:

GIANTS MADE ERRORS.

That Is Why Boston Won—Pittinger and Tenney Suffered.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Boston beat New York today mainly through errors of the local men in the seventh and ninth innings. For six innings the game was close and well played, but the home team fell off badly after that. Willis and Taylor were both effective. Pittinger, who was coaching the visitors, was ordered off the field and Tenney, the Boston first baseman, was put out of the game for protesting in the seventh inning. Score:

SHORT AND SNAPPY.

Brooklyn Beat the Phillies in the Ninth Inning.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 22.—A base on balls to Dahlen and hits by Farrell and Flood, with one man out in the latter half of the ninth inning, won the game for Brooklyn from the Philadelphia team today. Dugglesby and Evans were the opposing pitchers, but the latter got the better support. The game was a short and snappy one, and the fielding of the winners was excellent. Score:

GETTING STRONGER HOLD.

A. J. Reach Will Likely Guide the Quakers in the Future.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—That there is truth in the rumors regarding President A. J. Reach of the Philadelphia Baseball club, limited, taking a vigorous interest in the affairs of the club next season is evidenced from the fact that he has purchased from Col. John I. Rogers another fourth interest in the club grounds at Broad and Huntingdon streets.

Today Col. Rogers said: "The transfer was a real estate deal between myself and Mr. Reach, and in no way connected with the Philadelphia Baseball club. When the original purchase was made Mr. Reach was given the option of increasing his holdings 25 per cent by a certain time. Mr. Reach exercised that option and transferred the one-fourth interest as per our original agreement. Mr. Reach is now an equal owner in the ground. There is absolutely no significance in the transfer."

Although the present season has been a losing one for the club, Messrs. Reach and Rogers appear to think that next season matters will be cleared up a bit, so that with a good team they will get bured some of the lost patronage. Mr. Reach is confident that money can be made with a winning team, and proves it by his newest investment.

WATKINS GETS PENNANT.

Louisville Tried to Steal a March, But Scheme Failed.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 22.—By winning three games today from St. Paul, Indianapolis secured the American association pennant. The season closed today. The race between Louisville and Indianapolis was so close that failure to play out the schedule by either club would have turned the scale against it, so when it was announced that Louisville and Indianapolis would play three games today, the Indianapolis management secured an agreement with the locals to do likewise.

Louisville took all three games from Minneapolis. They won second and third and the umpire gave them the first, 9 to 0, because Minneapolis failed to reach the grounds on time.

QUOIT PITCHING HONORS.

Championship of First and Fourth Wards to Be Settled.

The quoit pitching championship of the First and Fourth wards, which has been in dispute all summer, is to be settled on the 27th of the month, when Ick Manion and John McCoy, the Fourth ward representatives, will meet P. T. Hogan and John Cusick "de champeens of de Foist," in a match game for $50 a side. All parties interest met last night, drew up articles of agreement as long as the constitution of the United States, then started out to do a line of practice and training.

Good Time by East End Pigeons.

The East End Homing club, the Pittsburgh district of the national federation of American homing pigeon fanciers, flew its 200 miles young birds' race from South Charleston, Ohio, on Sunday, September 21. The birds were liberated by W. R. Torrense, the baggage agent, who sent out birds up at 9 o'clock a. m., light wind from east. The first left to report was William Mayburg, with one bird, speed 923.61 yards per minute, followed close by 17 birds, making 18 birds home out of 22 of an entry. The second left to report was Mr. R. Peters', speed 900.01 yards; next to report was Mr. C. A. Allan, speed 875.79 yards, next to report was J. A. Allen, speed 865.70; next Mr. Heed, speed 816.30; next Mrs. J. A. Allen, speed 763.18 yards. Other members reported one-day records. The next fly will be from Greenfield, Ind., the 200 miles.

Will Shoot For a Stake.

An interesting shooting match will come off next Saturday at Whittaker, near Homestead. John Rushe of Mifflin township and Henry Wilson of Homestead have been matched to shoot for $50 a side. A number of smaller events will also be shot off.

AMONG THE AMATEURS.

Eureka of Leesdale defeated the Pittsburgh Stars of Pittsburgh by the score of 7 to 6. They will play the Ben Avon Beaus of Allegheny next Saturday at Leesdale.

Address Edward Evans, manager of second team, care South Side High School, corner 10th and Carson streets.

Pittsburgh Reserves wish to correct the statement erroneously appearing in Sunday's papers that they were beaten by the Original Rosetta Juniors, the score being, as the score was 4 to 0 in favor of Reserves. The Reserves want a game for Saturday, September 27, out-of-town team preferred. Address No. 1812 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh.

Football has struck in Homewood. Every one is pulling hard for the Cottage club team. Some of the best local amateur talent has been secured and all indications are that Cottage will have one of the strongest teams in this end of the state. The team will have its first practice this evening and all candidates are required to report promptly at 7 o'clock.

The Manchester Athletic club would like to have Rosen, who played center for them last year, report Tuesday evening at the Hollywood grounds. They also have yet a few open dates and would like to hear from all 110-pound teams having grounds. They request a letter from the Brushton Mohawks. W. J. Montgomery, box 930, Pittsburgh.

The Sewickley Jack Rabbits, better known as the Sewickley Y. M. C. A. second football team, would like to arrange games with any team averaging from 100 to 115 pounds, the Pittsburgh college second team, Allegheny Preparatory school, Lowell A. C. and Shadyside preferred. Games to be played at Sewickley. Address C. F. Fleming, Walnut street, Sewickley.

The East Liberty basketball team will hold its first practice this evening and all players are requested to be at the hall with uniforms at 8 o'clock sharp. The team this year will be as strong, if not stronger, than that of last year, and the tis saying a good deal, as the record made by last year's team will show. Practice will be held every Tuesday and Friday evenings until the team is in condition. The manager has already arranged several plums for his schedule, but as East Liberty intends to play quite a number of games this season, all good, strong teams are request d to write for dates. Address manager J. L. B. T., box 42, East Liberty station.

FORGOT THE GUARANTEE.

Why the Cuban Giants Did Not Play at Sewickley.

The game scheduled to take place at Sewickley yesterday between the Elmhurst Giants and the Cuban X-Giants did not materialize, although the Cubans were on the ground as, also was the Elmhurst players. The manager of the latter team had left for New York and absent mindedly forgot to leave the $50 guarantee, demanded by the Cuban X' Giants.

HOMESTEAD TEAM HAS DISBANDED

SHOWING MADE DID NOT PLEASE ITS BACKERS.

Risher Ordered to Secure Stars for Next Year—College Team to Be Organized Here.

The Homestead semi-professional baseball team, which had a rather checkered career during the season, has been disbanded and the players sent to their homes. It was the intention of Manager Howard Risher to continue the season for at least a month longer, but those back of the club decided against this, and the team was disbanded at once.

Manager Risher said yesterday that while his team had been what is considered an in-and-outer, still, for the players he was forced to use he thinks the showing made was not such a bad one. He has received orders to start right in and secure players for next season—and to be sure and get the best. The Homestead people feel somewhat sad over the showing of this season's team, particularly at the throw-downs administered by the Cuban Giants, and they want the best next season.

Manager Risher will start in at once to secure talent and when the next baseball season rolls around he promises to have a team that Homestead will be proud of. The chances are that not over three or four members of this season's team will be found on next season's aggregation. Three men who are sure of positions are Torreyson, who captained this year's team; Jones, the pitcher, and Marshall, the catcher and all-around player.

The Homestead team will have a strong opponent next season in a team to be organized by the Moorewood Athletic club, to be captained and managed by Fred Crolius, the sterling player who did such good work for the Pirates when the regular players were crippled. This team is to be made up of ex-college stars, of which there are a number located in and about this city. It is understood that W. C. Temple will be back of this team, and his connection with it means a first-class organization.

It was also understood that next season a strong effort will be made to organize a semi-professional team to include Homestead, Pittsburgh, Punxsutawney, Altoona, Johnstown, East Liverpool and other towns which supported strong semi-professional teams this season. That a league of this kind would be a financial success is a certainty, because the games played this season were liberally patronized. It is likely that a meeting of those interested will be called soon and steps towards an organization taken.

THE FAVORITES SHOWED POORLY AT TERRE HAUTE

Grand Circuit Races Start on Track That Was Fast.

SMALL CROWD TO SEE THE EVENTS

Allerson, in the 2:12 Trot, and Black Lady, in the 2:24 Trot, Fooled the Talent by Getting Only One Heat Each.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 22.—A small crowd witnessed the first day's program of the grand circuit meeting. The track was fast, although the weather was threatening. Allerson was favorite for the 2:12 trot, but he won only the first heat, Hal Clipper taking the next three. Clark, owner of Hal Clipper, drove the first heat and then retired in favor of Jolly, who drove the second mile in 2:07½. Black Lady was the favorite in the 2:24 trot, but failed to get a place, Judge Cullen finishing first in three straight heats.

In the 2:25 pace Tommy Mc won in straight heats, Billy and Dorothy Wilton finishing second and third each heat.

Monte Carlo took the first heat in the 2:13 trot, securing the pole from A. J. D. at the start and continuing in the lead throughout the heat. After the horses had scored twice for the second heat the race went over until tomorrow on account of darkness and the fact that Crescent threw a shoe. Summary:

WILL BE STRONG FIGHT.

Bowser and Gerwig in Shape for Their Bout.

Mull Bowser and Charles Gerwig put in another day's training yesterday for their go at Beaver Falls on Thursday night. The easy manner in which Gerwig disposed of Cramer makes him a dangerous man for anyone of his weight and Bowser will have to fight harder than ever before to gain the decision. Although Bowser knows in Gerwig he has a dangerous opponent, not to be fooled with, says he expects to win handily and before the limit is reached.

QUAKER YACHT WON.

Iroquois Came in Ahead in the Ocean Race.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—J. G. N. Whitaker's yacht, Iroquois, of Philadelphia, after one of the closest contests of the kind on record, has won the ocean race on corrected time, for schooners to north end lightship off Cape May and return, which started from Nortons point on Saturday morning. The race ended when Commodore Tod's Thistle arrived at 9:30 last night, but the corrected time cannot be given until Wednesday.

Finals in Tennis Doubles Saturday.

The final match in the tennis doubles of the Pittsburgh Field club open tournament is now fixed for Saturday. The match, which is between Moorhead and Coster, as opposed to Beals and Dickson, was postponed from last Saturday.

STONE TO MAKE SPEECHES.

Governor Expects to Be Assigned to the Stump in the State Campaign.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Gov. Stone said tonight that he expected to see Senator Quay in a few days in regard to some appointments to speak in the gubernatorial campaign. The governor also said that there was no truth in the report that he will hold a conference in Philadelphia shortly with Senators Quay and Penrose relative to an extra session of the general assembly, and that he had the promise of a majority of the members of the general assembly to pass the compulsory arbitration bill prepared by the People's Alliance.

"I am willing, as I said before," added the governor, "to call a special session of the legislature if I can be convinced that a bill can be passed that will be sustained by the courts as constitutional and will settle this strike and prevent others.

"As I understand the situation, neither the miners nor the operators believe a special session can pass such a law, and the expressions of senators and members gathered by newspapers show a wide and irreconcilable difference of opinion as to its provisions. I would not be willing to call a special session if it be apparent that nothing could come out of it but a large expense to the state."

SWIMMER'S CLOTHES STOLEN.

Police Caught Him Naked While Hunting New Raiment.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 22.—(Special.)—John McGlynn, a young man, hid for more than 24 hours stark naked in the bushes along the Mahoning river yesterday and today. The police were notified this afternoon that a naked man was running through a resident part of the city.

They went on a search and captured McGlynn. He said he went in swimming yesterday, and some one stole his clothes. He had been trying ever since to get to a house where he could get new clothes.

THERE IS CHAGRIN OVER STATE'S LOSS

WASH.-JEFF CHARGES CANCELLATION TO FEAR.

Games Were Counted on as Big Attractions and Manager Craig Will Give Date to Bucknell.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Sept. 22.—The announcement that State college had cancelled the two games previously scheduled with the Washington and Jefferson football team, was received with considerable chagrin by the followers of football in Washington. It had been expected that the Thanksgiving Day game with the Bellefonte aggregation in Washington would prove the premier drawing card of the season in football circles here, and it seems now as if Washington and Jefferson would have to look elsewhere for a good game for that day.

It is not believed here that the trouble three years ago betwen the two colleges is the reason for the cancellation of the two games arranged for this season, but it is thought that there is some other motive for State not playing with the local collegians. Manager Craig has written to the State college management to ascertain more definitely the reason for the cancellation, and a reply is expected in a short time. It is claimed here that State is afraid to play Washington and Jefferson principally on account of the good showing made by Washington and Jefferson last year. If State college is firm in its decision not to play the local collegians, it is possible that Bucknell will be the Thanksgiving Day attraction in local football. Bucknell, according to the schedule, is to play in Washington on November 15, and this game should prove one of the best in the schedule. Bucknell has proved popular with the local football fans, and if the date of the game with that institution can be changed to Thanksgiving Day, it is believed here that the State game will not be missed.

The football men had the first practice of the week at College park this afternoon, and in spite of the warm weather the men were worked hard. Coach Greene stated this afternoon that the varsity and scrub teams would line up against each other some time this week, but not before the middle of the week. The men were given practice in punting and catching punts and in tackling the dummy, and after the practice the coaches made them run a long distance. All the men are getting down in weight and are in good condition and all they need is a little practice to be in good shape. Manager Craig is endeavoring to secure a game for next Saturday with some minor team in this section. Waynesburg college was originally scheduled to play here, opening the season on Saturday, but when the game was cancelled no team was secured and the opening of the season was deferred for one week. If Manager Craig secures a game for Saturday, however, the season will be opened then.

Coach Greene is well satisfied with the candidates, but thinks there should be a little more weight on the line and to this end Sweet, who has been a candidate for center, may be shifted to one of the end positions and Loucks, who was sub guard last year, may occupy the center position. There are many candidates for the back field, but few of the men have had experience.

THE FOOTBALL LEAGUE.

Homestead Admitted, But Will Not Play Until Next Year—New York Wants a Chance.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The National Football league directors held a meeting in this city this afternoon to complete the schedule and take action on applications for franchises in New York and from the Homestead Athletic club of Pittsburgh. It was decided to begin the season on Saturday, October 4, and to close on Saturday, December 6.

The Homestead Athletic club was unanimously elected a member of the league, with the understanding that they would begin the playing season next fall, owing to inability of the club to secure a sufficiently strong team to represent them this season.

Two applications were received from New York, but as neither application was accompanied by a list of players, and there being some doubt as to New York being able to put a team in the field this year, no action was taken; but a special meeting will be held in the near future, when it is expected New York will be represented on the playing schedule.

The schedule of the championship games up to date follows: Saturday, October 18, Philadelphia Athletics vs. Philadelphia F. C. at Philadelphia ball park; Saturday, October 25, Philadelphia Athletics vs. Philadelphia F. C. at Columbia ball park; Saturday, November 8, Pittsburgh vs. Philadelphia Athletics at Columbia ball park; Tuesday, November 4, Pittsburgh A. C. vs. Philadelphia F. C. at Pittsburgh; Saturday, November 22, Pittsburgh A. C. vs. Philadelphia F. C. at Philadelphia ball park; Thursday, November 27, Pittsburgh A. C. vs. Philadelphia Athletics at Pittsburgh.

WILL BE FRIENDS AGAIN.

Pennsy Is Likely to Meet Lafayette on Field Once More.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—The University of Pennsylvania will probably resume athletic relations with Lafayette college which were severed two years ago by Penn, with no reasons given.

The athletic committee of the University of Pennsylvania will meet tomorrow and decide as to playing Lafayette here on October 11. Most of the members of the faculty advisory board favor the game with the Easton institution whose eleven has defeated Pennsylvania on two memorable occasions.

Will Hold Smoker Thursday.

The Knoxville A. C. on Thursday evening next will hold their athletic smoker, which previously had been advertised to come off Monday evening, September 22. All tickets held for Monday evening will be good on Thursday evening, the 25th inst., outside of the musical and local program. The contests between Kid Tyler and Tommy Dixon, Tough Reagan and Kid Brown will be quite interesting. The main event will be the feature of the evening, namely, between Bill Reardon and Jim Doyle at 133 pounds, Allentown Turner hall.

A ZENDA PLAY ONE NOVELTY IN THEATERS

"Rupert of Hentzau" Given Fine Production by Grand Stock Company.

STUART ROBSON AT THE ALVIN

Merry Farce, Melodrama, Vaudeville and Burlesque Attract Large Audiences at the Other Playhouses.

Grand—"Rupert of Henzau."

King Rudolph of Ruritania)
Rudolph Rassendyll ..... Wm. Ingersoll
Col. Sapt, Constable of the Castle of Zenda ..... Wilton Taylor
Count Rupert of Hentzau ..... Robert Elliott
Fritz Von Tarlenheim ..... Thomas Meighan
Lieutenant Von Bernenstein ..... Mace Greenleaf
The Count of Luzau, Rischenheim, Rupert's cousin ..... Lawrence Underwood
Bauer ..... James Cooper
James, servant of Rassendyll ..... Charles Abbe
Simon, the King's chief huntsman ..... Willis Martin

Mother Holf ..... Alice Gale
Helga Von Tarlenheim, wife of Fritz ..... Engel Sumner

Anthony Hope stands quite alone as a modern writer of purely romantic stories His "Prisoner of Zenda" struck a new and fascinating note in this style of literature. That the novel should be made into a play was quite natural. That it made one of the most spirited dramas that E. H. Sothern has had since he turned from comedy to romantic roles, is also admitted, being indeed the medium through which Sothern shook off the masque of the joker and became what he is, a leading American actor of serious roles.

Hope followed "The Prisoner of Zenda" with a sequel, which became immensely popular, largely because everybody wanted to know what had become of those charming and melodramatic people of Zenda. Rupert of Hentzau, who will be remembered was the name of one of Black Michael's followers, gives the name to the sequel play, which was dramatized by our own American E. E. Rose, after Hope's draft of the play was found impossible. James K. Hackett secured the piece and starred in it most successfully, but it has never been seen in Pittsburgh until yesterday afternoon and last night, when the Grand Stock Company presented it under truly fine scenic embellishments, to which, by the way, it lends itself readily, as Ruritania still remains unlocated outside of Anthony Hope's fertile brain. The play takes up the thread of the Zenda story pretty much as the book does. The dramatic interest centers around the return of young Rudolph Rassendyll to Ruritania to outwit the plots of Rupert of Hentzau, into whose hands has fallen a compromising letter from the queen to Rudolph. This he succeeds in doing, but not until the king has been killed by Rupert in his hunting lodge, to which he had gone.

The climax of interest is reached when Rassendyll and Rupert meet in mortal combat in the cellar of Mother Holf's home in Streslau. By a neat piece of swordplay Rupert is disarmed in the duel when he seizes a pistol, but not quite quick enough, for Rudolph is on him in a moment and by superior strength forces him to shoot himself through the head. As the people do not know of the king's death, Sapt, the old Zenda warrior, begs Rudolph to again become Ruratania's king, a position to which his love of Flavia strongly impels him. But while he is hesitating thus between love and duty, he is shot down by Bauer, Rupert's henchman, and so dies as the king to the people of Ruratania.

The stock company plays the piece effectively. It is too early in the week for them to have acquired the Hopean dash and spirit upon which the success of this character of play so much depends, but taken altogether their work is quite good. Wilton Lingerwell's part role is a difficult one but he plays it successfully, though there is present, when it should not be, a vein of comedy that mars the portrayal. Miss Taylor is gracious as the queen and in the third act appeared in a gown that was a beautiful creation of the modiste's art and a picture hat that fairly stunned her lady auditors by its beauty. Wilton Taylor is manifestly ill at ease as Col. Sapt. He blusters indiscriminately to hide this fact, however.

Robert Elliot does Rupert of Hentzau finely, giving just the proper devil-may-care spirit to this melodramatic villain of Zenda. Miss Minna Philips is effective as Rosa Holf, while Alice Gale and Engel Sumner do small parts well. The Fritz von Tarlenheim of Mr. Meighan is a distinctly admirable piece of work. In the third act, when he must announce the death of the king, he has a fearful double climax to deal with, but he pulled off the scene with dramatic force and intelligence. James Cooper appears in a new line of work and does it creditably. Mr. Greenleaf is manly and of all the leading characters, seemed to be most fully in the spirit of the play. Mr. Abbe is quietly effective in a role that gives him little chance, while Mr. Underwood plays Rischenheim most pleasingly.

The play is a dashing specimen of romantic melodrama, but interesting from start to finish.

Alvin—"The Henrietta."

Nicholas Vanalstyne ..... Mr. Edwin Holt
Dr. Parke Wainwright ..... Mr. Adolph Jackson
Hon. Augustus Wayne, Jr. ..... Mr. Stuart Robson
Bertie Vanalstyne ..... Mr. Stuart Robson
Lord Arthur Trelawney ..... Mr. Clifford Leigh
The Rev. Dr. Murray Hilton ..... Joseph P. Keefe
Waters ..... Mr. Walter Pennington
Musgrave ..... Mr. Cecil Kingstone
Mrs. Cornelia Opdyke ..... Miss Eleanor Barry
Mrs. Rose Vanalstyne ..... Miss Victoria Addison
Agnes ..... Miss Frances Graham Mayo
Lady Mary Trelawney ..... Miss Laura Thompson

Stuart Robin's revival of Bronson Howard's satirical comedy, "The Henrietta," at the Alvin last evening was attended by the same delight to those who heard it that it gave to theatergoers 15 years ago. They don't write comedies any more so good as Howard's keen satire of Wall street and the New York gambling mania. It is virile, full of humor of the kind that stirs one's risibles in a hearty, wholesome way and throws in a dash of tense tragedy at just the right time to keep your interest keyed up to the highest pitch. "The Henrietta" is a play of truly American construction, and its long life and the fact that it has power to please and hold the attention today just as it did a decade or more ago does not rest entirely in the personality of Stuart Robson, nor did the skill in the winning power of both Robson and Crane when they made it the most successful comedy on the stage of their earlier day. "The Henrietta" has won its way by force of its own merit.

Of course, it would seem odd to see any other "Bertie" than Robson. We were taught last evening, however, that there can be other Nick Vanalstynes than Crane. Much of the enjoyment of the Alvin audience grew out of the fact that Edwin Holt gave this fine old type of American millionaire so fine an interpretation. It was uncopied, but full of the jovial heartiness and bluff kindliness that we have learned to associate with the role. Mr. Holt has method, a fine sense of the humorous and plays the part so as to preserve admirably the fine poise of the opposite characters. Crane could have done no better.

Robson is the same Bertie. His staccato voice, his inimitable make-up, his delicate revelations of the inner character of this spoiled young blood of New York's millionaire class are as full of mirth and appeal as strongly to the sympathies as ever in the old days. The stage can not afford to lose either "The Henrietta" or Stuart Robson. There is nothing in sight to take their places. The company is adequate without being distinguished. The Musgrave of Cecil Kingstone is excellent. Miss Barry as Mrs. Opdyke is accurate, but lacks an element of sincerity and refinement that goes along with our conception of this dashing widow. Mr. Charles Lane plays young "Nick" well, and Mr. Keefe is excellent as the gambling parson, Dr. Hilton. Miss Victoria Addison makes a sweet Agnes, while the other feminine roles are fairly well taken care of, but not played with conspicuous strength. The stage effects are admirable. On Saturday evening next Mr. Robson will revive "The Comedy of Errors" for the first time in 10 years.

The rejuvinated Evil Eye made its first appearance in Pittsburgh this season at the Bijou theater last night. Although the weather was rather warm for local theater goers the great playhouse was well filled with people. The parquet was not crowded but nearly every seat in the balcony and galleries was filled. The show was not a new one to the patrons of the Bijou but it is quite an improvement over the last production presented here. It is a feature piece filled with fairly good, live specialties. The man with the Evil Eye is the central figure of attraction and a gaze from the ill lamp brought misfortune to all who came under it. The antics and actions of the two comic mutes Nid and Nod were features which the audience seemed to enjoy. It is the same old story of a killing, robbery and love affair in which the possessor of the evil eye plays a most important part. Richard J. Brown as Pelig Uno Kalsenheimer, a globe-trotting American, did his turn in good shape and appeared to make a very favorable impression. The soloists were possibly the poorest part of the show. There appeared to be very few good voices in the company and several members warbled in stage whispers. Brown's Mr. Dooley song, caught on with Nid and Nod and fairly well received. The horse marine band of women made a clever hit and it became necessary to respond to several encores. The scenery was especially attractive.

Empire—"Two Little Waifs."

Wayne Fleming ..... Jos. W. Walsh
Dr. Drake Young ..... Frank T. Wallace
Lyman Pendeville ..... A. J. Edwards
Richard III ..... Jas. McElhern
Milford Grace ..... Midward Lyon
Pike Bowser ..... J. D. Murphy
John Potter ..... Glen Parker
Officer Flanagan ..... Francis Pierlot
Officer Murphy ..... Wm. Pierlot
Nell (Mrs. Fleming) Della Morton ..... Helen Carrall
Pinkie ..... Edna Reming
Mrs. Abbey ..... Nora Denvar
Mother Bowser ..... Nell Gibson
Harry Fleming ..... Stanley Lamb
Gracie Fleming ..... Lolita Lamb

"Two Little Waifs" opened its week's engagement at the Empire last night and played to a very large audience.

It is a "heart" story, the exposition of the domestic infelicities of an innocent couple, built about several situations of intense melodramatic effect. Sometimes these scenes grew rather lurid but in their relation to the rest of the play the sensational element was somewhat done away with, and the crowd appreciated them at their full value. The scene in the second act in which little Harry Fleming enters the dive and rescues his sister, and at the same time foils the villain in his attempt to murder his father, was especially applauded.

Practically the entire cast is excellent. Miss Carrall in the dual role of Nell (Mrs. Fleming) and Dell Morton, the villain's assistant, was called upon to do some very rapid work, the exigencies of the scenes compelling her to do changes that would do credit to a lightning change artist. Joseph Walsh and Frank T. Wallace as Wayne Fleming and Dr. Drake Young, were both good. Walsh's make-up for his part being generally remarked. Richard III., a Bowery bum with aspirations to be a playright, was done excellently by James McElhern and his opposite, Pinkie, played by Miss Edna Reming, could not be improved upon. McElhern's mimicry of a girl describing her experiences in a drygoods store, provoked roars of laughter. The heavy part of the play was done very heavily by A. J. Edwards and it is hard to guess how Miss Nell Gibson got the idea that the voice she used as Mother Bower resembled that of an old woman.

Harry Lamb and his sister, Lolita, as the waifs, both possess dramatic ability to a surprising degree. The little girl is very coquettish and her acting captivated the audience. In fact the waifs were the whole show.

Academy—Merry Malden Burlesquers

The usual big Monday night audience greeted the Merry Maidens at the Academy last night and expressed its approval in boisterous applause. A lively curtain raiser called "A Bunch of Mistakes" opens the performance. It is up to the standard and the comedians keep the audience roaring with a lot of new stunts. Several new songs were introduced which will likely become popular this season. All the old numbers were well received and encored liberally. The Spencer Brothers head the list with an Irish comedy act. The Tourist Trio rendered several old time quartet songs and were encored. The Johnson Trio's sketch is on the rough house order and is called "A Birthday Party." Mr. and Mrs. Dan Right appear in a comedy musical act which teems with fun. The Nelson Trio perform acrobatic feats which are billed as marvelous and which are worth seeing. Nellie Hanley with new illustrated songs made her usual hit. The closing burlesque is named "The Bath Beach Burglary" is of the usual lively nonsensical order.

Duquesne—Vaudeville.

People who have not been on good terms with the world recently, should visit the Duquesne theater this week. The bill is clean, full of fun, and well balanced. The audience last night gave every indication that they thought they were getting their money's worth. Ida Melville, assisted by William Morrow and S. Young, leads the bill with the rural playlet, "Sis Hopkins' Sister." Miss Melville is a sister of Rose Melville, the original "Sis Hopkins," and kept the house in an uproar with bashful gyrations and ludicrous facial expressions of the sort that won her sister fame. Mr. Morrow, as a lightning rod agent, and Mr. Young as a backwoods farmer, did creditable work. Frank and Jen Latona are accomplished musicians and their skit, "The Musical Slaves," was the hit of the evening. The three Rio brothers are exceptionally clever and graceful acrobats and Tom Brown, the whistler, gave a remarkable exhibition by whistling two notes apparently simultaneously. Joe Flynn's funny songs and monologues won their usual favor and Richfield and Richfield fairly well repaid "Mag Haggarty's Father," do a delightful Irish sketch which reminds one of the Nawns at their best. Emmons, Emmerson and Emmons are pleasing in a knockabout sketch called "Only a Joke." Hyde and Seck have some well-illustrated sentimental songs. Notwithstanding that they were the last number on the program Stinson and Merton held the audience intact and compelled repeated encores by their ridiculous gibes and antics. The Kinetograph has some very good moving pictures.

PERSHING CAPTURES SEVEN MORO FORTS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MANILA, Sept. 22.—Up to Sunday the force commanded by Capt. John J. Pershing of the Fifteenth infantry, operating against the Moros in the island of Mindanao, had met with slight resistance in the Macin country and had captured seven forts, killed 25 and wounded 20 Moros. There were no American casualties.

Capt. Pershing's courier reached Brig.-Gen. Samuel S. Sumner at Camp Vicars today. The captain reported that he first moved on Goanan, where the troops took three forts. They then pushed on to Baynbao and captured two forts. From there the column proceeded to Sanir and captured two more forts. From Pantnan to Sanir, in the country dominated by the sultans of Cail and Rutig, and the two sultans of Macin, the column was frequently fired upon.

Capt. Pershing communicated with the Macin sultans, but they refused to recognize the Americans and remained obstinate.

ZERN DECLINES TO RUN.

Democrat Refuses Nomination for Senate on Republican Ticket.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Dr. J. G. Zern of Lehighton, the Republican nominee for the senate in the Twenty-second district, composed of Carbon, Pike and Monroe counties, today filed a formal withdrawal in the state department. This leaves the Republicans without a candidate in this district, although they may fill the vacancy within a reasonable time before the election.

Zern was defeated by J. T. Mulhearn of Lansford for the Carbon county indorsement at the recent Democratic primaries, Carbon being entitled to the nomination under the rotation system, Mulhearn was nominated by the district conference. There is a spirited rivalry between Zern and Mulhearn for the Democratic leadership in Carbon and after the former's defeat he was nominated by the Republicans.

QUAY AND ELKIN ARRANGE PLANS FOR CAMPAIGN

Itinerary for Attorney General's Speeches Agreed Upon.

TO TALK AT JOHNSTOWN SATURDAY

Judge Pennypacker, Charles Emory Smith and Gen. Latta Will Also Address the Meetings in the Conemaugh Valley.

By CHESTER D. POTTER,
Staff Correspondent.

Philadelphia, Sept. 22.—Chairman Quay and Attorney General Elkin met at the Hotel Walton this evening. Mr. Elkin's itinerary was discussed and several meetings agreed upon. The attorney general made a number of speeches last week, but has not spoken from the same platform as Judge Pennypacker. He will do so, however, next Saturday night at Johnstown. Besides Pennypacker and Elkin, Charles Emory Smith and Secretary of Internal Affairs Latta will be present, and it is possible that Senator Penrose may arrange to be there.

Advices received by Chairman Quay are to the effect that the Republicans of Johnstown intend their meeting to be a record-breaker in the way of crowds and enthusiasm. Gen. Hain is a warm favorite in Cambria county, and he alone would prove a drawing card. With Judge Pennypacker and Mr. Smith there will be eloquent "doings" on the Conemaugh.

Big crowds are also expected at the Beaver and Sharon meetings next Thursday and at Butler Friday, and from now on to election day Chairman Quay intends to keep things humming.

The rally in the Kensington mill district Wednesday night promises to be a monster demonstration. Judge Pennypacker, Senator Penrose and Gen. Latta will speak. Others will be announced later. It is possible that Gov. Stone will be one of the speakers, but nothing definite will be known until the governor arrives here tomorrow and consults with Chairman Quay. The chairman said tonight that he would be in Pittsburgh at the end of this week.

Chairman Quay will be given an opportunity on Wednesday to meet at close range the candidates in Philadelphia of the Republican party and the men of the organization who assist in the work of bringing about Republican majorities. The occasion is to be a meeting under the auspices of the city committee at the headquarters. Besides the members of the committe, the meeting will be attended by the chairman of the ward executive committees, the candidates on the county ticket, Senators Quay and Penrose, Mayor Ashbridge and Judge Pennypacker.

Insurance Commissioner Durham and Attorney General Elkin had a conference tonight. The Union party county convention met tonight and nominated candidates. Little interest is felt in this organization.

SOCIETY

MR. AND MRS. H. S. STEVENSON will be at home this afternoon at their studio in Wood street. Their weekly at home day has been changed from Saturday to Tuesday. The artist and his wife returned to Pittsburgh a few days ago from a long summer sojourn in Europe, it being Mrs. Stevenson's first trip abroad, though Mr. Stevenson spent many years in study and travel in Europe and another year being located in Algiers. He is contemplating a permanent residence abroad after possibly four or five years more at his present studio in Pittsburgh.

The past summer has been spent by Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson almost entirely on the coast of Brittany, and they returned with a score of sketches and studies which will be developed during the winter into paintings of the quaint and picturesque fisher people of Brittany and the rugged scenery of the Norman coast.

It was at Cancal, Brittany, that Mr. Stevenson did most of his painting, and there he and his wife stayed for weeks, Mr. Stevenson painting from a model, a characteristic fisher woman of the little town, whose French was very bad French and who thoroughly believed that their lack of understanding was due entirely to defective hearing. The people of Cancal are devoutly religious, that, aside from their quaintness of costume, being their most noticeable characteristic. In the evening during the summer they gathered on the beach and sang, their voices, though untrained, being especially sweet and pleasing.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson went to Cancal, by way of Saint Malo, after spending a couple of weeks in Paris before the closing of the salon. Their afternoons during the two weeks in Paris were spent at the Salon, the mornings being occupied in sight-seeing, shopping and short trips to interesting suburbs. They avoided for the most part the frequented routes of travelers, choosing some of the little known but equally interesting and picturesque places.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson visited Chester in England, then Stratford-on-Avon and London, finding London in the turmoil incident to the coronation festivities two days before their postponement, they hastened to Paris, going thence to Cancal, the little fishing town. Returning, they visited Orkney, Jersey and the Isle of Wight, and passing through England, sailed for home, arriving in Pittsburgh to open their studio last week.

Famous Paintings Photographed.

The exhibition of photographs of the paintings owned by the Carnegie art galleries, and especially prepared for the public schools, was opened yesterday in the High School building, Fifth avenue. The photographs hang upon the walls of the large reception and entrance hall leading to the rooms of the central board of education, entirely surrounding the large room. Each photograph is admirably finished, mounted upon dark gray board and framed in heavy black. Not only was special care taken to secure the best effects but some of the photographs are even more interesting as works of art than the paintings, many bring out beauties heretofore unseen in the paintings, and all furnished a splendid adjunct to the study of contemporaneous art as seen in the Carnegie galleries. Beneath each photograph is an inscription, giving the name of the work, the artist, and a list of his other works.

So much interest was awakened in the exhibition, which will remain in the High school for two weeks, and then be transferred to another school building. Many visited the school yesterday, whose only object was to see the photographs. On leaving the High school the collection, consisting of about 100 photographs, all mounted and framed, will be taken to the Beltzhoover school for two weeks and then continue its round of visits, remaining in each building a couple of weeks. Though owned by the Carnegie art galleries it has been prepared especially for school children and teachers and placed under the care of Mrs. M. E. Van Wagoner, the supervisor of drawing in the Pittsburgh schools. An arrangement will be made whereby schools, teachers and others who desire to secure copies of any of the photographs may do so at the actual cost of printing.

The schedule of schools to have the exhibition, as thus far arranged, is as follows: High school, Fifth avenue, until October 6; Beltzhoover, October 6 to 20; Allen, October 20 to November 3; Barre and Brashear, November 3 to 17; Wickersham, November 17 to December 1; Morse, December 1 to 15; Humboldt, December 15 to January 5; Birmingham, January 5 to 19; Bedford, January 19 to February 2; Knox, February 2 to 16. The photographs may been seen any day, except Saturday and Sunday.

An Oil City Wedding.

Oil City society is greatly interested in the coming marriage of Miss Jessie Cecelia Hasson to Dr. M. Delmar Ritchey, of Pittsburgh. The wedding invitations were sent out today and a large number found their way to Pittsburgh.

Miss Hasson is the youngest daughter of Capt. William Hasson, prominent in the councils of the Democratic party of the state. He is now serving his seventh term in the lower house of the state legislature and is a member of the Democratic state committee.

Dr. Ritchey is a Philadelphian by birth and has only made his residence in Pittsburgh since his graduation from the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania, three years ago. He has offices in the Heron building and lives at Walnut street and Shady avenue. He is also an alumus of Lafayette college. While at the university, he was prominent in athletics and captained the Varsity baseball team in 1898. He was with the football squad for two years and only last week refused an offer, made by the Western University of Pennsylvania to coach this year's football team. He is a member of the Alpha Mu Pi Omega fraternity and of the Allegheny County Medical Society.

The wedding is to take place from the St. Joseph's church in Oil City on October 8. Preceding this a dainty wedding breakfast is to be given the bridal party at the home of the bride's parents, No. 111 Bissel avenue, Oil City. James Hasson, a brother of the bride and the 20-year old mayor of Oil City is to be best man, while her sister, Miss Mary, will be the maid of honor. The ushers for the occasion are Edward L. Cheyney, formerly of Philadelphia but now a resident of Pittsburgh, Phillips Hill and Dr. Davis A. Deane of Pittsburgh, John Koehl of Easton, Benson B. Sloan of New York, and Eugene Liebel, of Oil City.

After November 1 the couple will be at home at No. 5723 Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh.

Coming Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harmar D. Denny arrived in New York on Saturday after an entire summer abroad, having sailed late in June. They were accompanied by their sons, Harmar and Archibald. Mr. and Mrs. Denny are not expected home in Allegheny until Friday or Saturday of this week, staying in the east to place their elder son, Harmar, in St. Paul's school, Concord. The younger son, Archibald, will remain another year at the Allegheny Preparatory school.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCrea, who spent some time this season at Magnolia Beach, have reopened their house in Ellsworth avenue, Shadyside.

Miss Lilly Frederick, of Rippey street, went abroad early in the summer for an extended tour of Europe and came home last week.

Mrs. Thomas D. Chantler is expected home from Atlantic City the latter part of the week. Mr. Chantler returned last week and later the children came home from Saegerstown, where they have been spending the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Strean, of Kansas City, are visiting Mrs. Strean's father, David J. Thomas, of Pacific avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Archer have returned to the city from Sewickley where they have been spending the summer at the Elmhurst Inn. They will live at the Iroquois, Forbes street. Mrs. Archer, who is well-known as the singer, Mrs. Florence Lancaster Archer, has entirely recovered from her recent serious illness.

Rumbaugh—Murfree.

At the country home of the bride near Mt. Pleasant, the wedding of Miss Dorothea Gertrude Rumbaugh and Lyman D. Murfree of Terra Haute, Ind., took place on Wednesday afternoon, September 17, at 2 o'clock. Nearly sixty of the relatives and friends of the bride and the bridegroom were guests at the wedding, the officiating clergymen being the Rev. Mr. Swickard of Mt. Pleasant, and the Rev. Mr. Gongaware of Greensburg. The bride, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Rumbaugh, wore a gown of white corded silk and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. F. L. Gress, of Greensburg, was the matron of honor, and was gowned in white organdie over blue silk, carrying a bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Two young sisters, Miss Mabel and Miss Anna Rumbaugh, were flower-girls, another sister, Miss Florence Rumbaugh, playing the wedding march. The best man was E. B. Adams, of Kansas City, Mo. After the ceremony, luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Murfree are enjoying their wedding trip now, and will be at home to their friends after October 15 in this city, their new home being in the East End.

Studying American History.

The Monday Club of Carnegie held its second meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. J. C. Cubbage yesterday. Mrs. William R. Errett was leader of the day, and the subject for discussion was American History. Mrs. A. S. Hogan read a paper on the "First Decade, 1789-1799." The paper was very interesting and was ably discussed by Mrs. Hosack, Mrs. George Faunce, Mrs. E. G. Husler and Mrs. B. C. Cubbage. Minute talks on "The First Congress," "First Cabinet," and the "First Judiciary," were given by several of the women. A general discussion of current events was next on the program. The hostess served dainty refreshments, and the meeting closed with music. The next meeting will be held on Monday, October 6, at the home of Mrs. J. M. Duff, with Mrs. Robert Justus leader. It will treat with the "Second Decade."

Wedding Invitations.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Finley K. Ong of Forbes street and South Negley avenue, East End, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Ong, and Roy B. McKee of North Negley avenue. The wedding will take place on Tuesday evening, October 7, the Rev. Henry T. McClelland, officiating. It will be followed by a reception and supper. The bride and bridegroom will take a southern wedding trip. They will be at home after November 15 at the Beechwood, Forbes street and Shady avenue. Miss Ong is a Pennsylvania college girl.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Miss Lillie Robinson, daughter of the late Gen. James S. Robinson of Lexington, Ky., and Henry Oliver, son of David B. Oliver of Termon avenue, Allegheny, has been announced. No date is assigned for the wedding.

Notes of Society.

A meeting of the Permanent Civic Committee of Western Pennsylvania will be held on Friday afternoon, September 26, at the Twentieth Century club, Duquesne way.

Mrs. Franklin P. Iams has cards out for a luncheon on Monday afternoon, September 29, at 1:30 o'clock, at her home in Sheraden, her guests to be the members of the Women's Press club.

The meeting of the joint committee of Women's clubs will be held next Monday for the presentation of the reports of the various education and committees conducting the summer playgrounds and the vacation schools.

The usual winter series of entertainments given by the Crafton Church club at Crafton, will be continued the coming fall and winter. The first meeting will take place on Monday, October 6. This will make the fourth year the club has given a series of entertainments during the winter.

President's Day will be observed this afternoon by the Travelers club in the assembly rooms of the Central Young Women's Christian association. Besides the social features of the afternoon, there will be an address by the president, and a paper, "The Physical History of Mexico," by Mrs. Benjamin F. Veach.

INQUIRIES ANSWERED.

Mrs. H. A. Gregg writes: You published some recipes for making the different kinds of bread. Tea buns, Parker House rolls and cinnamon cake were among the list. I had the paper but away, but it was accidentally destroyed. Could I have the same again? Please find inclosed addressed envelope. I would like them very much. I thought them fine.

We would be very glad to grant our correspondent's request, but could not possibly reprint the same list. We would suggest that you apply at the newspaper office for the recipes, as the paper is no doubt on file. If not, kindly let us know and we will republish one at a time until you have them all. Space or time will not permit more than this.

Cold Catsup.

Mrs. J. M. writes for a recipe for making cold catsup. Take half a peck of ripe tomatoes and chop fine, using a food chopper if you have one. Chop three white onions and cover both with salt and let stand two hours. Chop fine four heads of celery, two red peppers and a cup of horseradish, mix all these with half a cup of white mustard seed, one tablespoonful ground cinnamon and a quart of vinegar. Drain the tomatoes and onions and mix in with the other ingredients. Seal up in bottles.

Summer Safeguards

It is the duty of the head of every household to provide against the health-perils peculiar to summer. Promptness in the treatment of those maladies would often prevent serious illness, perhaps death.—MUNYON.

Munyon's Homoepathic Home Remedies are the surest safeguards against disease. If they are not in the house they should be bought and kept on hand. In case of sudden development of the symptoms of any trouble the proper cure for that trouble should immediately be obtained at the druggist's.

For indigestion and dyspepsia take Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure. For headache from heat, or caused by nervousness or prostration, take Munyon's Headache Cure—it will cure in three minutes. For biliousness, jaundice and liver troubles Munyon's Liver Cure affords quick and permanent relief. For disorders of the blood, and eruptions that are chiefly annoying in summer, take Munyon's Blood Cure. Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is felt usually in one to three hours and in a few days cures entirely.

Munyon's Pile Ointment speedily and positively cures all forms of piles and is especially efficacious in alleviating the pain intensified during hot weather. If you are subject to colics, cramps and diarrhoea always be fortified with Munyon's D. D. and C. cure. Munyon's Constipation Cure has relieved thousands of the most obstinate cases where everything else has failed.

A separate cure for each disease; at all druggists, 25c a vial.

An Important Discovery in Diet.

At the Battle Creek Sanitarium Food Laboratory researches in dietetics have been conducted for over a quarter of a century by skilled physicians and chemists, including very extensive experiments made on animals and human beings. One of the most interesting discoveries is the importance of dextrinizing the starch of foods as a means of preventing and curing indigestion, especially acidity, gastric catarrh, constipation, brain fag. Tickets to children, weak muscles in adults. As a result of thousands of experiments a new choice food has been produced called Toasted Wheat Flakes, sweetened with Malt Honey, which is thoroughly dextrinized and actually prevents and cures these maladies. This sweet, toothsome food may be eaten moist or dry. Know the genuine by a picture of the Battle Creek Sanitarium on the package.

Local Stocks Were Quite Dull and the Market's Tone Easier

BANK SHARES REACHED NEW HIGH MARKS

Three Advances Were Scored in Selling Price and Three in Bids.

INDUSTRIAL ISSUES WERE DULL AND LOWER

Electric Seconds and Window Glass Declined—Crucible Steels Steady, but U. S. Steels Were Off—Brewing Lower.

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange yesterday was quieter than it has been in some days, the dullness at times being quite pronounced. The tone was also somewhat easier and several declines appeared in the closing prices. The feature of the day's business was again in the banking group, six members of which made new high records. Of those, People's National bank scored the biggest gain, jumping $30 a share to $480, only 35 shares coming out at that price. Enterprise National bank was firm and in demand at $125, a gain of $2 and a new high mark. Western Savings and Deposit performed a similar feat by advancing $5 to $113. With $114 bid for more afterwards. In the quotations Columbia National bank went up to $416 bid, Pennsylvania Trust to $276 bid and Dollar Savings Fund and Trust to $285 bid, all being new high records. Federal National was quite active but unchanged at 144, while Real Estate Trust Company, which sold over 230 shares, closed with a loss of $5 at 312. Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company also declined $5 to $245, but met with strong support at the loss. North American Savings Company was $1 lower at $121. Allegheny Trust at $160 and Colonial Trust at $506 were quiet but firm and unchanged.

In the industrials there was not much doing. Westinghouse Electric seconds lost ¾ at 112 and Window Glass common was exceptionally dull and ¾ lower at 61½. The preferred was unchanged at 90½. The question of the dividend on the common is beginning to stir up considerable interest, but there does not appear to be much doubt it will be promptly paid. Crucible Steel was steady but unchanged at 23¾, while the preferred, which was very dull, was firmer and ¾ higher at 86¾. United States Steel common was easier and on sales of 500 shares declined ⅜ to 40⅞. The preferred lost $1 at 91 for a small lot. Fire Proofing common was dull but firm at 39¾, while the preferred was unchanged at 39¼.

River Coal issues were steady, the preferred advancing ½ to 41¼. Pittsburgh Coal was fairly active and closed ¾ higher at 30⅜. The preferred was very dull and unchanged at 92. Brewing issues were somewhat active and easier. Philadelphia Company issues sold for the first time in over a week, the common losing ⅝ at 49¾ and the preferred ½ at 49½. Westinghouse Airbrake was lower and bonds were dull. In the quotations Peoples Natural Gas made a new high record by advancing $1 to $101 bid.

PITTSBURGH FEATURES.

Sales Pittsburgh stock exchange 4,138 shares and $6,000 bonds.

Seven new high records were scored.

Enterprise National bank made a new high mark at $125.

Western Savings and Deposit bank scored a new high mark at 113 and closed at 114 bid.

People's National bank jumped $30 to $480, a new high record.

Real Estate Trust declined $5 to $312.

Westinghouse Electric seconds closed at 112 and Westinghouse Airbrake at 184.

Window Glass declined to 61½.

Crucible Steel closed at 23¼ and the preferred at 86¾.

United States Steel closed at 40⅞ and the preferred at 91.

Brewing and Philadelphia issues were lower.

FINANCIAL DRIFT.

St. Paul was noticeably well supported.

Masten & Co. bought Crucible Steel common. Hill sold.

Hill & Co. sold Westinghouse Electric seconds to Sproul & Co.

R. C. Hall was a heavy seller of Real Estate Trust Company.

The United States Steel meeting has been adjourned until October 6.

The absence of pressure in industrial stocks excited favorable comment.

Reedings were weak on the absence of any show of a stock movement.

The first sale on the board was 100 Crucible Steel common at 23¾.

The sub-treasury at New York transferred $250,000 to New Orleans today.

Hill and Masten & Co. sold Enterprise National bank at 125, a new high record.

Masten was a heavy buyer of Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust at the close.

R. C. Hall bought Manufacturers Light and Heat at 78½ and offered it 80 at the close.

The last sale of the day was 10 Real Estate Trust Company, which Hall sold at 312 to Miller.

Hill & Co. were large buyers of Pittsburgh Coal common. Robinson Bros. and Sproul & Co. sold.

George Ayres of Henry Sproul & Co., returned yesterday from a week's visit to Gettysburg.

Robinson Bros. bought Peoples National bank at 8475 and Hall bought it at 480, new high records.

McMullin sold Philadelphia Company preferred at 49½ and E. D. Gartner & Co. sold the common at 49¾.

The Norristown & Main Line Connecting Railroad Company, owned by the Reading, will issue $250,000 bonds.

John B. Barbour, Jr., was the heaviest seller of the Pittsburgh Brewing preferred at 47½. Holmes was the largest buyer.

Miller sold 200 River Coal common at 12¼, Doty & Sutton, who have been bidding that stock up, selling 100 to Miller. Miller also sold the preferred to Schmidt.

Theodore Price, who has excellent means of information in regard to cotton, is sending out dispatches claiming very bad crop conditions. The southwestern belt will suffer from this and especially Texas Pacific.

The foreign exchange market is following the eastern money market quite closely, advancing as did bankers' bills at sight and declining when money rate goes up. At present the exchange market is a shade firmer, with demand sterling, $4 85.70 bid and $4 85.70 asked. Money closed in New York at 2 per cent.

Messrs. W. E. Woodend & Co. of 25 Broad street, New York, are extending their wire business, reaching the west and southwest. They claim that their facilities are such that they can supply the most prompt and satisfactory execution of orders. They issue an able and interesting weekly letter on the trend of the market.

Wall Street Brokers' "Tips."

I would not sell stocks at this level.

Missouri Pacific looks like going lower.

There is a tip around the street that St. Paul is to be put up above 200 by today.

After thinking that we were out of the woods the money is no worse than any day yet. Unless we get relief prices will break.

Insiders are persistently selling speculative lines on all firm spots. Some things worthy bull attention are: Buy Pennsylvania, Atchison and Pacific on drives; hold T. C. I.; prefferred; average Steels and Tennessee Coal and Iron—Josephs.

THREE EAST END RESIDENCES ARE SOLD FOR $52,500

They Belonged to D. W. Markell and Are Just Completed.

B. & O. INVESTS $20,000 AT GLENWOOD

Charles Donnelly Bought Commercial National Bank Property for $195,000—$50,000 Rumor in Penn Avenue.

The best deal in high-class residence property reported for some time came to light yesterday. The properties sold are three 10-room center hall brick houses, formerly belonging to D. W. Markell. The three brought a total of $52,500, or $17,500 each. All the sales were closed on Saturday afternoon, an evidence that such residences are in good demand. The houses are hardly completed and are among the best new residences in the East End. They stand on lots facing 50 feet on the east side of North Negley avenue near Hays street and having a depth of 100 feet. One of the houses was sold to a prominent East End business man, who will occupy it as a home, and the other two were purchased for investment.

B. & O. Makes Another Deal.

The Baltimore & Ohio railroad has made another purchase of property at Glenwood, where it is securing a large amount of real estate for its shops and yards.

The last purchase was made through the agency of Joseph M. Dixon, who bought 10 frame houses of six and eight rooms each standing on lots 24x144 feet. The houses are situated on the north side of Lytle avenue near Renova street. The exact consideration is not known, but is said to have been close to $20,000. The houses are to be torn down at once to make way for the property lying between its tracks and the river and extending from Glenwood to Hazelwood, and has options on a number of other residence properties which are likely to be closed this week.

Commonwealth Clears $75,000.

Curiosity as to who was the purchaser of the Commercial National bank property in Fourth avenue, the sale of which was noted in The Gazette Sunday, was satisfied yesterday when it was announced on good authority that the buyer was Charles Donnelly, who takes the property for an investment.

The exact price was $195,000 instead of $200,000, as reported. This makes the rate of sale $6,500 a front foot. The sale is another example of the almost phenomenal increase in realty values during the past 20 years in Pittsburgh. In 1883 the bank bought the lot for $35,700. A few years ago the present building, a two-story pressed brick structure with stone trimmings, was erected for the exclusive use of the bank. For some time the property as improved has been carried on the bank's books as worth $120,000, and it was put in at this figure when the Commercial National bank was allied with the Commonwealth Real Estate and Trust Company, which negotiated the sale for the bank. Hence the Commonwealth is ahead $75,000 by the transaction, after having held the property only a few months. The purchaser's interests in the deal were looked after by C. G. Paul. It is said that the new owner already has a prospective tenant who will pay him $10,000 a year for the property on a long lease.

Reported Sale of $50,000.

The sale was reported yesterday of the Edward Simpson property at No. 614 Penn avenue for $50,000 or $2,500 for a front foot. The lot measures 20x112 feet, extending back to Exchange alley. It is improved with a good brick business block which adjoins the Anderson hotel on the east. The purchaser is said to be a furniture firm, which will occupy the property.

The Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad has purchased from Bridget McNally a property on the southwest side of Carson street, near Sarah street, Twenty-fourth ward, for $14,000. The lot measures 25x65 feet and is improved with a two-story brick building.

A large plot of vacant frontage on the north side of Irwin avenue, near Dallas avenue, Twenty-second ward, has changed hands for a consideration of $12,000. It was formerly owned by William H. Sykes and was bought by Charles E. Gallagher. The plot includes four lots, having a total frontage of 143 feet, with a depth of 100 feet.

A $60,000 Hospital for Uniontown.

Uniontown is at last assured of a modern city hospital, the contract for its proposed building having been awarded by the architect, Harry S. Bair, to Eggers & Graham of Uniontown. The contract price was $60,000. The hospital building will be a pressed brick structure with stone trimmings, and will accommodate 75 patients. Work will be started at once.

New houses are likely to be plenty in Elliott borough before January 1. The contracts have been awarded for a total of 175 houses, which are being built under the direction of the Lawton Mortgage Company, which financiered the project. John G. Taslo has the contract for 50 cellars, to be completed November 1, and these are being made at the rate of one a day. The houses are to be brick and frame structures, containing from five to eight rooms each, and will be sold on the easy payment plan.

Only one building permit was issued yesterday. This was granted to Harry Johnston for the erection of a frame house in Industry street, near Beltzhoover avenue, Twenty-first ward, to cost $2,500.

Purchasers Will Build.

St. Clair: George W. McDonald sold for Hays & Noble to a local builder seven lots, 40x130 feet each, in Onyx and Hays avenues, Lower St. Clair township, for $7,000. The purchaser will improve with seven frame houses, to cost $2,500 each.

Allegheny: The City Realty Trust Company sold for the Watson Land and Improvement Company, in its plan in the Fifteenth ward, Allegheny, the following lots: To Mrs. A. Laura Hartley, five lots, 25x100 feet each, on the north side of Valley street, near East street, for $1,500; to Thomas J. McDonald, two lots, 25x135 feet, in Dunlap street, for $700; to Samuel V. Crossman, two lots, 25x135 feet, at the corner of East and Creek streets, for $1,100; to John Swan and J. E. Harrington, five lots in Howard street, for $1,900. The first three purchasers will improve with frame residences and the last two with a warehouse.

Allegheny: W. L. Scott & Co. sold for A. E. Gill to P. J. Ritter a 7-room house, on lot 20x100 feet, at No. 205 West End avenue, Allegheny, for $2,650.

Bedford avenue: John Gibson sold to Ursula Schwendeman an improved lot, 19x56 feet, at the northeast corner of Bedford avenue and Cassatt street, Eleventh ward, for $3,700.

McPherson street: Jonas R. McClintock sold to Sarah E. McAvoy an improved lot, 30x140 feet, in McPherson street, Twent-first ward, for $7,000.

Shetland avenue: Caroline Sacher sold to William H. Loch a lot, 46x85 feet, on the northeast side of Shetland avenue, near Larimer avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $2,000.

Blackadore avenue: Edith E. Sill sold to Frank J. Milligan a lot, 25x110 feet, in Blackadore avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, for $1,350.

Manston street: Silas P. Sadler sold to John W. Westhead a lot, 75x150 feet, on the north side of Manston street, Twenty-third ward, for $3,000.

Building permits were yesterday issued to Harry Johnston, for a two-story frame dwelling in Industry street, Thirty-first ward, to cost $2,350; to Jacob Schaule, for a one-story frame dwelling in Emerald street, Thirty-first ward, to cost $900, and to J. J. Forsythe, for a one-story frame office in Broad street, Nineteenth ward, to cost $350.

JUDGE STOWE'S ADVICE IS TO KILL BURGLARS

Court Says Murders from This Cause Are a Good Thing.

RAFFAELO MAZORANO IS NOT GUILTY

Jury Finds Italian Who Shot Colored Man in His Room Was Justified in Protecting Himself. Should Never Have Been Held.

Raffaelo Mazorano was yesterday acquitted of the murder of William Mosby, colored, in Judge Stowe's branch of criminal court. Mosby was killed by Mazorano as he was entering the latter's home on August 24. Mazorano confessed the killing to Judge Frazer when he was taking out naturalization papers.

He testified he was awakened on the night Mosby was killed by some one striking a match in his room. Sitting up he saw Mosby searching the pockets of his trousers. He asked him what he wanted, and when the colored man approached him he fired. Mosby fled from the house and later was found some distance away in a dying condition by a policeman.

Judge Stowe in instructing the jury said that a man was justified in shooting a burglar in defense of his property. He also said in his address that it would be a good thing if more murders would result from this cause. The jury was out but a few minutes and returned a verdict for the defendant.

Ruff Azidores was found guilty of felonious assault and battery before Judge Stowe. He was accused of stabbing James Camp in a fray that occurred July 19, at Wylie avenue and Washington street. Camp received several bad cuts. Azidores admitted the stabbing when on the stand, but said it was in defense of his brother's life, who he said was beneath Camp when he ran to his assistance and drew his knife.

In the eight cross suits for assault and battery against Mary and Daniel McCarthy and Joseph O'Donovan the jury returned verdicts of not guilty and divided the costs.

Judge Collier after hearing the verdict directed that the alderman and office costs in six of the informations be stricken off, as two were sufficient to cover the cases.

The parties became involved in a family quarrel and the suits which were entered before Aldermans John B. Jones of Homestead and Amos Horner of Mifflin township were the outgrowth.

A. H. Sanders was acquitted of the charge of embezzlement, and Samuel E. Donaldson, the prosecutor in the case, sentenced to pay the costs.

Joseph McCutcheon, charged with pointing firearms, was found not guilty, but sentenced to pay the costs.

Nick Zelgler, who was charged with a nuisance and keeping a ferocious dog, was acquitted and the costs divided between the defendant and John Hagan, the prosecutor.

Michael McFarland and Austin Byers were acquitted of the charge of larceny, and the costs placed on the prosecutor, John Sharpe was acquitted on the same charge.

The following pleaded guilty and were sentenced by Judge Collier: Richard Moore, embezzlement, one year to the workhouse; Dolman Green, felonious assault and battery, two years to the workhouse; R. W. Moore, embezzlement, six months to the workhouse.

The trial of Joseph Allen, charged with the murder of Achsah King, which was expected to come up this week, has been postponed one week on the motion of District Attorney Haymaker.

DONAHOE IS OUSTED.

Jury Decides Selectman from Fourth Ward Is Not Entitled to His Seat in Councils.

The jury in the quo warranto proceedings brought in common pleas court No. 3 against Peter J. Donahoe to oust him from his seat in select council from the Fourth ward brought in a verdict against Donahoe.

When called for cross-examination yesterday, Donahoe testified he had been registered, but did not vote in Franklin in 1897.

After the case was argued the defendant's lawyers submitted two points. One was that acts alone are not sufficient to constitute residence, but it requires acts and intentions combined. Judge Evans affirmed this point. The jury was out but a short time.

INDICTED FOR MURDER.

Grand Jury Returns a True Bill Against Andrew Haskins.

The grand jury returned a true bill for murder against Andrew Haskin, charged with killing Ella Dennis, who died in the Allegheny county home from injuries received in a fight in Deckers hollow, September 10.

It approved the petition for a bridge over Millers run in South Fayette township.

The following true bills were returned: Larceny, John Kovenski, Fred F. Fowler, Frank Patterson. James O. Fisher, Charles Stevenson, John Graves, Mike Zebally, William Lipmickl, John Brendal; false pretense, David Gretts; illegal liquor selling, Andrew Decker (2); felonious assault, William Llwellyn; assault and battery, Hannah Zeagsandt, Peter Reithinger, Allie Brown, Blanch Conn, B. L. H. Dabbs, Frank H. Dabbs; robbery, Quilla Hamilton; aggravated assault and battery, Larry Glenn, Minnie Lagosko, Alexander Mays; larceny by bailee, John H. Fiskard; burglary, Harry Braun; misdemeanor, Maggie Clipp, E. Hibber; malicious mischief, Patrick Kane; embezzlement, H. H. Brinker; felonious assault and battery, John Petraio.

Ignored bills—Misdemeanor, John Mesco; larceny, Joseph Anivitz, Catharine Barkowski; assault and battery, Owen Welsh, W. F. Rhey, Hettie Moore; false pretense, Mike Langhlin.

FINE STANTON AVENUE RESIDENCES NEARING COMPLETION.

The four residences shown in the above cut are situated on the north side of Stanton avenue, about 200 feet west of Negley avenue, Nineteenth ward. They were designed and built under the personal supervision of the owners, Architects E. M. Butz & Co., limited. Each house stands on a lot 50x150 feet. The houses are all of the center hall type, the walls being of pressed brick with stone trimmings. On the first floor are the parlors, library, dining room, kitchen, waiters' pantry and china closet. The second floor is taken up with four large bed chambers and two tile bathrooms. The servants' quarters and linen closets are located on the third floor. In the basement, which is cemented and plastered, is a first-class laundry outfit. The houses are finished in hard wood throughout and all the rooms have hard wood floors. They are also provided with warm air heat, gas and electric lights, speaking tubes and electric bells. In point of taste and convenience these residences are the equal of any similar priced houses in the city, and their location makes them very desirable for high-class homes. The work of frescoing has just been completed, making the total cost of each house about $25,000.

VICE CRUSADE INCREASES THE CITY'S REVENUE

Police Fines Now Yield $4,000 Instead of $1,100 a Month.

SLOT MACHINES WILL BE RAIDED

Supt. McAleese Says That the Tolerated District Will Not Be Enlarged to Accommodate New Arrivals.

The crusade against disorderly houses, speakeasies, opium joints, gambling resorts and other dens of iniquity on the hill district and other parts of the city beyond the limits of Fourth avenue prescribed by Supt. McAleese is being vigorously prosecuted. Slot machines, operating gambling devices and exposing improper pictures will be included in the contraband list of evils at which the crusade is aimed.

Supt. McAleese yesterday expressed himself well pleased with the work of his subordinates. He said that his orders to the police had borne good fruit and that he had noted that the number of promoters of vice had been materially reduced since the activity shown by his bureau.

"We shall continue to harass these people until they are driven out of the business," declared the superintendent. "The fines that have been imposed are heavy in comparison with those placed upon those charged with the same offenses during former administrations. Moral suasion counts for nothing when dealing with the keepers of gambling resorts and disorderly houses. The only way to effect any good is to go after their pocketbooks, and this we have been doing in a manner most severe.

Big Increase in Fines.

"The revenue of the police bureau is convincing proof of this. Fines accruing from offenses of this class previous to January 1, last, yielded on an average about $1,100 a month. During my term of office the police received explicit instructions and as a result our revenue last month exceeded $4,000. Some months the fines reach $4,500. These figures tell the story whether or not we are accomplishing the results desired by those who would have a clean city."

"Is it true that the number of houses of vice in the district below Fourth avenue will be increased as a result of the crusade?" asked a reporter for The Gazette.

"Most emphatically, no," replied Supt. McAleese; "for the reason that there is no room for any more of them. That part of Pittsburgh is congested now and every week or so commercial houses in that section need more room and drive out the dives to make way for shops, offices and warehouses. The Wabash railroad has performed a good service in this line. A score of the vilest dens in the city were dismantled to make way for the railroad's improvements. One of these houses in First avenue was notorious all over the country. The district is constantly narrowed down until but a few blocks will be left to them, and then they can be placed under more scrutinizing surveillance than ever."

"How about the slot machines, superintendent?"

Slot Machines Barred.

"Slot machines will be classed in the same category. The police last year succeeded in removing the most obnoxious of these, and I think it is safe to say that there are no gambling machines in the city operated by the penny-in-the-slot scheme. There are quite a number of moving picture machines, but these have been planned for diversion and innocent amusement, and, so far as I have been informed, the operators of the machines are observing the law.

"There is likely to be a misunderstanding regarding what constitutes a violation of the law in a moving picture machine. We cannot reasonably suppress a slot machine where copies of works of art are shown. A nude picture is not necessarily offensive. It is likely to be a copy of some celebrated work of art such as are exahibted in some of the world's greatest galleries and before the most refined people, and it would look prudish to make a fuss about it. On the other hand, where suggestive photographs are displayed, and the motive is of the most apparent impropriety, we shall promptly have the proprietors prosecuted."

A unique memento of the crusade was found yesterday when the police raided the house of Fay Ross at No. 542 Fourth avenue and confiscated an opium lay-out, including a magnificent ivory pipe valued at $75. The raid was conducted by Lieut. J. M. McAvoy and Policemen Joseph Ruminski and Edward O'Malley. The proprietress and six men and six women visitors were arrested.

Opium Layout Confiscated.

Lieut. McAvoy said that Fay Ross rented rooms to girls. When arraigned for a hearing one man failed to appear to claim his forfeit and four of the others were discharged. B. T. Wertheimer, one of the visitors, was charged by the police with having no visible means of support and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, with the alternative of a 90-day term at the workhouse. The girls were fined $1 and costs each and the proprietress was fined $100. The opium lay-out was found in the room occupied by one of the girls.

A squad of police from station No. 3 raided an alleged speakeasy at No. 2836 Ridge street, kept by James Robinson, colored, and arrested five visitors. Among the visitors was Matthew Geffen, white, a quarantine officer supposed to be guarding a case of smallpox in the same house.

NO MEETING WAS HELD.

Officers of Denny Organization Are Still Out of City.

Nothing was done yesterday to arrive at a mutual understanding between the committees of the two window glass workers' organizations. The question to be submitted is still in abeyance from the fact that one of the officials of the Demy organization is still out of the city. The general opinion among the window glass workers of both organizations is that a mutual agreement will be reached, and that all the blasts will start on October 15.

A leading worker of the Demy organization said yesterday: "There should be no trouble in fixing up this matter. Burns has considered our interests and the committees should have no trouble in settling the question. We will all be benefitted, and I think that the matter will be arranged without friction."

PETITION GOES TO MRS. SCHENLEY

SIGNATURE TO COMPLETE GRANT BOULEVARD.

As She Has Favored This Improvement No Objection Is Anticipated.

Director McCandless has sent to Mrs. Mary E. Schenley in London the petition for the opening of Grant boulevard through her property north of Fifth avenue, and the end of the great improvement, which has cost the city more than $1,500,000, and is still involved in expensive litigation, is in sight. Wernberg, Sheehan & Co., the contractors for that part of the boulevard between Seventh and Center avenues have refused to submit their differences to Director McCandless, as arbiter, and the matter will be fought out in open court. The suit was filed over a year ago.

Grant boulevard, from Center avenue to Fifth avenue, is to be 40 feet wide. The cost of getting this part of the great roadway into shape will be comparatively little for the reason that the grade can easily be reached, and there will not be any litigation. The road will not be straight from Center to Fifth, as was the original intention, but will lead in a southwesterly direction for half the distance and will then turn south to Fifth avenue. There has already been introduced in councils an ordinance making the roadway 40 feet in width at this point.

Mrs. Schenley Favors It.

There is no doubt that Mrs. Schenley will sign the petition, as she never opposed the improvement. Edward M. Bigelow talked to her about Grant boulevard before it was projected, and she agreed that it should go through her property without any claim for damages. At that time the city was opening its streets under the act of 1851, and the petition of the majority of the property owners in number and interest had to be secured under that law.

As Mrs. Schenley owns nearly all the property through which the remaining unfinished section of the boulevard must pass, it was necessary under that act that she sign. There are two other property owners and they have both signed the petition. It is expected that she will sign and return the petition by return mail.

As soon as her signature is secured the work of finishing the boulevard can be begun. St. Pierre street is really a part of the boulevard, and its name will be changed to Grant boulevard.

That part of the boulevard from Seventh to Center is tied up in court, and it was learned yesterday that the case will come to trial, as there seems to be no basis upon which the city can compromise with the contractors.

No Compromise Possible.

Wernberg, Sheehan & Co. sued the city for over $400,000 for extras, and the city endeavored to get the suit compromised.

Some time ago Director McCandless wished to get the matter off his hands, and it was proposed that the matter be laid before him as arbiter, and that he make a final decision which would bind both sides of the case. The contractors took the matter under advisement, and finally declined to submit the matter to further arbitration, as they had a hearing before George W. Wilson when he was director of the department of public works, and he ruled against them.

City Recorder Brown has a committee on Grant boulevard, composed of eminent citizens, Robert Pitcairn being chairman of the committee. This committee endeavored to get something done, but was never able to do so, as it can only act in an advisory capacity.

"The case will come to trial," said Director McCandless yesterday afternoon. "I endeavored to get it settled, but there is no basis upon which we can settle, as the contractors are extreme in their demands. They refused a proposition that I sit as arbiter. They said they had a hearing before Director Wilson, and did not want another one. They are willing to settle, if we allow them the entire amount of the bill, and that the city cannot do, in justice to itself."

AFRAID OF HIS WIFE, SLEPT IN STATION

Escaped from Home Alive by Intervention of Neighbor—Woman Chased Police Away.

An able-bodied Wilkinsburg man requested to be locked up and spend the night at police headquarters because he was afraid of his wife. A. P. Lewis is a hard-working man, who lives in North avenue, near Swissvale avenue, Wilkinsburg, and is employed in East Pittsburgh.

He went home Saturday night about 11 o'clock and discovered his wife, Ella Lewis, and a party of friends in the kitchen drinking. As soon as he made his appearance he was chased up stairs. After a few minutes he asked permission to come down for a drink of water.

The permission was given, he says, but when he got to the foot of the stairway his wife drew a revolver and threatened to kill him. He grappled with her and threw her to the floor, where she grabbed him by the right arm with her teeth and was trying to use her revolver, when his cries for help attracted a young neighbor, who separated the couple.

Lewis went out the door and down the street like a deer and into the arms of Chief of Police Ross and Officer Kessler. They returned with Lewis to the house and demanded admittance. They were told to keep away or they would be shot.

The officers postponed further action until yesterday. When they arrived at the home it seems that the woman, who had subsequently met her husband, had thoroughly cowed him and had induced him to hide her. She was found, however, and brought before Burgess James Horner, where she was fined $25, in default of which he sentenced her to six months in the workhouse.

LOOKING FOR HIS BRIDE.

Harold Colleridge's Fiancee Started Here to Marry Him, but She Cannot Be Found.

A romance developed at the public safety building in Sixth avenue yesterday, when Harold Colleridge, an anxious lover, requested Police Superintendent John McAleese to help locate Miss Effie Snyder of Harrisburg, who left her home last Wednesday for Pittsburgh, to become his bride. Miss Snyder is 19 years old, five feet five inches tall and weighs 130 pounds.

Colleridge said he had arranged to meet his fiancee at the Union station last Wednesday. Miss Snyder left her home at No. 516 North street, Harrisburg, to take the 9 o'clock train over the Pennsylvania railroad for Pittsburgh. She failed to arrive here as arranged, and on Sunday Colleridge went to Miss Snyder's home, where he learned she had started for Pittsburgh according to their plan. Colleridge is stopping at the Hotel Savoy, in Liberty avenue, near Union station.

The police have also been asked to locate two other persons who are reported missing from their homes. Frank Finger, 17 years old, is reported missing from his home, No. 5107 Lotus alley, Eighteenth ward, since last Wednesday. When Finger left home he had 180 German marks in 20-mark gold pieces and $12 in United States money. He was well dressed and bears a scar on his nose and on the index finger of his left hand.

William Wagner, a steam fitter of No. 910 West Diamond street, Allegheny, is reported missing from his home since last Monday, when he went out to buy meat and failed to return. He is 35 years old.

BIG DINOSAUR IS UNEARTHED FOR INSTITUTE

Carnegie Museum Party Makes Valuable Find in Wyoming Quarries.

IS RARE PREHISTORIC MONSTER

Skeleton Shows It to Have Been Over 20 Feet Long—Prof. A. A. Peterson's Expedition Very Successful—Others Do Well.

The success of the four exploration parties of the Carnegie museum, now in the far west in search of fossils, skeletons and mineral specimens for the institution, is unprecedented in the history of the museum.

This is the fourth year exploring parties have been sent out, and their finds this season already exceed in number and value those of any previous two years.

The latest discovery is the most valuable of the year, and it will furnish the greatest acquisition to the museum since the discovery of the famous skeleton of the diplodocus. Prof. O. A. Peterson has just written to Dr. William J. Holland, director of the museum, that his latest find is a complete skeleton of a carnivorous dinosaur.

The discovery was made about a month ago in the Laramie deposits of the western base of the Black Hill mountains, near New Castle, Wyo., and Prof. Peterson has succeeded in unearthing the complete skeleton, which will be shipped to the museum during the coming winter.

Is a Rare Specimen.

Scientists the country over will be elated over the find. While there are a few specimens of the carnivorous dinosaur in several museums in the world they are rare, and this is the first of its kind to be unearthed for the Carnegie museum.

The carnivorous dinosaur in all probability belonged to the genus laelaps. It was a gigantic flesh-eating animal, about 25 feet long. It is armed with powerful claws from four to five inches in length and numerous huge, sabre-like teeth, similar to those of the sabre-toothed tiger that flourished in the same region in late tertiary period.

The bones of the new skeleton just discovered are of a light chocolate color and in weight are a little over two tons. The skull, limb bones, pelvis and a greater part of the back bone are intact and the frame is said to be one of the best preserved ever discovered.

Will Send Photographs.

Prof. Peterson is now at work getting the different parts of his find in good shape and will take photographs of the discovery to be forwarded to Dr. Holland. It will take some time to get the skeleton in readiness for shipment. It was found in a strata of sandstone.

The skeleton will be received in Pittsburgh in the first car of the western consignment, but will not be unpacked this year. The shortness of space and the amount of work already ahead of the men in the museum makes it necessary to keep the new find for some time before it can be arranged for exhibition.

Prof. Peterson was in charge of the first party to leave Pittsburgh last spring for the western quarries. He left on Easter and from the first his work has been successful. He has three assistants, and the party is camped in the mountains near New Castle, Wyo.

The work of all the parties in the field has been so gratifying to Director Holland this year that they will not be called in as early as usual, and it will be the middle of November before the first party returns to Pittsburgh.

NOT A CANDIDATE.

Chief Humphreys Says He Will Not Run for the Recordership.

Miles S. Humphreys yesterday morning arrived in Pittsburgh from the convention of the International Association of Fire Chief Engineers at New York. Regarding his reported candidacy for the recordership in 1903, Chief Humphreys said:

"I am not a candidate for any office, neither have I any present intention of resigning as chief of the bureau of fire. What the future may develop no man can say. It is true that some friends have suggested or asked in a confidential way why I am not a recordership candidate. That is as far as it went. I suppose the same people who were mentioning me for congress are now my backers in this matter. I have not said a word about the position to anyone." Chief Humphreys would not, however, make a decided statement as to his attitude if the recordership became an imminent possibility.

Regarding the big convention of fire chiefs, of which he has been president for two years, he said: "I have now given up my office in this organization and have become a private in its ranks. For eight or nine years I have been either on the executive committee or both other titles in it. Chief Croker of the New York department now succeeds me as president. We had at the convention representatives from England, Ireland, Canada and Australia. Chief Purcell of the Dublin department will visit Pittsburgh this week to inspect the local department."

Elephant on Rampage.

VINCENNES, IND., Sept. 22.—An elephant on exhibition at the Elks' Carnival here went on a rampage last night and broke through a window at the home of Clarent Duncan, a candy manufacturer. With its trunk the elephant upset a bed on which Mrs. Duncan and two children were sleeping and hurled one child across the room. The child was badly bruised.

A CAT'S INTELLIGENCE.

Doesn't Animals Can Scent Danger.

A cat will refuse to drink coffee, but will drink and thrive on Postum Food Coffee.

Mrs. Alice Gould of Maywood, Ill., says: "Coffee drinking made me very much run down, thin and nervous and I thought I should have to give up my work.

"I was induced to try Postum by a friend who suffered four years from severe sick headaches lasting for several days at a time, who said that since using Postum Coffee she had been entirely free from an attack. I found that by making Postum according to directions it was equal to coffee in flavor.

"It is now six months since I began drinking Postum and I have gained 18 pounds in weight. It has built me up and I feel like a new person.

"We all drink it now, even to the cat, who is the pet of the family and it is funny to see him drink his bowl of Postum Food Coffee every morning. We often try to get him to drink coffee, but he has the good sense to refuse it."

BANKERS WANT GOVERNMENT TO BUY IN BONDS

Strong Pressure Being Brought to Bear Upon Secretary of Treasury Shaw.

WESTERN MEN NOW JOIN WALL STREET

Secretary Shaw Is Expected to Give More Attention to Them Than to Easterners — Money Market Needs Relief.

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Sept. 22.—Strong pressure has been brought to bear upon Secretary Shaw to induce him to resume purchasing government bonds. The information received by banking interests here leads them to believe that the secretary is almost persuaded to recede from his well-known prejudice against this particular form of monetary relief. The opinion that the United States treasury will soon offer to purchase bonds is so strong, indeed, that several New York bondholders have corralled an amount of these federal securities variously estimated at between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 worth, which will be promptly tendered for redemption if Mr. Shaw's expected bid be satisfactory.

New York bankers have found, it is said, that western bankers have the greater influence with Secretary Shaw, and it is through them that the New York interests have been urging their views. Further purchases of government bonds, to be sure, will reduce the supply available as a basis of national bank circulation. This consideration has seriously opposed Mr. Shaw to the idea of renewing redemptions. What Wall street wants, however, is immediate relief.

Selling Orders Accumulate.

The shock of seeing a deficit in bank reserves caused a considerable volume of selling orders to accumulate over Sunday, and under the selling arising from this account stock values declined an average of about 1½ per cent in the first hour of trading today. Some important houses and operators had to pay 12 and 15 per cent for call loans. The banks called loans right and left, and the disturbed borrowers had to find renewals as best they might. A great deal of private money was attracted by the fancy interest rates. The maximum rate today was 20 per cent, the minimum 7. The bulk of the day's business was at 12 per cent.

It is whispered that the banks are disposed to adopt more drastic measures to check speculative activity at this time. They take the position that operators have ignored frequent warnings to ease up, and have gone on bulling stocks, just as though there was no danger of a monetary stringency. The inexperienced observer in Wall street is likely at this moment to be greatly confused by what he hears. He is told on one hand that the monetary situation is very bad, indeed, and on the other hand that it is not as bad as on the surface it seems. The truth probably would be found to lie between these two extremes.

Heavy Bank Deposits.

The statement of the national bank of the city of New York at the close of business September 15 shows that of the 44 institutions 35 show gross deposits in excess of $5,000,000 each. Three of the banks that are unable to report deposits in excess of that figure are comparatively new institutions. Between the comptroller's calls of July 14 and September 15, 24 institutions show a decrease in loans and 20 gains. In the matter of deposits 22 report gains and 222 losses. The National City bank heads the list in the matter of gross deposits with $151,423,717, a gain of $7,218,000. The National Bank of Commerce comes second with gross deposits of $101,120,659, as compared with $95,605,000 on July 16.

Outlook in Steel and Wire.

Manufacturers of steel and wire products are more than pleased with the season's outlook in their line of trade. Buyers have been holding off pending definite information as to the outcome of crops. Now that satisfactory crops in general are certain, the demand for steel and wire products is increasing. Reports from the west indicate that the farmers are planning extensive improvements. They have a great deal of money from last season, and with bumper crops now reaping in their fields, they do not hesitate to appropriate liberally for improvements.

A convincing sign of the mental attitude of farmers is found in the circumstances that there is an extraordinary demand among them for so-called "compacted" wire fencing. This means that many farmers are too prosperous to consider the economy of producing their own fence posts and stringing wire themselves.

Bullish on Colorado Fuel.

Experienced stock market observers are inclined to feel a bit bullish on Colorado Fuel and Iron stocks, for no other reason than that too much bearish literature has been appearing. Somebody seems to have been going out of his way to promote pessimistic views on the future of the property. Critical persons who have inspected Colorado Fuel and Iron property are enthusiastic as to its future. They lay particular stress upon the value of its coal deposits, which are said to be of much greater account than the public has been permitted to know. The anthracite coal in the Colorado fields is declared to be equal to Lehigh anthracite. There are many persons who confidently expect the United States Steel Corporation sooner or later to take over the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company. Indeed, it is believed in some quarters that the recent visit of the Gates party in trying to get control of the properties is that it might be turned over to the steel combine.

The Colorado Fuel and Iron holds a strategical position and is the natural provider of iron and steel products for the western country, as well as the orient. The Gates people had very little to say about the property lately and the opinion grows that the contest for control is not likely to be renewed this year in its former violence.

Big Demand for Vaults.

The prosperity of the iron and steel industry is even reflected in the banking business. Bankers say that manufacturers of safes and vaults have sufficient orders on their books to keep their respective works busy for another year. Said a cashier of a prominent Broadway bank:

"A short time ago we leased the ground floor of a new building near our present quarters. We should be doing business in it by this time, but unfortunately will have to wait until the manufacturers are able to supply us with a vault. This will be at least a year. But in one sense of the word we are fortunate, as many banks cannot be accommodated inside of 18 months. The increase in the number of banking institutions throughout the country, the tendency of banks already established to bring their fixtures up to date, and increased deposits, which necessitates more vault space, are responsible for the big demand for vaults."

News from The Mines

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—Advices from Silverton, Col., note the uncovering of 12 feet of ore at the bottom of the shaft of the Copper King on Boulder mountain. Assays show $55 in gold and silver. Chunks of grey copper and ruby galena from the recent find in the Hercules give returns of $6 to $10 gold, 650 to 825 ounces silver and 35 to 45 per cent lead.

Owing to lack of water the P. & A. mill at Chloride, Ariz., has suspended operations. Work will begin at the Schuylkill mine next week.

It is estimated that the output of the Klondike this season will be about $11,000,000. This is away below expectations, but the region has ceased to be poor man's diggings, and prospectors are seeking new fields. Many small claims will be consolidated next season and operations conducted with improved hydraulic plants. The yield of Nome this season will aggregate $8,000,000.

In the Alta, at Telluride, Col., nine feet of ore is disclosed in the face of the drift that averages $4 gold, 24 ounces silver and 14 per cent lead. The mine is owned in Milwaukee.

While prospecting the placer ground at Hahns Peak, near Steamboat Springs, Col., it was discovered that a small strip at the upper end of Poverty Bar was very rich. It is predicted that the output of the placers next season will come up to the record of early days.

A dispatch from Salt Lake that gold bullion valued a $10,000 has arrived from the Annie Laurie, the gold mountain on which it is said the Venture Corporation of London has an option of $5,000,000, and that dividends are likely to begin next month.

Ore is being received at the smelter of the Bingham Copper and Gold Company, Salt Lake Valley, from the Seven Devils district, Idaho, which averages 20 per cent copper and $7 in gold and silver.

F. A. Heinze and associates have the Gold Hill near Parrot, Mon., under option for $40,000.

Anthracite coal has been found in the Boulder district, near Contact, Mon., and a party is out searching for the lead.

The Jumbo at Buffalo Hump, Ida., has a chute of free milling ore 200 feet long exposed that mills from $250 to $300 a ton. English and Australian capital has been invested in the property.

The Metal Market.

Marked weakness, due to the usual heavy offerings and light demand, developed in both the home and English markets for tin today, the session closing with prices at bottom, the local market showing a 35-point decline and London a break of £2 7s 6d. Spot here closed at $25 95@26 05, and at London at £119, with futures there at £116 5s. Sales reported here included 5 tons at $26 05 and 15 tons for future delivery at $25 90.

Prices of copper also reflected great weakness of undertone in both markets, following free offerings and flat demand. The price of lake in the local market ruled off 5 points on the inside price, 25 to 35 points on standard and 15 points on electrolytic and casting. Standard closed at $10 65 bid; lake at $11 60@11 75; electrolytic at $11 25@11 40; casting at $11 35@11 45. London declined £1, spot closing at £52 18s 3d and future at £52 6s 3d.

Lead ruled quiet and steady all around, being quoted at 4¼c here and at £10 18s 9d at London.

Spelter was steady and unchanged here at 5½c and abroad at £19 2s 6d.

The local market for iron was quiet but steady at unchanged prices. Quotations nominal. No. 1 foundry northern, $23 00@25 00; No. 2 foundry northern, No. 1 foundry southern and No. 1 foundry southern soft, $22 00@23 00. Glasgow closed slightly higher at 58s 3d, and Middlesboro unchanged at 52s 9d.

BUYING ORDERS KEEPS MARKET FROM BREAKING

Selling Scattered and in Lots Too Small to Do Much Damage.

STILL CLOSE IS DULL AND HEAVY

Strength of Supporting Element Proves Big Surprise to Observers—Banks Are Contracting Loans Reluctantly.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Sept. 22.—There was a spasm of liquidation in the stock market this morning and a somewhat feverish and irregular movement during the rest of the day. This was inevitable after the showing made by the banks on Saturday of a deficit of over $1,600,000 in the reserves required, but the comparatively small effect in the market and the persistency with which efforts were renewed to advance prices the moment there was the slightest relaxation in the selling pressure were again surprising to all observers. The selling was somewhat scattered in its origin, as shown by the comparatively small size of the selling orders. The buying orders, however, were concentrated and in many cases were for 1,000 shares and upwards, indicating the large resources of the interests supporting the market. Considerable inroads were made upon prices nevertheless, Missouri Pacific being a conspicuous sufferer with a loss of 3¼. During the latter part of the day that stock scored a full recovery and St. Paul was at one time 2 over last week. Another flurry in the money market to 20 per cent sent prices off at the last and made the closing heavy. A feature of the trading was the bidding up of the old Burlington stock to 210 without bringing out any offerings, as practically all the stock has been retired in exchange for the joint bonds. The last sale was in April at 194¼.

Just to Show Cheapness.

The advance in the bid today seemed intended as an additional demonstration of the comparative cheapness of St. Paul. The money market was decidedly feverish all day, as might have been expected. A small amount was loaned at the opening at 7 per cent, but the rate ran up quickly to 15 per cent, reacted to 10, then rose again to the highest at 20 per cent. The banks are under practical necessity of contracting their loans in order to repair the deficit in their reserves, but the process of contraction seems to be done reluctantly. There was no apparent purpose to push the process beyond the actual necessities of the situation created by the reserve deficit, and preparations for additional future inroads upon cash reserves were not perceptible. There was no symptom of distrust or lack of confidence in credits, and the disposition to lenders, including the banks, seems to be to keep at loan every available dollar they can muster, trusting to future contingencies to check or offset the actual drains upon their reserves.

Shows Some Relief.

The sub-treasury statement today showed some slight relief from this drain in the shape of a contribution of several hundred thousand dollars by that institution to the banks. This was due to a decline from the recent average of customs collections to large pension payments and the additional disbursements of government interest. Small parcels of Klondike gold arriving on the Pacific coast are made immediately available by telegraphic transfer and the $1,000,000 shipment from London is expected to arrive by the middle of this week. On the other hand, $300,000 was transferred today through the sub-treasury to New Orleans, and the sharp fall in sterling exchange was met by a rise in the price of gold and in discount rates in London. From interior centers reports are of advancing money rates. Effective measures of relief of the local money situation remain, in short, to be found.

Bonds were easy, but not very active. Total sales, par value, $4,025,000. United States 2s coupon advanced ¼ and the registered 2s 1 per cent on the last call.

Talked About in Wall Street

[BY PRIVATE WIRE TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Herald this (Tuesday) morning says:

There was considerable apprehension in the stock market yesterday over the money situation, but the feeling made itself apparent only at the opening and toward the close of the session. The monetary situation following the deficit in the surplus reserve was the sole governing influence of the day. Railroad reports were of an excellent character, but crop advices in reference to cotton and the late crops of the northwest were somewhat unfavorable, and corn, wheat and cotton advanced sharply, but neither the favorable nor unfavorable developments received any attention in the security market, in view of the position of the associated banks in the matter of reserves. There were numerous diverting movements in the market, but no trace of public interest.

In view of the disagreeable developments in Saturday's bank statement, liquidation and reactions were expected, and both materialized, but the relative strength of the market was remarkable in view of the circumstances. After the opening break, prices recovered rapidly and then lapsed into dullness, with a sagging tendency. There were unmistakable evidences of pool support throughout the list, and a sharp upbidding of St. Paul served, as it has many times in the past, to steady the list. In passing it may be said to have had greater influence than the diverting movement in United States Leather common, which performed some clownlike antics, to the general disgust of the entire street, which was in no mood for foolish demonstrations.

The periods of the day were naturally coincident with the intervals when call money commanded the highest rates. These were at the opening, when call rate touched 15 per cent, and near the close, when it loaned at 20 per cent. The reassuring statement of bank officers concerning the money situation had an excellent effect, particularly as through a long period the rate held around 8 to 10 per cent. After all, however, the fact that liquidation was not urgent after the opening break, and that the important interests were sustaining the general list, exerted the chief influence in allaying nervousness. If prices were openly supported, traders argued, the big men must certainly be assured of the soundness of the underlying situation, and they took heart in consequence.

Lower prices came lower with the decline, extending to as much as a full point, and foreigners sold extensively. Arbitrage houses thought that most of the sales really originated from this side. They had, however, a decided influence on the demand, sterling rate being one of the influencing causes of the late recovery.

Treasury Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $218,538,427; gold, $130,726,765; silver, $14,585,702; United States notes, $4,247,545; treasury notes of 1890, $72,598; national bank notes, $4,532,; total receipts this day, $1,907,934; total receipts this month, $35,825,191; total receipts this year, $138,736,695; total expenditures this day, $1,245,009; total expenditures this month, $20,445,690; total expenditures this year, $129,372,178; deposits in national banks, $129,525,685.

The Banks and Treasury.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Special.)—In redemption of checks drawn by depositors of gold at the Sanatck assay office, today's official records show that the sub-treasury paid out Saturday $1,427. Total thus paid since Friday, $5,132, against $7,489 for the same period a week ago. Total payment by government to New York banks for the day, $2,810,000. Payment by banks to government, $2,284,900. Balance on the day's transactions, $526,000, paid by government to banks. Total net payment by government to banks since Friday, $918,000, against $904,000 paid by banks to government for the corresponding period a week ago.

IN THE OIL FIELDS

When Butler county runs short of sensations at the county seat it flashes up one in the oil fields, and just now interests most of the holders of territory in the old Greenlee & Robinson district, in which there has been quite an active speechley sand development for more than a year. The new strike, owned by the Devonian Oil Company of this city and located on the A. L. Starr farm, when drilled into the fourth sand last Friday, developed a strong flow of oil in that formation. When only a few feet in the sand the pay was tapped and the well began to flow at the rate of 30 or 35 barrels an hour. Mr. J. R. Leonard, president of the Devonian company, stated yesterday morning that the well was holding up at 25 barrels an hour. This is No. 2 on this farm and it is surrounded on all sides by Speechley sand wells except to the east. Those familiar with surroundings think there is room for a small fourth sand pool.

It has been several years since the Butler county talent has developed a gusher of so much promise. The territory in the vicinity of the Starr farm is now all under lease and has been since the Speechley sand excitement began. It is more than probable that the new well shows a western extension to the old fourth sand cross belt, which attracted so much attention more than 25 years ago.

Lower Southwest Gusher.

In the Folsom district in Wetzel county, West Virginia, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled in its No. 9 on the Genius Robinson tract and has the best producer in that development. The well was drilled into the Gordon pay last Saturday night, and started to flow at the rate of 20 barrels an hour, and at the end of the first 24 hours placed 700 barrels to its credit. On the same tract No. 18 has been completed and is producing 80 barrels a day. No. 18 has been drilled in and is producing 130 barrels a day. It has not been completed and may increase its production when drilled deeper.

On the east side of the development the Delmar Oil Company and Greenlee's No. 1 on the Asa J. Joe farm has increased its production to 250 barrels a day.

In the Pine Grove district the South Penn has shot No. 4 on the W. J. Creswell farm and No. 5 on the Mary R. Long farm, increasing their production from 10 to 50 and 2 to 60 barrels a day respectively.

In the extreme northeast end of this district E. H. Jennings & Bros. have drilled in a test on the James McIntyre farm, located on Steele run, three-quarters of a mile south of their good producer on the Amos Sidel farm, and about the same distance north of the producer drilled in by the South Penn Oil Company on the Martin Dulaney farm last week. The McIntyre test produced 150 barrels the first 18 hours from the Gordon sand. These three producers open up a considerable extension to the Pine Grove development, and makes room for a larger number of wells.

On Fullen Timber run J. C. Trees & Co.'s Big Injun sand discovery on the Francis farm is producing 250 barrels a day.

The Keener Sanders.

In the Keener sand pool on Big Knot run the Three Joes Oil Company's No. 1 on the M. L. Gowell farm is holding up at 225 barrels a day. The other old wells, 10 producers, have an aggregate production of 1,800 barrels a day. On Rock run Mallory Bros. & Co.'s M. C. Gorrell has declined to 250 barrels a day.
